Your opponents are dishonest, impure and corrupt. Permit not your glorious Commonwealth to pass into the hands of her enemies!

Lawrenceville Meeting. There was quite an enthusiastic meeting of the Democrate of Lawrenceville, on Tuesday evening. After some preliminary business, P. C. FHARRON Esq., was called on by the chair, and addressed th andience in a spirited and interesting style. He considered in their order, the three so called princ ples of the whig party,-Tariff, opposition to the Veto power, and the Wilmot Proviso. His remarks on the second of these were especially forcible.-He read several letters of Jefferson, expressing his approbation of the veto power, and the advice given hy that statesman to Washington to veto a bill strict y constitutional. He alluded to the arguments of Hon. Walter Forward in the Convention of '38, and McFadden's warehouse. In this matter, we think bah. the young attorney has slightly the advantage of the old one. However, it is only catching a whig in an inconsistency, no rare occurrence of late. A shrewd old lawyer, of the same political stripe of Mr. For predicament of the latter, "I never have my remarks published. It is devilish bad policy." the kind that protects the rich, so that the rich may Aids de Camp to the Governor. The office of the Aid to the Governor has become lately, instead of an honorary one, a most ordinary so lavish has been His Patticular Accidency in bestowing this mark of his approbation. Not withstanding the great number who have been appointed since Wm. F. Johnston came to exercise the office of Governor, it is rumored that there are to be "a few more of the same sort;" and the names, of James W. Biddle, Robert M. Riddle, John A. Wills, and William A. Kinsloe, all distinguished politicians of this city, are to be included, it is said, in this batch of appointments of Aids of the Governor. ! We understand that these appointments are to be freel, and voluntarily made, as a testimonial of the high appreciation by His Accidency of the extraordinary services recently rendered by the distinguished per-

For a number of weeks, the water in the Ohio cast have had to seek other communications than during the goods received here by the canal have been delayed, to the great injury of the owners—all of which, taken in connexion with the railroads west and north, will finally drive our western friends from this route of trade and transportation. Such is the case with Pittshurgh, depending wholly upon the rivers.

By the Cincinnati papers, we see that the Little Miami Railroad is bringing to that city, by her passenger cars, about three handred porsons every tripted and that he receipts in that roud, for the moath of August last, were $12,400 more than the corresponding month of the year previous. A strong current of trayel, from the west and south-west, most of which, formerly, found its way to Philadelphia through this city, is now torning its course by the Cincinnati and Sandusky Railroad, and thence to New York city, by the way of Lake Eric and the New York railroads. To be sure, the low water in the Cincinnati Railroad. But, that route is now and the Cincinnati Railroad. But, that route is now hereoffer, we should the more reasonably expect that it will be worse.
