The Advantages of Partnership.

On this subject, a recent number of Hunt's Merchant's Magazine says:—"Capital is rendered more productive by the formation of partnerships. It would often be very convenient if a merchant could be in two places at the same time. But this cannot be done. If, however, there are two or three partners in a firm, these partners may be in distant places, and thus the interest of the whole may be properly attended to. By dividing their business into distinct branches, and each party superintending a branch, the business may flourish as much as if the establishment belonged to one individual who had the convenient attribute of ubiquity. One partner may superintend the own department—the other the selling branch; one the books—the other the warehouse, and by this division of labor, each branch of the business will have the advantage of being constantly under the superintendence of a principal of the firm. Another advantage is, that by mutual discussion upon their affairs, the concern will be conducted with more discretion. The ignorance of one may be supplied by the knowledge of the other; the speculative disposition of one may be restrained by the phlegmatic disposition of the other; the carelessness of one may be counteracted by the prudence of the other. But the great advantage arising from partnerships is, that capital accumulates faster; there can be a greater division of labor in a small establishment; there will be a less proportionate expense; the firm will be able to gain a greater amount of credit; and more confidence will be placed in their honor and integrity. It is very rare that a dishonest failure is made by a firm."

Bank Dividends.

The banks of this city have all declared semi-annual dividends of four per cent., which is evidence of unusual prosperity with these institutions. But, when banks are making money plenty, it is no evidence that the mass of the people who deal with them are equally enriching themselves; for what one makes, the other loses. It is a singular fact, that but few Pittsburgh bank notes circulate in this vicinity, if, indeed, they circulate any where. Our whole paper circulation is composed of Indiana and other Western bank notes, with a mixture of the scrip of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. Could not our financiers so arrange it, as to send home these trashy notes of other States, and fill up the vacuum with notes in which the people could have more confidence; for who would not prefer to lay up a bill of one of our city banks to the promises of unknown Western institutions?

Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad.

At a meeting of the Stockholders of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad company, held at their office in Ravenna, on Monday, the 16th ultimo, the following gentlemen were elected Directors, to serve during the ensuing year, viz:

Cleveland—Sam'l Williams, Ellery G. Williams.
Hudson—Henry N. Day, James Barber.
Ravenna—Cyrus Prentiss, John B. King.
Salineville—James Farmer.
Wellsville—James Stewart, James Aten, Henry Cope, John S. McIntosh.
Pittsburgh—Wm. J. Totten.

At a meeting of the Directors, James Farmer, Esq., was unanimously re-elected President of the Company.

Samuel Foljambe, Esq., Secretary.
Cyrus Prentiss, Esq., Treasurer.
John S. McIntosh, Esq., Local Treasurer.

The Factory Disturbances.

Respecting the action in our Court upon the late disturbances in Allegheny, the Philadelphia Bulletin says:—"The Grand Jury of Allegheny county have found bills against several of the girls who stand charged with having participated in the factory riots in Allegheny city, a few months ago. These girls may have erred in the strict letter of the law—but they deemed themselves oppressed—acted manfully—and are certainly more deserving of sympathy than punishment. There must be wrong somewhere, or we should not find timid, virtuous girls, endeavoring to accomplish by force what was denied to persuasion."

Operations in Copper Mining.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says, that "The Pittsburgh Mining Company have recently blasted down and cut up a mass of copper, nearly pure and malleable, which weighed no less than eighty tons! and that the value of this mass, when delivered in market will exceed $25,000. Nothing in the whole history of copper mining approaches this.

An Outrageous Report from Pittsburg.—We received a dispatch yesterday from Pittsburg, giving an account of a series of outrages said to have been perpetrated on Saturday night by a gang of rowdies, on females and others, of such an infamous character, that we have declined to publish it, in the hope that it may prove a hoax, or at least, exaggerated. Bull. Sun.

☞ Our friends of the Sun have been humbugged too bad. No such occurrences have taken place.

Quarter Sessions—Wednesday, Nov. 8.—At 10 o'clock, A. M., Court met. No case being prepared, after transacting some unimportant business, the Court adjourned till 3 o'clock.

Com. vs. Wm. Hutchinson—Com. vs. Wm. Chandler—Cross bills of indictment for an assault and battery. The Jury, in the case of Hutchinson, rendered a verdict of not guilty, and that the prosecutor, Wm. Chandler, pay the costs; and in the case of Chandler, returned a verdict of guilty. Sentenced not pronounced.

Com. vs. Davis and John Terry—Indictment: Larceny. The prosecutor testified that on the 30th of August last he was standing on the foot bridge leading from Liberty to Penn street; while there he received a $20 note in payment of borrowed money; that the defendants immediately came up, and produced an iron ball, and asked him to bet $20 that there was paper in it, but the prosecutor was not green, and refused to bet; the defendant, Davis, then snatched the $20 from the hand of prosecutor, and, after handing it to the other defendant, made his escape; but the defendant Terry was retained, and Davis afterwards arrested. The defence attempted to prove that the prosecutor did make a bet, and lost, and was told by one of the defendants that if he would give him $5, he would give him his $20 note. There were some conflicting circumstance in the case. Jury out.

FOREIGN NEWS!

ARRIVAL OF THE HIBERNIA!

SEVEN DAYS LATER!

The British mail steamer Hibernia reached Boston on the 3d instant, at 3 A. M., having left Liverpool Oct. 21st.

The determination of the British government relative to Smith O'Brien had not transpired. Meantime his counsel were preparing to carry up an appeal to the House of Lords, though it was doubtful whether the consent of the Attorney General, which is requisite for that proceeding, could be obtained. O'Donoghue was found guilty and recommended to mercy. Meagher was on trial.

The cholera makes slow progress in England. Only thirty-new cases had occurred in London within the week. Liverpool and Manchester had escaped the scourge, and but one case was reported at Birmingham. All alarm had subsided, and the government had resolved on abandoning the quarantine regulations.

The probability of Gen. Cavaignac's retirement or overthrow, to make room for the red republicans of Paris, grows stronger. But tranquility prevailed in France up to the latest advices.

The intelligence from Austria is of especial interest. On hearing of the success of the insurgents at Vienna, Baron Jellachich, who was proceeding to take possession of the capital of Hungary, pursuant to his appointment by the Emperor as Royal Commissary Plenipotentiary to that Kingdom, turned his forces at once in the direction of Vienna, and on his arrival in the suburbs of that capital, he for some time, in the connection with the Emperor's General Auersburg, threatened its bombardment. But the firm attitude of the Diet seems to have changed his purpose, and at the last accounts he was retiring towards Hungary. The Emperor had taken up his residence at Olmutz, and from the warlike preparations that were making in his behalf, it was believed that an attack upon Vienna was intended.

These events produced their effect in Italy, causing the Hungarians of Radetsky's army to demand leave to return home, and produce a statement of doubt and insecurity throughout the entire force. It was currently reported at Paris that Charles Albert would not renew the armistice, but would resume hostilities on the 22d, to which the critical condition of the Austrian Empire seems to invite him.

The following details of the news have been communicated to us by telegraph from Boston:

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 21st.

The weather during the past week has been still very unsettled. During the early part a good deal of rain has fallen but a variation of the wind has brought about a complete change in the atmosphere, and a bracing cold has succeeded the previous damp weather.

The harvest is now completely got in, and during the past fortnight the preparations for autumn sowing will be general. In Scotland the potato crop is still reported good, whilst that of Ireland is immensely short. The oat crop is however good. The markets generally partake of the same want of spirit prevailing in England. In fact, speculation is at an end; and the large supplies which are flowing in from the Baltic and other ports, tend effectually to keep down prices.

The alarm which was at first created by the appearance of the cholera, has sensibly abated. The Registrar General of London has reported 30 additional cases only up to last Saturday; but, on the other hand, the general health is better this year than in ordinary years only 991 deaths having been recorded last week within the bills of mortality, against 1154 upon an average of five years. There is only one case reported at Birmingham.

At Manchester, not a single case has yet occurred. Liverpool has so far escaped the pestilence. In the city of Edinburgh, the ravages of the disease seems to have been rather more extensive than in any other part of Scotland; whilst the port of Leith has comparatively escaped. Its appearance, however, at the little fishing village of New Haven, establishes, without a doubt, the fact of its malignant presence in that quarter.

The Government has already become satisfied that the precautionary measures of quarantine are altogether unnecessary; and they have determined to do away entirely with the regulations which enforce the observance of quarantine, even in the cases where deaths have occurred from the Asiatic cholera on board vessels coming from continental ports.

In Ireland, the Lord Lieutenant in replying to the address of the inhabitants of Dublin and vicinity, declined to give any direct answer to the memorial in behalf of Smith O'Brien, beyond the assurance that full weight should be given to the recommendation of the highly respectable body by which it was got up. The formalities for bringing a writ of error have all been complied with by the legal advisers of Mr. O'Brien; but the official privilege of granting or refusing the certificate, with which the Attorney General is invested, will not be exercised by that officer until after his return to Dublin. Mr. O'Donoghue, after some hours deliberation, has been found guilty, and a recommendation of mercy accorded, in consequence of his having withdrawn and disconnected himself, from his associates previous to the attack on Farrirory. The trial of Thomas Francis Meagher, commenced on Monday morning, and the interest which had subsided at Clonmel during the trials of M'Manus and O'Donohue, has now revived. The catholic prolates at Dublin have come to certain resolutions, which are highly important in one point of view. As a collective body, whilst they implore the government to provide for the immediate relief of the poor, all the funds at its disposal, and to use all its influence to effect such an equitable adjustment of the relations between landlord and tenant as shall stimulate an outlay of capital, insure the employment of the labor idled, and increase the products of the soil—they add this significant declaration, "that they deprecate the proposed measure of a state provision for the Catholic clergy of Ireland."

In France, the partial change in the administration of Gen. Cavaignac is either a prelude to his own retirement from office, or more probably to some convulsion brought about by the resentment of the red republicans, and the republicans de la Veille; i. e. those who were regarded before the 24th February—at being so early deprived of the sweets of sovereign authority. Gen. Cavaignac had no alternative. He perceived that the majority in the Assembly, formed of legitimists, moderate republicans, &c.—they who had become republicans after the 24th February,—possessed the power of excluding him from office at any moment; and, having been himself raised to honor by the republicans de la Veille, and the party of the Neat styles, had no other resource but to attempt a policy of conciliation. The result has been that Ducoux, the prefect of Paris, has written a letter resigning his office, and is plain terms says that he disapproves of General Cavaignac's adroit policy, and in presence of the dangers which menace Liberty in France, whilst it triumphs in Germany, he shall resume his place amongst the adversaries of Royalty, which he will combat under all disguises. He concludes significantly: "All the soldiers of democracy must be at their posts. Mine has ceased to be where my political sympathies exist no longer." Another pregnant proof of the critical position of Cavaignac, is to be found in the wavering of the National. The Orleans family was overthrown by the Sub-Editors of the National. Louis Napoleon keeps quiet. The chief socialists banquets continue to be held, and one of them is to take place on Saturday, the 28th, under the auspices of Mr. Ledru Rollin, creates no little alarm. The funds, which had rallied when the moderate party were admitted to the Cabinet, have again declined. On Tuesday the 3 per cents were 44 40, and the 5 per cents, 98,55.

Austria.—The stupendous events which are passing in the neighborhood of Vienna, and in the Austrian empire, have kept all Europe in a state of excitement during the week. Last week we announced the breaking out of the insurrection in Vienna, the flight of the Emperor, and the ascendancy of the insurgent party on the 7th and 8th inst. Count Latour, Jellachich, at the head of the Croatian army of Croatina, was advancing towards Buda Pesth, with a view to suppress the insurrectionary proceedings in Hungary.

When the intelligence of the revolution at Vienna reached him, he instantly turned his columns in the direction of that city, and advanced with rapid strides toward the capital. Auersburg, the Emperor's General, who had previously taken up his military position at Belvidere, in the suburbs of Vienna, had kept the population in hourly alarm of a bombardment. During the night of the 10th, 11th, and 12th, the inhabitants of Vienna experienced all the terrors of a momentarily expected seige by the two armies. It seems that the Diet in the city had made many ineffectual attempts, by threats, to induce both Jellachich and Auerberg to retire, and forbear from hostile proceedings. Both evaded direct answers, or refused to give any definite declarations of their intentions. The position of Auersburg, in a military point of view, being untenable, unless he at once bombarded the city, has been unquestionably evacuated. Reports state that Jellachich has retired towards Neustadt. It would seem that Prince Windischgratz, who lately distinguished himself by his decision at Prague, has proceeded towards Vienna, and is to command under the orders of the Emperor, the combined armies of Jellachich and Auersburg. It is very probable that these armies have retired from the immediate neighborhood of the city for at any rate, if they have decided not to bombard it, they may take the position to cut off the supplies, so as to reduce the inhabitants by starvation. Reports say that the Diet have 100,000 men in arms to defend the Austrian capital; but a vast number of these must be in favor of the Emperor. Every effort seems to be employed to exasperate and inflame the populace against the court party. On the other hand, there cannot be less than 100,000 regular troops encircling Vienna at this moment; so reinforcements appeared to be pouring in from all quarters. The Emperor has retired, not to Innspruck, but to Olmuts in Moravia. He carries with him an effective force, from that point he will be able to rouse the countless thousands of Sclavonians, who are ready to carry on an internecine war against their German fellow subjects.

The French Rois also, had done more.

Russia stands ready, with an army of 300,000 men upon the confines of Poland, to throw the whole weight of her power into the scale of the Emperor, and in support of the Sclavonic quarrel. Indeed, the people of Prague, lately so hostile to Windisgratz, now idolize him, because it is hoped that he will humble the Germans. The railway being torn up for many miles around Vienna, the connections are so interrupted, that the regular communication cannot be relied upon with either Vienna or Berlin.

It is needless to add that at the Prussian capital the people are waiting with intense anxiety for the upshot of events, as in the contingency of the imperial party being for the present worsted, the citizens of Berlin will make some fresh attack upon the kingly authority in Prussia.

P. S.—LATEST FROM VIENNA.—Oct. 16th.—On the sitting of the Diet last night, that body sent its ultimatum to the Ban Jellachich. It is of the following tenor: "The Diet has hitherto done all that is possible to restrain the warlike spirit of the people of Vienna, and of the Landstrom, from offensive positions. His Majesty has given the assurance to take possession of the capital of Hungary, pursuant to his appointment by the Emperor as Royal Commissary Plenipotentiary to that Kingdom, turned his forces at once in the direction of Vienna; and on his arrival in the suburbs of that capital, he for some time, in the connection with the Emperor's General Auersburg, threatened its bombardment. But the firm attitude of the Diet seems to have changed his purpose, and at the last accounts he was retiring towards Hungary. ☞ WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS are a safe, easy, and certain cure for Colds and Coughs; because they carry off, by the stomach and bowels, those morbid humors, which, if deposited upon the lungs, are the cause of the above dangerous complaints. A single twenty-five cent box of said Indian Vegetable Pills is generally sufficient to make a perfect cure of the most obstinate Cold—at the same time the digestion is improved, and the blood so completely purified, that new life and vigor is given to the frame.

Beware of Counterfeits and Imitations.—Remember that the Original and Only Genuine Indian Vegetable Pills have the written signature of WILLIAM WRIGHT on the top label of each box.

Remember, also, that Messrs. Feuchtwanger & Co., of New York; Jas. S. Glascoe & Co., at Cincinnati; and J. R. Wilder & Co., of Louisville, are NOT agents for this medicine, and we cannot guarantee the genuineness of that offered by them for sale.

The genuine is for sale at Dr. Wright's Principal Office, 169 Race street, Philadelphia; and by JOHN THOMPSON, 156 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, Pa., who is sole agent for this city, by whom dealers will be supplied at the wholesale rate. nov3

☞ Goodsell & Clark, of Bellevue, Ohio, November 23d, 1846, sent a letter to Dr. G. G. Vaughn, the proprietor of the celebrated Lithontriptic Mixture, the Great American Remedy, with a statement that in the vicinity or Ohio where they do business, the article has had unprecedented sales. Nothing like it has ever appeared. People resort to it for all complaints, and its effect is always good. Old cases, which have baffled the skill of Medical men, have yielded to it, and the faculty are using it in their practice. A large number of medical men are agents for its sale—a strong proof of the great virtues of the article. Call on Agents, in our paper, whose names are to be found under Great American Remedy, and get a Pamphlet.
