The book of nature and the print. Of beauty on the whispering sea, Give still to me some lineament. Of what I have been taught to be My manihors harder, and perhaps. My manihors hardruk, up tears. And there's a mildew in the lapse. Of a few miserable years. But nature's bookie even, yet With all my mother's lessons writ.

I have been out at eventide, Beneath a moonlight sky of spring; When earth was garnished like a bride, And night had on her silver wing— When bursting buds find diamonds gracs. And waters leaping to the tight, Amid all that makes the pulses, pass With wilder fleenees, through the night— When all was beauty then have I, With friends on whom my love is flung. Like myrrh on winds of Ataby, Gazed up where evening's lamp is hung.

And when the behauteous spirit, there Fiung over me its golden chain. My mother's voice came on the air, Like the light drooping of the rain. And resting on some all ver star, The spirit of a bended knee. I've poured her deep and fervent prayer. That our eternity might be To rise in Heaven like size at night, And tread a living pathol light.
