The Largest Mass Meeting ever held in Pittsburgh The Demockacy Blive prith Enthusiasm an we ever entertained a single cloth his to the reput in Pennsylvania, on Tuesday ugzt, the events of last night would remove thement once from our mind. The Democracy of Pittsburgh as sembled at M'Anulty's warehouse, in their ful strength. The immense building was crowded to overflowing, and hundreds were compelled to leave, who were unable to effect an entrance. It was unuestionably the largest and most enthusiastic town meeting ever held in this city. The hearts of the people appeared to move with but one pulsation and that was to bring back good old Pennsylvania to the honored and exalted position she has occupied in former years. It will be done! PENNSYLVA. NIA WILL BE REDEEMED! When we arrived, we found the meeting ized, with Col. McCandress in the chair, and Francis J. Gaund, Esq., occupying the speaker's stand. The speech of this gentleman was eloquent, powerful and argumentative. He spoke in the English and German languages, with great effect, and was onstantly greated with the wildest shouts of ap-The Hon. Thomas F. Marshall, the chivalr intuckian, next addressed the meeting; and for apwards of an hour enchained his audience with the est thrillingly eloquent, soundly argumentative and irresistibly humorous speeches, we ever listened to. The immense crowd were delighted beyond neasure, and at the close of every sentence, cher fter cheer burst forth. Mr. Knoun, a distinguished German orator from New York, a radical democrat, and an honest man then addressed his republican countrymen in their mother tongue. Unfortunately, we could not under stand him; but from the constant applause his remarks climited, we have no doubt but that his words went home to every German heart... Col. McCanniess responded to the repeated call of the meeting, and made a short speech in his usual happy and eloquent manner: At the request of the Colonel, Mr. MARSHALL again appeared upon the Colonel, Mr. Marshall again appeared upon the stand, and gave a history of Tariffs generally, and the Tariff of 1842 especially; and clearly showed the hypocrisy and bad faith of the Federal party in relation to that measure.

That country has sent out a large portion of the emigration of the chool in which men are encouraged to utter lies on any subject; to violate truth in any thing; or to refrain from telling the truth, when necessary. It therefore brings no blush to our cheeks to tell a and then declare that, after having done this, he rebypocrite that he is lying, especially when he cannot ignorant of the fact. It is in view of such a state of things as this, that we have spoken plainly of certain Federal sheets and their editors. They have irculated infamous lies respecting Gen. Cass, which morable men, even of their own party, long since onounced such ; and we have been telf to take one of two alternativer-either to recognise them, as ontemptibly ignorant fools, or as infamously lying political scoundrels. We have not been willing to do injustice to them in any particular; and have therefore spoken of them in that manner least cab colated to do it. So much for our ideas of decency and propriety. We are able to pass without censure mong those who have been reared amid even a noderate degree of refinement. As it respects the speech and vote of Gen. Cass, on the Irish relief bill, we have given the truth; and have stated where that truth could be further demonstrated. We have only to say, in addition, that we understand the Federal leaders here are trying to influence our adopted citizens against Gen. Cass, by referring to the infamous lies uttered by the Gaette, and blazened as entitled to confidence, because cortified by an Irishman. As it respects this Robinson, who is given as authority, he was thrust from a position in the House of Representatives at Washington, which has never been denied to a gentleman entrusted with reporting for the newspapers. Ho is certainly competent authority, with such a the editor of the Gazette, for any statement going to affect either the reputation or property of a Democrat : but with any man having a regard for truth, neither he nor his backers will be long credited.

The Cincinnati Chronicle, one of the organs of Federalism in that city, says, that, "It is one of the conditions of office-holding under Locolocoism, that he incumbent shall contribute at part of his salary and his personal services to the cause of his party in all its struggles. It is too bad that the people's money should be thus employed to silence their own voice in the government." We think that there is some truth in this. It is well known that Zachany Taylon, who is hailed as the head of the Federal party, is an officer of the General Government "under Locofocoism;" that he with the tenancity of a happy being to life. Gen. Cass's treatment of starving Ireland ought to prevent the vote of a single native-horn Irishmon being given for him. A mind who would need a single native here Irishmon being given for himself to work to make political capital out of the distresses of his fellowmen, by pretending to sympathise with them, while he intended to give them nothing, is anwerthy at the respect of mankind. Such did Lewis Cass. August, last. The fire broke out and was extingish. "Rrogs."—A very genteel man was picked up it after the alarm of fire was raised, found Robinson in an alley running from Pifth street. He was lying on the pavement, with his coat under his head, to all appearances very drunk. He was picked up and taken to the watch house, and there searched. The watchmen testified that he walked not like a man under the influence of liquor. In his pockets were found some cartridges, a small trank key, and a large knife. He was locked up till morning. Aftor daylight, it was accortained that the store had een fired; that an attempt had been made to blow up the safe, for powder was found in the key hole. The powder in the key hole was compared with that in the cartridges, and found to be exactly alike. The key found upon Robinson, was taken to the store when it was applied to some of the trunk locks and found to fit. This is the substance of the case made out by the prosecution. For the defence, two or three witnesses were ex mined. The first was James Dickson, an acquainanco of Robinson's, who testified, that a few weeks pefore the fire, he was passing the Theatre, and saw. lobinson with Cook and M'Donald setting on the steps. I had a small key in my hand. Robinson asked me for it, and I gave it to him. The key found upon Robinson was shown to this witness, and he said it was very much like the one he gave him (Robinson.) Witness got the key from a trank maker in Mackey's shop. Cook was called and testified giving Robinson the key, at the Theatre. He further testified that he saw Robinson buying five cartridges from Mr. Craig, Diamond alley, a few days The prosecution then called a boy named Gibson, whom Dickson said gave him the key in Mackey's shop. He said he did give Dickson the key. Mr. Darragh was about to address the jury, when Mr. Shaler asked leave to question Gibson a little further. He wished to know from him, whether, within fifteen minutes, he had not said to the Captain of the watch, that he never gave Dickson a key, and if in a moment afterwards, he was not in conversa-
