The Morning Post.

L. HARPER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

PITTSBURGH:
SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 11, 1848.

Morning Post Job Printing Office.
CORNER OF WOOD AND FIFTH STREETS.

☞ Having added to our Establishment, a splendid Steam-Power Printing Machine, we are prepared to do all kinds of Newspaper and Book work in a style of unsurpassed beauty and neatness, and upon the most reasonable terms. We respectfully solicit the patronage of the public in this line of our business.

☞ Advertisers are requested to hand in their favors before 9 o'clock, P. M. This must be complied with, in order to insure an insertion. When it is possible, an earlier hour would be preferred.

☞ E. W. CARR, United States Newspaper Agency Sun Buildings, N. E. corner of Third and Dock streets, and 400 North Fourth street—is our only authorized Agent in Philadelphia.

Magnetic Telegraph, Again.

We were handed, yesterday morning, the following note, by the gentleman whose name is appended to it. He deems its publication an act of justice to himself, and as we were prompted by no merely personal consideration in making the statement, we cheerfully comply with his request to insert it. We did not know Mr. Hughes in the matter referred to. We spoke of the Telegraphic dispatch, in one of its particulars, as altogether beyond the belief of any one, when reported as having taken place in Pittsburgh; and as we felt authorized to deny its truth in that particular, we hesitated not to do so. Further than it alluded to the outrage said to have been committed in a Public School in Pittsburgh, we did not deny any part of the dispatch.

In his conversation with us, Mr. Hughes said he mentioned, that the outrage to which we especially referred, occurred in the neighborhood of this city. This is not stated in the dispatch, as published in both the "Pennsylvanian" and "Republic;" and, since he called upon us, we have made particular and very general inquiries, in relation to all the particulars contained in that dispatch, and find the following to be the state of the case.

The robbery of all the boarders at the Iron City Hotel, turns out to have been the robbery of three, all of whom slept in the same room; while the fourth in that room (who had forty or fifty dollars in his pocket,) lost nothing. There are several more than four boarders at this Hotel.

The stripping of the clown at the circus, in presence of the audience; and the stopping of the performances there; is reduced to a disturbance by a drunken fellow, who threw something at, and hit the clown; and no suspension whatever of the performances—as we learn from the police officer in attendance there.

Then there remains the horrible outrage, to which we particularly referred. This, we were told by Mr. Hughes, did not occurr in Pittsburgh, but within a mile of the city limits; and the scene was located at "the Colony." We have made inquiry of three gentlemen of the highest standing for veracity and respectability, (one of whom has children in attendance at one of the schools referred to, in that vicinity,) and they had heard nothing of any such occurrence. They first saw the announcement of it, taken from a Philadelphia paper, and copied by us!

It is unnecessary, perhaps, to examine further into this "cock and bull story." We might, however, safely ask—How is it, that our city has not been filled with excitement, occasioned by the perpetration of such horrid outrages? No one with whom we have met, knows anything, or has heard anything about them! Where are the children, thus ruthlessly thrown out of doors in broad daylight? Where are their parents? Where and who are the female teachers thus shamefully used? Have they no friends or acquaintances, to whom they have told all the horrors of their condition? Was the schoolhouse so remote from any human habitation, that the screams of frightened children, and of more than frightened teachers, could not be heard? All these questions must be answered, in a manner to satisfy the common sense of reasoning beings, or such must still be permitted to look upon the Telegraphic dispatch referred to, as a most outrageous hoax; and a burning disgrace to our community.

MR. L. HARPER.—The article in your paper this morning, headed "The Magnetic Telegraph," is calculated to throw discredit upon the reports sent by Telegraph East, so far as Wallace, Carter, & Co., are concerned. The report copied into your paper from the Republic of Philadelphia, was sent by the subscriber with the exception of the head. The information contained therein was from one of the suffering party, and also from officer Hague of this city, and is literally true. The outrages happened in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

ALEX. HUGHES,
Telegraph Reporter.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 10, 1848.

Defence of Smith O'Brien:

The speech of Mr. Whiteside, the eloquent advocate, in defence of Ireland's last patriot, and, we fear, martyr, has been reported at length in the Dublin Freeman's Journal. From some passages we have read, we believe it to have been a most masterly effort, in argument, upon the law and facts, and in fervid appeals to the feelings and sentiments of the jury. The peroration was thrillingly eloquent. We take a brief extract, with a description of the effect produced by it upon the already excited feelings of the prisoner, court and audience:

"Would to God Mr. Smith O'Brien were my only client. The future happiness of an honorable, ancient, loyal family, is here at stake—the Church, the Bar, the Senate, can furnish relatives near and dear to this unhappy gentlemen, who, although they differ in political opinion, have hastened to him with brotherly consolation this melancholy day. Ireland has been the scene of their benevolent exertions—the source of their joys; their pride; her misery has been their affliction, her gleams of prosperity their delight. With bolder hearts should you consign the prisoner to the scaffold, they must henceforward struggle on through a cheerless existence, laboring in sorrow for the country they love.

A venerable lady, who has dwelt amid an affectionate tenantry, spending her income where it was raised, diffusing her charities and her blessings around, awaits now, with trembling heart, your verdict. If a verdict, consigning her beloved son to death—that heart will quickly beat no more. Alas! more dreadful still—six innocent children will hear from your lips whether they are to be stripped of an independence which has descended in his family for ages—whether they are to driven, fatherless and beggared, upon the world, by the rigor of a barbarous and cruel law—whether they are to be restored to peace and joy, or plunged into the uttermost depths of black despair. There is another who clings to hope—hope, may it be blessed in you! Her life's blood would be gladly shed to save the object of her youthful affections—you will not consign her to an untimely grave."

[During the delivery of this passage, the entire audience became visibly moved, and for the first time since the trial, Smith O'Brien's lip quivered, and his eye filled, as the idea of a mother, brother, children and wife, mourning over their possible loss, was visibly presented to his mind. For a moment, he bent his head on his hand; he firmly pressed his brow for a few seconds, and again resumed his wonted calmness. Not so the audience, the bar, the jury, the occupants of the benches, all continued deeply moved; and from many a manly eye, to which tears had long been strangers, the big drops rolled in rapid succession. We never remember to have seen so profound a sensation as that produced by the gifted advocate, whose action and tone, for more eloquently than even his living words, expressed the deep emotions with which his own heart was moved at the contemplation of an adverse verdict.]

☞ Kingston, which is situated at the foot of Lake Ontario, as ascertained by a recent census, contains 12,018 inhabitants—of whom 532 are natives of the United States; 4,740 Canadians; 5,142 Irish and 1,603 British. They are chiefly divided into Catholics, Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Methodists. Five or six newspapers are published, some once a week, some twice.

☞ A bird of the aquatic species, though not exactly web-footed, black in color, green legs, white horned bill, a fan of white feathers in the tail, covered with down, not feathers, and apparently quite young, has been shot in New Haven harbor.

Martin Duralde.

Respecting this once distinguished citizen of Louisiana, whose death was lately announced, "Nom Be-ne," in his last letter to the Concordia Intelligencer, furnishes the following interesting but painful particulars.

"Among the recent deaths here, I regret one that scarcely attracted a passing remark; yet he was a man who, twenty years ago stood at the head of society, Martin Duralde. Born of an influential and affluent family in Attakapas, extensively connected, augmenting his hereditary fortune by successive investments, married to a daughter of Hon. Henry Clay, who was then at the zenith of his popularity and power, Mr. Durald was, on all sides, courted and caressed. But reverses overtook him; city property rapidly ran down, his wife died, his friends diminished with his fortune, and at the commencement of the Mexican war, this, man, once so rich, so popular and so honored, found himself obliged, for subsistence, to follow our march with a few packs of merchandize. He recently embarked on a trading schooner, at Tampico, to return home. The deadly fever of that coast swept off every one of the crew but a small boy, and when the vessel, after beating about in the Gulf, finally made the bar of the river with a signal of distress, the captain was found dead on a pallate, and the unfortunate Duralde by his side in the last agonies, and no medicine, no water, scarcely a relief on board. What an illustration of the vanity and vicissitude of life."

A Resurrection.

The last Glasgow News tells a strange tale of one of the early settlers of Saline county. He was a Frenchman, who, about twenty years ago, became dissatisfied with the prospects before him, and left his wife and daughter, to seek other means of mending his fortune. For several years, the wife and daughter awaited his return, till even affection compelled them to believe him dead. They struggled along in poverty, until the daughter grew to womanhood, and married, as did also the mother—both of them remaining in straightened circumstances. Last week, however, an old grey-headed man went to the humble dwelling of the daughter, and after surveying her with deep emotion for a few minutes, said: "Do you know the name of your father?" To which she replied by giving it. "Then," said he, "I am your father." After their mutual greetings, he brought in two bags of gold, containing $40,000, and gave them to his daughter, and also offered her husband the best farm he could find in the neighborhood. He knew his daughter by a scar on her forehead, from a wound received when a child. It is not stated what arrangements were made with the wife.—St. Louis Republican.

Advice to Tradesmen.

Printing is one of the most important arts ever invented for labor-saving; economy and despatch of business. Few are aware of the full extent of its importance in this particular; but those who best understand it, and avail themselves most of its advantage, (all other thing being equal,) are invariably found to be the leading parties in success of business. We doubt if a single exception to this rule can be found. Think of the difference between waiting for customers, accidentally dropping in, as if they ever learn, what and where your business is, and when they call, if ever they do, spending half an hour or an hour in giving to each one separately, a description of that which may be for sale, its quality, price, &c.—and on the other hand, devoting the half hour or hour to write an advertisement, equally descriptive, for the newspapers, by which tens of thousands may read at the same time, and be informed of all the particulars it is desirable to convey.—Jonathan.

Pecan Mast.

The Austin (Texas) Democrat says of the pecan mast, which is now beginning to fall, will prove a source of considerable profit to western Texas the present season—being very abundant, and considering the dryness of the season, of excellent growth. We understand that many individuals West and South of this city have given their attention to the gathering of this fruit, with a view to ship to foreign markets; and, indeed, it would not surprise us if it should prove of greater value to the West than the cotton crop will to the planters of that staple in other portions of the State."

Western Texas.

The Victory Advocate gives a pleasant picture of the improvement of Western Texas. It says—"In every part of Western Texas, the Spirit of improvement is rife. Towns, villages, farms, buildings, roads, nurseries, ferries, hotels, churches—every thing that makes the progress of a people—are seen springing into existence with great rapidity."

☞ Reading is among the greatest consolations of life; it is the nurse of virtue, the upholder in adversity, the prop of independence, the support of just pride, the strengthener of elevated opinions; it is a shield against the tyranny of petty passions; it is the repeller of the fool's scoff, and the knaves passion.

The Bostonians are delighted with their new fountain on the Common, which was in operation on Saturday. The Transcript says:

The column of water from a three-inch jet was thrown up 90 feet, and was very beautiful. The water is pure and white as it is thrown up, rising from its apex. There is nothing like it in this country, and our citizens are delighted with the exhibition.

THE TRAIN FROM CAMARGO.—The large train, consisting of 1600 animals and 300 wagons, under the command of A. W. Reynolds, U. S. A., which left Camargo on the 4th August, has arrived at the camp at Natchitoches, all in fine condition.

CHEAP HAPPINESS.—Perform a good deed—speak a kind word—bestow a pleasant smile—and you will receive the same in return. The happiness you bestow upon others, is reflected back to your own bosom.

SEAMEN'S WAGES.—Owing to a scarcity of seamen in the port of Mobile, the rate of wages have considerably advanced, and masters of vessels are now offering $35 per month, coastwise for the run.

☞ Small Pox generally begins with languor and weariness, chilliness and vomiting; soreness of the throat, great thirst, and many other unpleasant complaints.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills will be found the very best medicine in the world for the cure of Small Pox, because they cleanse the body from those poisonous humors which are the cause of small pox and other eruptive complaints. From three to six of said Indian Vegetable Pills, taken every night on going to bed, will in a short time make a perfect cure of the above dangerous complaint; and the blood and other fluids will be restored to a state of purity.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills also aid and improve digestion, and therefore give health and vigor to the whole frame.

Beware of Counterfeits and Imitations—Rememberthat the Original and Only Genuine Indian Vegetable Pills have the written signature of WILLIAM WRIGHT on the top label of each box.

Remember, also, that Messrs. Feuchtwanger & Co., of New York; Jos. S. Glascoe & Co., of Cincinnati; and J. B. Wilder & Co., of Louisville, are not agents for this medicine, and we cannot guarantee the genuineness of that offered by them for sale.

The genuine is for sale at Dr. Wright's Principal Office, 169 Race street, Philadelphia; and by JOHN THOMPSON, 156 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, Pa., who is sole agent for this city, by whom dealers can be supplied at the wholesale rate.

☞ Whooping Cough.—Dr. Clickener's Sugar-coated Vegetable Pills are an infallible remedy for the whooping cough, as will be seen by the following letter:

PROSPECT, ILL., Jan. 13, 1845.
Dr. C. V. Clickener—My Dear Sir: Not long since, a child of mine was taken badly with the whooping cough, and as we have no Doctor within 30 or 40 miles of us, I asked a neighbor of mine if he knew of anything that was good for it. He said he did not know exactly what to recommend, but there was a box of Clickener's Sugar coated Purgative Pills in the house, which he had bought of a pedlar the last time he was at Chicago, and if they were any good as they pretended to be, there was no telling but they might be of service to my James. I concluded to try them, and shall never regret that I did so. The little fellow had to take only two or three doses, before the cough entirely left him. Though only three years old, he has often said to me since, "Pa, give me some more of them sugar plums. I do love them so dearly." I wish you would send me, per bearer, 12 boxes, and he will pay you for them. The country hereabouts is so thinly settled, and Physicians so difficult to get at, that I think, if you should establish an agency at Chicago, it would prove a profitable speculation for you.
Yours, in haste, JOHN WALKER.

LOCAL MATTERS.

QUARTER SESSIONS.—Friday, November 10.—Commonwealth vs. Henry, Gutman and F. Kraus. Indictment, "Assault and Battery." Plea, "Not Guilty." Henry Smith was the prosecutor. All were Germans—defendants and witnesses. Wills appeared for Commonwealth; S. W. Black for Defence.

Commonwealth vs. Eliza Butler. Indictment, "Larceny." Plea, "Not Guilty." The prosecuting witness was a lady from Diamond alley, who charged the defendant, a yellow girl, with having stolen a valuable mantilla from her store. Another witness against her was a girl of darker hue, who had been charged on the same indictment; but as to her, the Grand Jury ignored the Bill. She stated that the defendant did take the article. For the defence, a black man made some developement about a conspiracy that was got up to blame innocent Eliza. Mr. Snowden appeared for Commonwealth, and Mr. Alden for Defence.

The jury returned a verdict of "Not Guilty."

Commonwealth vs. John Chapman alias Hunter. Indicted for the larceny of some clothing. Verdict, "Guilty."

Commonwealth vs. George Kelly. Indicted for the larceny of a pair of shoes and some other articles, the property of Zsch. Brown. Old Zach was triumphant again, and the defendant was convicted.

Commonwealth vs. David Lane and James Hunter. Indicted for the larceny of a large quantity of fish. Verdict, Lane "Guilty;" Hunter "Not Guilty."

☞ The Return Judges met yesterday, and after a long and hideous session, finished their work. We annex the result. Some of the voters thought proper to "scratch" a little—a very stupid piece of business, in our opinion. It only gives work to the Judges, and in a close contest might divide the members of the Electoral College, but could not effect the final result; for the majority give the 26 votes to their candidate. There were a few "independent" tickets deposited in the ballot boxes—but such independence only shows that the voter is a slave to his own miserable prejudices.

MAYOR'S OFFICE—Friday morning.—There was a large party up for hearing. Drunkenness, of course, was the cause of most of the degradation. One was a lady from Beaver county. She was taken at about 3 o'clock, because she had no lodging place. And as she had no money, she was sent up for twenty days. Two young men, acquaintances of hers, were fined and discharged. Three strangers, Irishmen, from Baltimore and Boston, were up on the charge of disorderly conduct on the wharf, on Thursday. One of them was arrested by Wallace; and, when the other two attempted to make a rescue, all were taken. The excuse was—whiskey. Each paid a fine of three dollars and costs, and they left.

☞ The scramble has begun. We have heard of four or five applications for the Post Office, by original Taylor men. We believe some have actually got out petitions and are obtaining signatures. We advise them to take their time. If all be true we have been told, Taylor will not make many removals; nor will he appoint men merely on account of their originality.

Now, that it is all over, we are anxious for the arrival of the "Fourth of March," that the fun may be commenced in earnest. Previous to that day, the firing will be only from pop-guns; the grand struggle is to come after the inauguration.

FORGOT HIS "ALIAS."—A German was sent up by the Mayor, some days ago, for vagrancy, who gave a wrong name. It was given in a hurry, and so he forgot what it was himself; and the consequence was, he did not get out at the expiration of his time, and not until the jailor made the discovery of the mistake. This should be a lesson to those who find it convenient to change their names, to assume one they can recollect.

KNEASS' BURLESQUE OPERA TROUPE.—This inimitable Band gives another Concert to-night. We express the opinion of all who heard them, when we say they are superior to any musical company that has visited our city for years,—except, perhaps, the Virginia Serenaders. We hope they may receive such encouragement as will induce them to remain next week.

☞ The Grand Jury will finish their labors today, and rise. They have had a long time, and a busy one. They have returned about eighty "True Bills" in Tippling House cases, all of which will be tried at the present session of the Court.

"NOT GUILTY."—This was the verdict in the case of Sims, indicted for Larceny of a watch from Norton, instead of "Guilty," as we yesterday reported by some mistake. There was no evidence against him.

☞ In passing down Walnut street, yesterday afternoon, we noticed two fashionably dressed ladies, leisurely walking along, puffing their regalias a la Mexicana.—Cin. Com.

We saw a lady in a market wagon, yesterday morning, smoking a cigar a la Pennsylvaniana.

ADMITTED.—On motion of C. O. Loomis, Esq., J. D. JENNINGS was yesterday admitted to practice as an attorney in the Courts of this county.

☞ Dan Marble has been drawing large audiences—as he always did, in this city. He gives a rich bill to-night.

☞ Another new batch of counterfeit coin is loose upon us—nothing less than five cent pieces.

☞ Consumption is a disease which is carrying its victims to the tomb by thousands, without being arrested in its progress by the medicines in common use at the present time. A brighter day is coming, and has come—as to successfully arrest this disease. DR. ROGER'S LIVERWORT AND TAR, not only gives immediate relief in COUGHS and COLDS, but from the testimony of men of the highest standing here and elsewhere, it is making some very remarkable cures of CONSUMPTION. Improvements in the treatment of diseases are onward; and nothing can arrest its spirit in the present age. Those who are afflicted with diseased Lungs would do well to call on KNICKERBACKER & HARDIE, Grant st., one door below Second st., the agents, and see the certificates of Dr. Wm. J. Richards, Judge Wm. Burke, the wife of the Rev. Geo. W. Muley, and of Dr. Hiram Constate Professor in the Eclectic Medical College of Cincinnati.
