REVOLUTIONARY OCTOGENARIAN GONE.-Judge James M. Marshall, son of Col. Thomas Marshall, commander of the 3d Virginia regiment in the War of Independence, and eldest surviving brother of Chief Justice Marshall, died at his residence in Farwhich may be raised to alleviate the present necessi-ties of the most destitute. Very respectfully, your ob't servit, THOMAS M. HOWE.

L Sessions of the Frace, in and for the county setting theny: The petition of John Waison, of the Third Ward, city of Pittsburgh, in the comity aforesnid, humbly sheweth. That your petitioner hath provided hinself with materiala-for the accommodation of travelers and others, at his dwelling house in the ward aforesnid, and prays that your Honors will be pleased to grant him a licebise to keep a public house of entertainment. And your peti-tioners, as in duty bound, will pray the provide the aforesnid ward, do Montpensier, is valued at 60,000,000f., besides 20,-000,000t., left to the Duke de Nemours. The suc-cession of the Prince de Conde, which came to the Duke de Aumale, is estimated at 100,000,000f. With so large a number of persons turned house-less into the streets, there must be not a few cases requiring practical sympathy. I have to request, therefore, that you will draw on me, at sight, for fifty dollars and apply the same in aid of any fund which we be mined to low its the mean to the strength.
