To show how totally reckless and unprincipled thorough friend of the Wilmot proviso, or they evening, the 15th of June, 1849. would have nothing to do with him. Of course | The meeting was erganized by the appointment this would afford them ample ground, on which to of John Allen, Esq., as chairman; Samuel Morrow, assail the candidates of the Democratic party: for Secretary, and Jas. W. Buchanen, Assistant Secreit was well known, that no man, entertaining such | tary. disorganizing sentiments, could receive the nomination of the Democratic General Convention. But, not content with making something for themselves by stating the truth, even on this point, they must also resort to direct and positive lying in order to effect their purpose. This is copied from a Northern "Whig" paper:-"Mr. Cave as is well known in a recent lette to a slaveholder. took strong grounds in opposition to the Wilmot Proviso, and in Favon of the annexation of additional Slave Territory."

Now this editor not only lied in making this statement; but he know he was lying when he wrote those lines. Gen. Cass has not, it is true, in any way, favored or sanctioned the Wilmot (or Webster) heresy; and this every intelligent for making the following the country knows: on the contrary, he have firstlingly repudiated it. almost vital interest to said ward, viz: the new water works, and the raising and paving of Pennsylvania and paving of Pen der, took strong grounds in opposthas distinctly repudiated it. This he was bound to do, in order to preserve his character as a sound Democrat. But neither General Cass, nor any Democrat. But neither General Cass, nor any other leading Democrat of the country, has, at any time, so far as we have either seen or hearding any manner, expressed an opinion, favorable to the extension of slavery into territory now free, or country. On the contrary, all his feelings, all his earlies on, are against the existence of slavery; but, as every true Democrat must, he knows, that this in every true Democrat must, he knows, that this in obey the foregoing, which is our first instruction to him, at all events to go to the Council Chamber, in the nower of the free States: and he. whenever Council shall meet, and stay there, and wisconsin. is not in the power of the free States; and he, then vote as he pleases, or refuse to vote at all, if he

It was candidly arowed by a member from the Seventh Word, that the Bill was imperfect, and in many respects wrong; but what could they do? They would fail in their efforts to get any thing if the Omnibus Bill, with all its inequities, was not passed. In this spirit did the new wards sustain it, and they were right. The Bill was adopted by sections—the first sec tion passing with only four or five nays. On taking the vote upon the whole Bill, several persons known to be bitterly opposed to it, refused to votes. We thought this a little strange. Perhaps they hope for promotion in the city some future day, and wish to have the power to declare that they did not vote against the ordinance for supplying the upper wards with water. Extraordinary Arrival.—On Thursday, our sometimes quiet city was disturbed by the appearance in the street of eight or ten specimons of humanity, attired in the most fanciful style, and looking for all the world like "nice young men." They marched up Wood street, at about twenty minutes before 1 o'clock, passed down Fifth; and at about half past 7 returned. We noticed several cows running towards them, and making just such a noise as city kine do, when any thing green appears in the streets. JUNE 14th, 1848.

This may certify that I gave two of my children, three and five years old, two tenspoonsfuls of Morgan's Worm Killer, to each of them. The youngest passed 34 large worms, the smallest could not have measured less than 7 inches. The eldest passed so large a number that we could not begin to count them. I have used all the popular remedies before the public for worms, but can say with a clear conscience, Morgan's Worm Killer is far amperior to any now before the public.
