Not the least of these are qualifications to bis the constitution of the united to one who, from either "fear, favor, or affection," came into existence out a few years ago, and their power has already been felt to the extremity of the State and upon the Th of November will be also felt through which our country has passed during the political career of the aspirant for that office, which shall afford ample security that the trust is not about to be committed to one who, from either "fear, favor, or affection," cam be calmly induced, or victually forced, to consent to its violation.

The Constitution of the United States is the combodied spirit of our political institutions under the General Government,—the result of a union of various interests, into our stupendous fabric, so arranged, that all those interests should act independently, without coming, into conflict, or in any way not cessarily affecting each other. It was the result of ing the Native American party in the city and county of Philadel phia came into existence but a few years ago, and their power has already been felt to the city and county of Philadel phia came into existence but a few years ago, and their power has already been felt to the city and county of Philadel phia came into existence but a few years ago, and their power has already been felt to the city and county of Philadel phia came into existence but a few years ago, and their power has already been felt to the city and county of Philadel phia came into existence but a few years ago, and their power has already been felt to the city and county of Philadel phia came into existence but a few years ago, and their power has already been felt to the city and county of Philadel phia came into existence but a few years ago, and their power has already been felt to the city and county of the State and upon the Th of November will be also felt through the nation. Their fourteen thousand vot lishmen!

Jy, without coming, into conflict, or in any way not cessarily affecting each other. It was the result of a spirit of compromise—whereby all merely local interests and affairs were left to be regulated and controlled by the State Governments themselves; and, in short, leaving to their adjudication all matters, not specially provided for in the General Constitution. It is therefore an instrument of limited and clearly defined powers; and the man who would, directly or indirectly, sanction, or permit to be adopted, a course at variance with its express provisions, is a traitor to his country.

Very truly," Is not our country prosperous?

Why ask a change of policy? Why ask to bring about new measures? Is not our country eminently prosperous? Who complains? Does the farmer, the mechanic, the merchast, or the planter, grumble at his want of success? Do not all our grains, and all of our products of every kind, meet with a ready market and good prices? When was the American farmer doing better than now? His wheat, historin, his cattle; everything collivated; everything raised his cattle, everything coltivated, everything raised by him, meets with a prompt; and ready demand, and fair prices. And who desires to roverse the picture! Who will risk the effect; which a sudden the produce the produce

LOCAL MATTERS. QUARTER SESSIONS-Monday, October 30,-The lerk called over the names of the Jurors, and a jury was empannelled. The jury in the case of Mary Donohus, that went out on Saturday, came in with their verdict. The prisoner was brought into Court, and the seal was broken, and the result announced, " Not Guilty." A scene followed this announcement. Mr. Kennedy moved that the money found in the possession of the defendant, be restored to her, and she be discharged. with that choice must be the views of the voter, respecting the value of our Constitution; and the institutions secured to every State of this mighty Union, under it. Each of these candidates is the embodiment of a particular and opposing sentiment; and must therefore sustain a doctrine, or doctrines, at variance with the other.

Mayor's Office .- Monday Morning .- There ere but four cases in the Tombs, three of them or drunkenness. The fourth case was a young fellow, quite distinguished as a rowdy, who was brought in by Mitchell, Nieman, Jewell and several other vatchmen. At about 94 o'clock, it the corner of leventh and Smithfield streets, a crowd gathered for fight-two young bloods were preparing to mutiate each other for mutual gradification. Watchman Gross came up and ordered them to disperse. A third party remarked: "They shall not go," or some thing to that effect. The watchman beat the alarm and others came to his assistance. In a moment he was struck on the side of the head with a brick or stone (to does not know which) and receied and nearly ly lell into the guiter. The Neptune bell was rung as is supposed for the parpose of raising a crowd to rescue a 'prisoner'; but the pedice were too strong and quick. The lad was put isto a cell and in the morning he was committed for trial on the information of Gross and Mitchell for Assault and Battery.
