Hear Greasy!

The office holder of the American is an independent dog—he thinks as he pleases, and writes as he thinks. He will speak and write the truth. Sometimes, even though it should be unpleasant to the ears of his own political friends. In this respect, he's unlike his brother whig of the Gazette. The Deacon defends the whigs, whether right or wrong, and the grosser the wrong they may perpetrate, the more enthusiastic he becomes in their defence. For an instance of this, see the Gazette, for the last few days, wherein the Editor volunteers to defend the outrageous, illegal, unconstitutional and revolutionary proceedings of the whigs in the Ohio Legislature. The Editor of the American, on the contrary, lashes his own political brethren, occasionally with a "cat-o'-nine-tails"; and this, we presume, is the reason why they fear him so much. Hear what he says in relation to the difficulties at Columbus, Ohio. After alluding to the unconstitutional laws districting Hamilton county, he adds:

"We are not disposed to say which party, under the facts, is right, but every one must say that the Whigs acted like dolts in not having made the law explicit at least, while they had the making of it. Much of the sympathy we would extend to them, is necessarily withheld for their blundering—an inhabited sin in the political calendar.

"To be added to this is another one, even more egregious. The constitution expressly says that, no one holding an office under the laws of the State, shall be "a candidate for the Legislature." In the face of this express provision, two of the Whig candidates, in very decided Whig counties, were the Sheriffs of those counties. One of them discovered his ineligibility immediately after the election—resigns the seat to which he was elected, and a new writ was issued for an extra election, as in the case of a vacancy, and the new member comes forward to claim his seat. The locos contend that the Sheriff was not a member and could not resign his seat, and that consequently their candidate who ran against him at the regular election, is the member entitled to a seat. The whigs, whether right or wrong, appear to us to have completed a chapter of blunders."

"A chapter of blunders!!" That is a mild expression to use in reference to the outrages of an organized mob—a set of men who have trampled the Constitution under their feet; and have outraged law, decency and every thing else. But it will do for a whig paper.

Cure for Cholera.

The following letter, purporting to describe an infallible cure for cholera, is translated from the "Courier de Constantinople" of Oct. 14th:

"COURRIER DE CONSTANTINOPLE," Oct. 14, 1848.

"Sir:—Having been in the hands of Providence, an humble instrument of discovering an infallible remedy for cholera morbus, even in the most desperate cases, I hasten to communicate to your honorable journal the treatment by which, with God's assistance, I have quickly succeeded in curing the patient. It is as follows:

"As soon as the vomiting and diarrhœa begin, put the patient's legs up to the knee in water, as hot as the hand can bear; throw into it six or seven handfuls of coarse salt; let the legs be rubbed for half an hour by two strong persons, using both their hands. Open the large vein of each foot, and let it bleed in the hot water from twelve to twenty minutes, according to the sex, age, and strength of the patient. During this time, add more hot water as it becomes cooled; the natural animal heat will return immediately throughout the whole body as well as consciousness. The patient will soon speak and ask for food. He will be perfectly able to resume his ordinary duties after one or two days.

"Of sixty peasants attacked with cholera whom I have seen, several had been suddenly attacked while working in the fields; others, after having retired in perfect health to bed and been asleep part of the night, were awakened at dawn of day with the usual symptoms in the greatest intensity; and although assistance was rarely obtained before the expiration of half an hour or even one or two hours, (sometimes six or eight hours, and once ten hours had elapsed,) all have been restored to perfect health in such wise as to be able to resume their business five or six days after being attacked: in some cases on the next day or third day. It happened, though very rarely, the blood not flowing long enough, the patient has been bled a second time; this second time in the arm and not in the foot. In no case has the treatment failed.

"A remarkable feature of the efficacy of the treatment is the immediate and perfect re-establishment of their health in all of the patients, who, instead of losing their strength, seemed on the contrary, to have acquired new vigor.

"In future the visit of the cholera will excite less apprehension in the public than an equidomic of influenza. "I have the honor, &c.

"JOHN BARKER,

"Former Consul Gen. of England in Egypt."

Pay of the Associate Judges.

Petitions are now in circulation praying the Legislature to increase the pay of the Associate Judges of this county. The pay allowed at present is but $120 per annum. When we take into consideration the increased and increasing business of our County Courts, requiring the attention and service of the associate Judges for about one half the year, every reasonable man will admit that their compensation should be increased. In fact, the Associate, who resides in this country, to meet the expense of keeping a horse, paying high boarding, &c. in the city, finds that he must resort to his private purse. This should not be the case. Our Legislature should grant the prayer of the petitioners.

Law School.

By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that READE WASHINGTON, Esq., has opened a Law School, in this city, where young gentlemen who desire to follow the legal profession, may acquire a knowledge of the mysteries of "black let; tered lore." Mr. Washington is fully competent to perform all he undertakes, and there is no doubt but that he will meet with success, unless our young men throw my Lord Coke to the dogs, and start for California.

School for young Ladies.

Mrs. N. B. Coffin, the lady of our esteemed friend, Coffin the Artist, intends opening a School, on the 2d of January, 1849, in the Rev. Andrew Black's buildings, on Fourth street, to teach the Ornamental branches—such as Drawing, Landscape and Flower Painting, Worsteed Embroidery, Wax Fruit and Flowers, French Flowers, &c., Mrs. C. is entirely competent to give lessons in these branches, and we trust that she will meet with an abundance of patronage.

☞ A meeting of the citizens of Brooke and Hancock counties, Va., was held at Holliday's Cove, on the 7th inst., for the purpose of taking action in relation to the construction of a Railroad through those counties, as part of the connection between Pittsburgh and Steubenville. Thomas Orr, Esq., was chairman, and Wm. Brown, Secretary. A committee, consisting of Messrs. Jesse Edgington, John Crawford, Joseph Gardiner, Thomas Mahon, J. H. Miller, Thomas Orr and Wm. Brown, was appointed, for the purpose of obtaining the necessary legislative action from the legislature of Virginia, to allow the construction of such Road.

☞ The cold fever is all the rage in Boston, and the city is flooded with hand bills announcing numerous expeditions to the California mines.

[From Neal's Saturday Gazette.]

TRUST IN GOD.

A SKETCH FROM REAL LIFE.

Arrived at that period in life from whence I can calmly and dispassionately look back upon the past, and contemplate the varied scenes through which I have journeyed, I am strongly reminded, and feel deeply convinced, that it has been through a confident reliance and an unswerving "Trust in God" that I have been enabled to surmount the many difficulties, and bear up under the afflicting trials that have thronged my pathway through life.

Time was when to me the world was all bright, its flowers all beautiful—a favored child of fortune. From youth to manhood the ruder blast of adversity never penetrated the shield interposed by a mother's love, or the protecting influences of a father's wealth—from the one I inherited a love for mankind, from the other the means to which the world ever pays differences and survile adulation. I had troops of friends—they clustered around me as bees around a fragrant flower, to pilfer its sweets and leave it to wither, wilt and die.

Wealth, friends, station influence, these were all mine, yet there was a void in my heart; there was a something waiting which I sought and found in a creature fair as ever bloomed upon an earthly soil; heaven smiled upon our union, we were blessed with children, and our home was a paradise, but alas for poor humanity,

The spider's most attenuated thread
Is cord, is cable, to man's most tender tie
On earthly bliss—it breaks at every breeze!

It was not long ere I felt the full truth of the above quotation. A crisis arose in the monetary affairs of the country; it swept tornado like, with desolating strides, from the chill waters of the Aroostook, to the region of eternal flowers, and when the storm had passed, and the sun peered forth again, the turbid stream of bankruptcy bore upon its bosom the wreck and shattered fragments of health, wealth, peace and happiness. Need I say that my fortune was a wreck, my ruin (in a pecuniary point of view) complete. How could it be otherwise? Nature had endowed me with a heart susceptible to the wants of others, an ear never deaf to pleading, and a hand ever willing to execute the promptings of the soul. I endorsed, and the oft told tale was repeated. Some for whom I suffered now toil in wealth, but are no longer friends to me. Thank God I am enabled to live, and would scorn their friendships as I despise their grovelling souls. I leave them to their conscience and their God, with an abiding trust in mine.

If wealth departed and friends forsook me, I was richly rewarded, doubly recompensed by the love of wife and children, which rose superior to misfortune, and if possible, burned with a brighter flame as trouble thickened around, beautifully reminding me of the evergreen, which, twining its tendrils around the sturdy oak, seeks beneath its protecting foliage a shelter and a home, and which loosens not its grasp, but clings with yet fonder tenacity when the tree has been blasted and riven by the thunderbolts of Heaven. Strip it of its verdure, it stands forth, exhibiting to every eye the plant unseen, seeking with its tiny form to protect the structure which had sheltered it.

Reduced in circumstances, and deprived of many of its comforts, but still trusting in God, I sought and found employment, which I pursued cheerful sweet, and here, I honestly affirm, that at no period did I enjoy more unalloyed pleasure than when the day's of labor was over I returned to my humble but peaceful home, welcomed by the smile of my angel wife, and the glad bands of my little flock, a rich recompense for the world's cold frown.

But the golden bowl was broken, the blissful cup dashed to the earth and shattered into fragments, sweeping into the outspread ocean of eternity—all that made life sweet, or rendered it desirable.—Disease of a contageous nature crossed the threshhold of my paradise, and its inmates sickened and died. Time has mellowed but cannot efface the remembrances of that period. The anxious solicitude with which, night after night, I watched beside their suffering forms "in tears and agony," and when the last pulse had beat, when the eye returned no answering glance, when the hand returned no pressure, and the lips no kiss; when the beautiful was stiffened in death, and all was cold and silent; even then our grief was hushed, and we turned from the dead to the living with hope still springing in the heart, we strove with desperate energy to rescue them from the grasp of death. But crushed was every flower, and blighted every bud, within the short space of ten days vanished the blessful dream of years, and our children had passed into Heaven. She who had cradled upon her bosom the tender flock sank beneath the blow, and the mother slept beside her babes.

I have wanderers all over Atlantis home, but trusted to watch the flowers of Spring, and tend the mossy verdure which shrouds them from my view still trusting in God that I have a treasure laid up in Heaven, whither I trust, after having suffered and done his will, I shall be called.

☞ John Cook, Jr. is now on trial; at Worcester, Mass., on an indictment charging him with the murder of his wife Rosanna, in February, 1834, nearly fifteen years ago, by administering to her a quantity of white arsenic. The evidence is purely circumstantial, and is of a most singular character.

☞ Captain David Lane, a respectable citizen of Gloucester, Mass., committed suicide on the 9th inst. at the Pearl Street House, Boston, by cutting his throat with a razor. The cause of this rash act is not stated.

☞ At the Philadelphia Mint $16,000 worth of pure California gold has been deposited by a gentleman from Panama. A larger amount of the same precious metal is in the hands of individuals just arrived in Philadelphia.

JAMES M'KENNA,
dec15 Auctioneer.

☞ On Tuesday, the 12th ult., Thomas Kennedy, Esq., was admitted to the Bar on motion of Hon. Charles Shaler.

☞ The Eagle Saloon has been re-opened by Mr. Donelly. We were through it on Wednesday evening, and we must say that it now surpasses any thing of the kind in the city. We call attention to the card.

☞ The Merry Wives of Windsor drew a good house last night. We protest against the mangling of this piece. Why not give it in five acts? It is too good to be contracted.

☞ A black woman, named Mary Bingham, was yesterday arrested by the Allegheny Police, and brought before Mayor Campbell, on the charge of seducing from her home a young girl named Beason, for the purpose of prostitution. She was committed.

For the Morning Post.

The Cholera.

MR. HARPER: I would suggest to the proper authorities of the city, the propriety of having the bed of the canal thoroughly cleansed as soon as the water is let off. The Cholera is in our country, and may be soon in our midst, and it should become the imperative duty of Councils to see that all nuisances are immediately removed. The lives of citizens are not to be estimated by dollars and cents; and from the present filthy condition of parts of the city, hundreds of lives may be lost by a delay in carrying out those sanitary provisions, which are recommended by physicians and experienced persons in regard to the Cholera. If the bed of the canal is not cleansed, it will infect squares around it. But there are more plague spots than the canal; and it will be found, on examination, that the back yards of a majority of the old houses of the city have lacations in them that will breed the pestilence. Now is the time to look to all these things, for we know not the day or the hour when the Destroyer will commence his work.

WARNING.

THE MICROSCOPE.—This evening will be the last opportunity our citizens will have of witnessing the Microscopic exhibitions of Prof. Stephens, in Philo Hall.

☞ Col. B. B. Taylor arrived here on yesterday morning, and took lodgings at the Monongahela House. He appears as Rolla, on Monday night.

☞ Attention, Niagara!—The members of the Niagara Fire Company are hereby notified to attend a special meeting at their Hall, on Saturday evening, the 16th instant, at 61 o'clock. By order, dec15 NEILWAINE, Sec'y.

THE young man, to whom we referred yesterday, as having his leg cut off by a cable, in an endeavor to stop a metal boat, is named Robert Moorehead.—He is a worthy, industrious young man and resides in Jefferson county, and is personally known to many of our citizens who are engaged in the Allegheny and Clarion river trade, who can bear testimony to his correct and industrious habits. A second amputation was performed by Doctors Gross and Haslett, and he is now in a fair way of recovery. His is an unusually hard case, and merits the sympathies of our citizens. The leg was cut entirely off, and floated down, or sunk in the river, with the boot attached.

A WOMAN COMMITTED FOR LARCENY.—On Wednesday, a very genteel looking woman, named Johnson, was arrested, on the information of A. A. Mason, Dry Goods Dealer, Market street, who charged her with stealing a Shawl. After her arrest, it was ascertained that she had in her possession large rolls of counterfeit Bank Notes; and that she had been endeavoring to pass them. She was committed for further hearing: and yesterday afternoon was again brought out. Another female was arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the gang—for it appears that Mrs. Johnson acts for some men who are professional gamblers and counterfeiters. This she does not deny. And it is believed that a number of women in this city, in the neighborhood of Washington and Prospect streets, are concerned. Mrs. Johnson was finally committed; and the other lady was discharged for want of sufficient testimony against her.

☞ The Boston Post says there is no truth in the report that there is a gambling hell in that city supported by respectable ladies. Glad to hear it.

☞ SITTING OF BLOOD.—When the stream of life is encumbered with morbid humors, its volume or quantity is increased and the blood-vessels are filled to overflowing; hence a rupturing of those which terminate in the lungs, and spitting of blood; consumption, and other dreadful complaints. Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills are genius to put a stop to spitting of blood; because they expel from the circulation those corrupt humors which are the cause of the bursting of blood-vessels, and of every malady incident to man. From three to six of said Indian Vegetable Pills, taken at night, on going to bed, will in all cases give relief, and, if repeated a few times, will most assuredly restore the body to a state of sound health.

Beware of Counterfeits and Imitations.—Remember that the Original and Only Genuine Indian Vegetable Pills have the written signature of WILLIAM WRIGHT on the top label of each box.

Remember, also, that Messrs. Feuchtwanger & Co., of New York; Jas. S. Gluecoe & Co., at Cincinnati; and J. B. Wilder & Co., of Louisville, are now agents for this medicine, and we cannot guarantee the genuineness of that offered by them for sale.

The genuine is for sale at Dr. Wright's Principal Office, 160 Race street, Philadelphia; and by JOHN THOMPSON, 156 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, Pa., who is sole agent for this city, by whom dealers can be supplied at the wholesale rate. dec11
