On publishing the "last well and testament something which he had not said; and the other was, tells us that his mission has been, indeed a political that we wished to take time for examining into the one. letter itself, to determine, from a careful perusal of it; the true position which he and his party are to occupy. We wel knew that a portion of those had been heretofice his most ardent support ers had determined to throw saids all that Mr. Clay had held sacred in politics, in order to come before the People under a new name; and we wished to see how far Mr. Claywas disposed to sanction this system of imposition and fraud upon the People; if he could atonice excrince all his chorished principles of government, in order to secure, if nossible, their votes, We have not believed that Mr. Clay was the man to do this. The steady and uniform support which he has given to all those measures which constitute his famous American System-a National Bank, a high Protective Tariff, a splendid system of Internal Improventate by the General Government—no one of which he has been disposed to refer to as an "obso-

by which we are authorized to say that his views have undergone no change. But we look back a little, and find that, even when in this city, the "ruling passion" was too powerful to be controlled. He could not look upon Pittsburgh, her present greatness and prosperity, and revert to the past, without identifying that greatness and prosperity with his poculiarly favorite ideas of political economy. We recor to his tour to the eastern cities; and there we those who, like himself, have given out no indications of a charge, in regard to their former cherished deza of the duty and policy of the Government .said there; but it requires no great stretch of imagination to come to a conclusion upon the subject.—
Lovers tell not to others the little endearments practised by themselves in their secret meetings; and yet be must be indeed verdant who cannot come to a conclusion of the Nation, we may mention that Lord Wallscourt, an association of Mr. Clay and his old unchanged and who is, at present, in Paris, observing the exertions and they love him because he is so. He is fairly beform the country: to be taken as he is, or not taken at all. No new issues are before the People-or none which have fairly been regarded as such; and if there are any, on these Mr. Clay is fully and unequivocally tted. We know where to find him upon both.

These are, the so-called "Wilmot Proviso," and the direction of the justice and constitutionality of the war with Mexico. Opon the subject of the Proviso, Mr. Clay can adopt to course at variance with that of the most distinguished statesmen of the Democratic party. He says "every State has the supreme, uncontroled and exclusive power to decide for itself, whether slavery shall cease or continue within its limits, without any exterior intervention from any quarter. And, says he to his fellow-citizens at Lexington, I "disayuw, in the most positive manner, any desire on our part, to acquire any foreign territory whatever, for the purpose of introducing slavery into it. Such a motive lass often been imputed to the slave States." Therefore this question, if made an leane in the approaching contest, cannot be adopt ed by Mr. Clay without manifest inconsistency. In relation to the justice and constitutionality of the war-if his friends shall choose to make that an issue, he and they will be met, in a manner that will show them how unavailing are all their efforts to render edious, measures called for and sanctioned by the voice of their countrymen. Let them identify themselves as a party, if they choose, with the vernment of Mexico. Let them sustain that counour government, and our fellow-citizens. Let them prove, if they can, that their countrymen, and their government, have been the wrong-doers. It they shall prove this, they will then occupy a position, from which they may be enabled to discern their hope for the success of all their other schemes-so often defeated by the firmness and deliberate judgment of the People. But the position which, alone, the scheme of the nativity of Louis Philippe, which they can occupy, in order to make this discovery, may be found in the same work. is that of panic and distress pervading our land. We may not see as clearly as some do; and may, herefore, he mistaken; but, in looking abroad over the country, we see no indications of distress, nor any material from which they can create a panic.

We therefore look upon their defeat-notwithstand ing the calculations of Mr. Clay's steadlast friends, ed candidate, we recognize a struggle for principles. This must be the case, if he shall be nominated by the Federal Convention in June ; and, whether he shall be nominated or not, a character will be given at one time principal engineer of the Baltimore and Effect filleen hundred. This is a solemn matter for conto it, which, so far as the Democratic party is concerned, must operate to their advantage. No con- this community the exertions now being made to desideration can influence the Federal party to reject his claims, but that of FFAR to go before the country under the banner of their principles; and if they shall attempt to deceive the People by coming beore them under a mask, they will, we think, be no more likely to succeed.

Mr. Clay's Mission. We presume that even the most bitter opponents of the Democratic party, will not now assert their helief, that Mr. Clay's object in visiting the East, was Notwithstanding his own report to the contrary, not a political one. DEAF AND DUMB ASYLUM .-- It seems that the Pitte been converted into an asylum for the Deaf and Dumb On Sunday evening, a decent looking young man applied at the Mayor's office for permision to stay one hear, and was lame. His request was complied with! What would become of the homeless if we had no watch house? It is indeed one of the most useful establishments in the city. Poor men and women who have no homes, no friends, find there a resting place; the lunatic is put within its walls, for safety and protection; those afflicted with disease find re-Hank Eye of the 30th ult., estimates the number of fuge there; the criminal is put in the same cellar on

We have no sympa thy with those who denounce such work as unne cessary. Improvements in this line, as in all oth ers, tend to excite a taste for the elegant and beau tiful, and thus is refinement introduced. Be The Philadelphia Bulletin cries " shame o 'ittsburgh," after copying a notice of a certain distressing case that occurred here, a few days ago .-Now, we claim the right to make such exclamations; and would suggest to our Philadelphia neighbor to attend to the poor and distressed in his own vicinity. If all be true that we have heard, there are several people in that city whose hearts would be made glad by a little out door or in-door relief.

ar Col. Richard M. Johnson has announced that he has concluded to run as a no-party candidate for Governor of Kentucky. We have always entertain ed a good opinion of the scar-covered Hero of the Thames, but we must say, this movement of his maerially alters that opinion. We trust that the Colonel, upon reflection, will see the absurdity of the position in which he has placed himself, and consent to withdraw his name.

Almost .- On Sunday two jolly fellows went out on a tour of pleasure, and came back with eyes lown, heads light, and trembling limbs. Though hey drove-a tractable and amiable horse, he ran wild on several occasions; and when in Ohio street took a start and almost ran over "two ladies and a baby." The Police interfered and had one or both of the lads arrested; but doubtless they'll take the ride out next Sunday.

Mr. A. McCammon, who is familiarly know to our citizens, has opened a Boot and Shoe Store on Wood street, near Fifth, opposite Davis' Auctistore. His stock is very large, well selected, and is of the best manufacture in the country. We take great pleasure in recommending him to the patron age of our friends in this city and elsewhere. Another Larceny .- About noon yesterday the office of Wesly Grier, grocer, corner of Smithfield and Water, was entered while the clerks were absent, the safe door (which was not locked) was opened, and the little drawer which contained the money and valuable papers, was picked open, and rob of its contents. No one is suspected.

We are requested to suggest to our citizens the propriety of calling a meeting to adopt some measures in relation to a reform in the police system It is useless to spend words in private denunciati of any wrong, while the people are free to speak out publicly what they think. If a reform can be brought about it will be by public meetings of citi-
