For Cincinnati and Louisville. bery of the President, in December that. It has, at a large expense, advertised the robbery in all the cities at the Union. It has also given wilely extended notice of the issue of new notes, and that none of a date prior to 1843, have been circulated by the Hank since the robbery. It has reason to believe that attempts are making to circulate some of the stolen notes; therefore, in order further to guard the Bank against wrong, it now gives notice that none of the old issues of a date prior to the year 1843, will be redeemed, unless upon satisfactory evidence that they are honeatly held, with information when where, how, and of whom they were obtained, and that the bolders believe they are not a part of the stolen money. This evidence and information to be accompanied with proper affidavits of the facts. Had the public refused to receive the old issues, after notice of the robbery; those in whose hands they then were, could readily have satisfied the Hank that they were not a part of the money stolen from the President, and the Bank would long since have been able to detect the robbers, and all those who were concerned in passing the stolen notes, and neither the community nor the Bank would have suffered loss. It is hoped the public reduced to the result of the stolent the community for the Bank would have suffered loss. It is floped the public will still assist in tracing all those motes yet in circulation. Neither Banks or Brokers will receive them. The saconer ROBERT MORRIS.
