The Prosperity of Pittsburgh. There is not a city of its size in the Union that an boast of a more industrious, enterprising and prosperous population than Pittsburgh. While papics, distress and commercial revulsions have visited other cities, the "Iron City" has remained unahaken, and undisturbed in her career of prosperity. A failure in business here is a thing scarcely known; and when such an occurrence takes place, it can easily be traced, to some gross departure from their legitimate pursults on the part of those who become unate in business.33 Pittsburgh is compara lively a new city. It has been built, up within the life-time of a goodly number of its present citizens, from a mero settlement to large city, of over 50,000 itmus: It seems like some fairy dream I . The Great Eire of 1885, desuroyed one third of the business portion of the city. The accumulations of years of incessant toil and labor were awept from Avistence in a few minutes. But that conflagration it is now generally acknowledged, was a real bene fit to Pittsburgh. Since then, new life has been imparted to the energies of our people. There has been increased industry manifested by merchants, manufacturers and artizans of all kinds. Every branch of business has prospered; and our citizens have been blessed with health, happiness and plenty Who can contemplate this picture, without finding his heart throb with the most pleasing emotions? The Future is unrevealed; but we can predic nothing but a career of prosperity and greatness. Nature has been kind in bestowing upon us unequal ed advantages. Strong arms, honest hearts, and energetic minds, will push forward every enterprise which will add to the wealth and strength of the ily. In a few years we shall have Railroads to the East, the West, the North and the South. The noble Ohio will be navigated by hundreds of vessels which have not now an existence. The Monongehela improvements will be extended to the mountains of Virginia; and the beautiful Allegheny will float in greater abundance the lumber and products f the North. Pittsburgh must continue in her on ward course if her people do not engage in foolish enterprises, which will divert their attention from their proper and natural pursuits. By practising industry and economy, and not allowing themelves to run into unnatural excesses, they must con tinue, as herotofore, to enjoy unexampled prosper-

The Cincinnati Chronicle, of Saturday last, says : A civil case of quite an exciting nature was com-menced before Esq. Mark P. Taylor, on Tuesday list, in which the Right Rev. John Parcell, Bishop of Cincinnati, is the plaintiff, and Father Hubber the defendant. The suit is one of forcible detainer, the Bishop setting forth that Father Hubber occupies the premises of the German Catholic Church, (a building thereunto attached.) contrary to his (the Bishop's) will and desire. Father Hubber has been in charge of the German Catholic Church, Sather Bishop's demaid of remeral, upon the ground that he holds his power and place directly from Rome, and, has yet received no papal notification of re-moval; while on the other hand, the Rishop sets forth that he has by deed, and legal and ecclesiasti-cal power, control over all premises pertaining to the Catholic Church in this his Bishoprie. He advises emigrants to take the overland route, via Independence or St. Joseph No., to Fort Laramie, South Pass, Fort Hall, the Sink of Mary's River, &c., &c., the old route. Let no emigrant, carrying his family with him, deviate from it, or imagine to himself that he can find a better road. This road is the best that has yet been discovered, and to the Bay of San Francisco and the Gold Region it is much the shortest. The Indians, noreover, on this route, have, up to the present time been so friendly as to commit no acts of hostility un the emigrants. The trail is plain and good where here are no physical obstructions, and the emigrant by this roote, will certainly reach his destination in good season and without disaster.
