The Morning Post
TRIUMPHANTLY SUSTAINED
BY THE PEOPLE!!

A severe contest, for some time past, has been going on between the friends of the TEN HOUR LAW, on the one side, and the opponents of that humane measure, on the other side, in this community. As the friend of LABOR—as the defender of the poor but honest sons and daughters of toil, we have deemed it our duty to sustain the law of the Commonwealth, and expose those Cotton Manufacturers who conspired to evade its spirit and intent. For taking our position on the side of Humanity, we have been assailed with a ferocity and brutality, unparalleled in the history of newspaper warfare. Attempts the most infamous and outrageous have been made, to break down our establishment; and the business portion of the community have been appealed to, day after day, and week after week, to withdraw their patronage from this paper. Hireling scribblers and venal presses, have opened their floodgates of calumny and detraction, to silence and put us down. And all this was for opinions sake!

As long as this controversy was confined to the columns of newspapers, we had no fears for the results. We knew the Masses of all parties were with us; —our course was applauded by the great body of the Democracy, not only of this county and state, but in many other states of the union;—the unbought Democratic Press of the country came to our help, against the mighty;—and resolutions of County Conventions, and Town Meetings, approved, and complimented our course.

Finding that the VOICE OF THE PEOPLE was with us, and the hearts of the Masses throbbed in unison with our own, the Cotton Conspirators concocted a cunning scheme, by which they supposed, the public attention might be diverted, and your position at issue, (the TEN HOUR LAW,) and the citizens of Pittsburgh made to believe that the course of the Post, on the great question of Human Rights, was not approved by the Democracy of this city and vicinity. To carry this scheme into affect, a letter was addressed by the Cotton manufacturers to Judge Wilkins and others, and an answer obtained from them, eulogising the character and standing of the cotton men, and asserting that the course of the Morning Post, in regarding to the ten hour law, is of "pernicious tendency and opposed to the interests of the Democratic party, and of society in generally." The letter containing this monstrous falsehood was presented to nearly every prominent democrat in Pittsburgh and vicinity, for their signatures, by Mr. J. K. Moorhead, who has been chief actor in this villainous crusade against the Post. By making false representations as to its character and contents, our persecutors induced several gentlemen to sign this document. The correspondence appeared in the Journal of Friday last; and thereupon the Editor of that paper, as well as every enemy of the Ten Hour Law, raised a shout of triumph, and declared that "the Morning Post can no longer be regarded as the organ of the Democratic Party."

This whole proceeding could only be viewed as a gross insult, not only to ourself personally, but to the true Democracy of Allegheny County, and every friend of the Ten Hour Law, whether whig or democrat. Thereupon our friends, without any solicitation on our part, drew up a counter statement, "protesting against a few individuals expressing the public sentiment of the Democratic Party." This was a spontaneous movement of the enthusiastic, whole-souled Democracy, who never abandon an honest and fearless defender of the People's Rights.

We publish to-day the "Cotton Correspondence," and the "cards" of some of those who had been deceived by J. K. Moorhead, when signing that document. Immediately after, we publish the PROTEST OF THE PEOPLE, signed by an immense number of honest, bona fide names, placed there by their own hands. We now consider that the course of the Post, in regard to the Ten Hour Question, has been triumphantly sustained by the People! And here we are satisfied to let the matter rest, unless the enemies of the Ten Hour Law renew the crusade against us in some other form.

To the numerous kind friends who have stood by us in this controversy, we hereby return our heartfelt thanks. To the conspirators who have undertaken to put us down, we also feel under great obligation—their opposition has only had the affect of placing the Post upon a foundation which cannot be shaken. Our subscription list has increased at the rate of about fifty per day, since this warfare against the paper commenced. To the hosts of honest whigs, who, regardless of all allegiance to that party, have contributed their subscriptions and their influence to maintain us, we feel under lasting obligations.—Our task is now done.

We trust that this controversy will teach all petty tyrants and monied aristocrats, hereafter, that the People, the honest masses, cannot be crushed and rode over rough shod, by a few individuals.

Ohio U. S. Senator.

Samuel P. Chase, the newly elected U. S. Senator in Ohio, is a free soil man in principle, but is pledged to oppose the administration of Gen. Taylor. We publish below the ballotings which took place. It will be perceived, that after the first ballot, the Democrats supported Mr. Chase:

THE DEMOCRACY OF LAWRENCEVILLE HAVE SPOKEN.

Agreeably to public notice given in the usual way a number of the Democratic citizens of Lawrenceville, assembled in the public school house, on Monday evening, February 26. On motion, Mr. JAS. ESLER, was called to the chair; Mr. HENRY SNOWDEN was appointed Vice President; Andrew J. Scott, Secretary.

The object of the Meeting having been stated by the president, it was, on motion,

Resolved, That the proceedings of the meeting held in the city on last Saturday evening be read.

After the reading by the Secretary, Mr. HENRY MCCULLOUGH offered the following Resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, An effort is now being made in the Legislature of this state, to repeal Johnson's Proviso to the law of last winter for the relief operatives in Cotton Mills, which, if successful, will in some measure prevent the evils of a system which in our opinion is injurious to the health and happiness of a large and respectable portion of our fellow beings.

And, whereas, a concerted effort is now being made by those who are hostile to the measure of repeal, to manufacture a false public opinion by denouncing the Morning Post and its editor, Mr. Harper, for his manly support of the operatives in the hour of their trial, and by endeavoring to identify those who seek to alleviate the sufferings of our common humanity with violators of law, &c.

Therefore, Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the law for the repeal of the Proviso should be passed at once, and that its repeal would be in accordance with the public feeling of our community.

Resolved, That the course of the Pittsburgh Morning Post, in the matter referred to, meets with our entire approbation, and that we will sustain it notwithstanding the efforts of those who are now attempting to prostrate it.

Resolved, That it is with regret we have heard read this evening, a card signed by a number of persons heretofore acting with the Democratic party, and published in the Journal of Friday last, taking ground against the Post.

Resolved, That we do not concur in the opinion expressed by these persons that the course of the Post is "of pernicious tendency and opposed the interests of the Democratic party," and would recommend to these persons the remarks of the editor of the whig Journal on the subject, if they desire any evidence of their dirilection of duty to the party which has heretofore sustained many of them.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be signed by the officers, and that the Post, and all papers in the county, in favor of the repeal of the Proviso, be requested to publish them.

Mr. John D. Moreland offered the following, which was adopted:

Resolved. That each person present will use his influence to get a subscriber to the Morning Post, published in Pittsburgh, by L. Harper, Esq.

After some further business the meeting adjourned.

JAMES ESLER, President.
H. SNOWDEN, Vice President.
A. J. Scott, Secretary.

Dr. Gazzam's Letter.

The following letter of Dr. Edward D. Gazzam, enclosing $10, was handed to us on Friday morning last, immediately after the "cotton correspondence" appeared in the Journal. This is the letter to which one referred in our paper of Saturday.—The Doctor's heart is in the right place:

PITTSBURGH Feb 23, 1849.

L. HARPER, Esq:

Dear Sir—Please credit me on account with the enclosed $10.

I have seen the Journal of this morning, and notwithstanding the formidable array of authority now against you, and notwithstanding I once differed with you myself, because you supported Cass, an irregular nominee, and refused us regular Jefferson Democrats a full hearing in your paper—I cannot refrain from saying this, in the present struggle, you will have the sympathies of true Democrats in your favor.

I don't mean to say, that in this cotton war, you have been altogether right; but certainly, all combinations, judicial, legal, commercial or political, to break down or muzzel a free press, because its editor makes some mistakes in politics, or in measures are wrong; and the cry of "stop my paper," is the last kind of argument and last mode of punishment, that sensibly editors should countenance, or liberal minded men should resort to.

That overwhelming letter in the Journal I responsibility" I should incur by such refusal. How this quasi threat has affected me you can judge from the foregoing lines.

Very truly, yours,
E. D. GAZZAM.

To Our Ten Hour Friends.

We shall this day forward to Captain SMALL, the able and indefatigable advocate of the Ten Hour System, in the Pennsylvania Legislature, the manuscript copy of the names published in to-day's Post sustaining our course in relation to that humane and glorious measure. The names occupy about thirty feet of paper, in double colums. We shall request the Captain to present this array of names to the Legislature, as the strongest evidence of the unbounded popularity of the Ten Hour Law in Pittsburgh.

Col. Charles H. Brough.

The Ohio Statesman of the 23d instant says: "the two Houses met this afternoon and elected, on the first ballot, Col. Charles H. Brough, the able editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, President Judge of the Hamilton county District. We congratulate our worthy contemporary of the press on his good fortune, and have no doubt he will acquit himself as well on the Bench, as he has in all other capacities.

☞ We desire to call the attention of the working men who have heretofore voted the Whig ticket, to a little, but significant fact: neither of the Whig papers have, given any account of the proceedings of the Ten Hour Meeting, held on Saturday evening! That meeting was called by citizens without respect to party. There were Whigs, Free Soilers and Democrats in attendance. It was not designed for political effect; it can have no bearing upon party. Now what do the working men, who have heretofore, trusted to these shining lights—the Gazette and Journal to guide them in the path of duty, think of this. No notice of the Meeting appeared; the proceedings were not given even as a matter of local news! These papers have not failed in making public the entire proceedings of other meetings called by the men of wealth. But here is a Meeting of the laborers and their friends, and no reporter is sent to take notes!

The Canal Bank of Cleveland—Look out for Squalls!

The Auditor of State, of Ohio, in answer to a resolution of the House of Representatives, passed on the 10th inst., has reported to that body a statement of the condition of the Canal Bank of Cleveland, which exhibits its rottenness and admonishes the people to stand from under. The whole amount of specie on hand for the redemption of its circulation is $8,687,08, while its circulation and the amount due depositors amount to $63,257,15, being more than seven dollars of circulation and deposites for every one dollar of specie in its vaults. This is one of Alfred Kelly's pets, and is doubtless conducted upon the principle of financiering advocated by Nick Biddle, "that banks are always the strongest when they have the least specie."

Let the people take timely warning and stand from under.

OPENING OF NAVIGATION ON THE MIAMI CANAL.—Mr. Forrer, (Commissioner on the Miami Canal,) writes the Toledo Blade, that the Canal will be ready for navigation, from Cincinnati to the Wabash Valley, and to the Maumee Bay, by the 6th of March, at farthest. A letter from the Chief Engineer on the Wabash and Erie Canal, in Indiana, informs him that the canal will also be open before the 10th of March, down to Lafayette.

☞ Abby Folsom assisted in the collections at the Massachusetts State convention last week, and pocketed the proceeds.

The "Cotton Correspondence."

From the Commercial Journal, Feb. 23.

Hon. William Wilkins and others:

SIRS: The Morning Post of this city professing to be the organ of the Democratic party, having for a considerable period, been engaged in representing the cotton manufacturers of Pittsburgh, as violators of the law, tyrants, oppressors, bloodhounds, &c., at length charges in Monday's paper that they have been sentenced by a just and discriminating public judgment.

Offensive and unjust as are these charges, so far as affects ourselves personally, we deem them unworthy of notice; but scattered abroad by a paper claiming to be the organ of a great party, if uncontradicted, they may create an incorrect opinion as to the state of public feeling in this community, the effect of which, none can better estimate than yourselves. As persons whose character and standing are well known abroad, who are cognizant of the facts and understand the feelings of this community, we would suggest the propriety of expressing your opinion, respecting the charges of the Post against the Cotton Manufacturers of Pittsburgh.

Respectfully yours,

Nathl. Holmes,	J. K. Moorhead,
Jno. T. Logan.	Jacob Painter,

To William Bell, J. K. Moorhead, Pollard McCormick and others:

GENTLEMEN: We have noticed with regret, the attacks that have of late been made by the Morning Post of this city, against the cotton manufacturers of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. Those attacks, in our opinion, are founded in error; unjust toward the persons assailed, and injurious to the interests of this community.

From our personal acquaintance with yourselves and the manner in which your business has been conducted, we believe, and it is the public opinion, that your establishments have been managed with justice and regard to law; that the proprietors are regarded as useful, honorable and upright men, and have greatly contributed to the prosperity of this community, and that the efforts to excite the operatives against their employers, are uncalled for, of pernicious tendency, and opposed to the interests of the Democratic party, and of society in general.

Signing Off!

It will be seen from the following note from DAVID LYNCH, Esq., that he signed the Moorhead certificate of character, in consequence of false representations having been made as to its character and contents. We have no doubt that many others were imposed upon in like manner:

Editor Daily Post: Dear Sir—On yesterday, a gentleman met me on Market Street, and requested my name to a letter in reply to one from Wm. Bell, Esq., and others, addressed to Judge Wilkins, &c. I had no time to read either of them, and refused to let my name be used, on the ground that I had no wish to meddle with political matters at present; but on the assurance that it had no bearing in that way, I consented to its use, but on reading it to-day in the Commercial Journal, for the first time, I take the liberty of differing with the gentleman who solicited my name, as regards it bearing, and am of opinion that it has a considerable squinting towards political action. Therefore, if I had read said letter before it went to press, I should not have permitted my name to have appeared as it did.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
DAVID LYNCH.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 23, 1849,

A CARD.

MR. HARPER—Dear Sir:

Backing out, is not a characteristic of mine, either in law or in politics. But, if the paper in the Journal of Friday, is intended to make Whig capital, or is to be construed into hostility to the "Ten Hour Law," of which I was one of the earliest and most ardent advocates, or into an attempt to break down the "Post," or to impair your claims to a just public confidence, then my signature is improperly there.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM M'CANDLESS.

Saturday, February 24, 1849.

A CARD.

From a perusal of the columns of the Commercial Journal of the 23d and 24th instant, I regret to find that the editor of that paper labors to put a construction on the part of the signers of the Card of Wm. Bell, Esq., and others, that I for one must beg leave to disclaim. The signing of the said Card on my part, was not done with a view to break down or in any other way to injure the business or standing of the Pittsburgh Morning Post. Nor do I repudiate the paper. Much less do I approve of the direct appeals which the editor of the Commercial Journal has made to the business part of this community to crush its editor for opinion's sake, or in any way inviting political action on this controversy. My own motive was of a higher kind, namely, to bear my humble testimony of the upright, high-minded and honorable standing and character of the gentlemen whose names are therein set forth. I done this too, the more freely, and knowingly, from the fact, that during the last ten years, our business and interests have been considerably blended together, and conducted in such a manner, on their part, as to call forth this hasty response.

By giving this a place in your columns, you will much oblige yours, &c.

JOHN DUNLAP.

A CARD.

MR. L. HARPER—Dear Sir:

As one of the signers of a Card, in relation to the Cotton Factory Proprietors, published in the Commercial Journal of Friday, I wish to be distinctly understood, that in signing that article, I had no intention whatever of injuring your paper. Nor did I think it would be made a personal or political affair. I signed the article with others merely, giving my opinion as to the character and standing in society of the Factory owners, all of whom I had intercourse with, I found to be correct and honorable in every transaction. I am in favor of the course you have pursued in relation to the Ten Hour Law, and every other act or project which may tend to the welfare, happiness and independence of the working classes.

Respectfully yours.
JAMES M'KENNA.

A CARD.

Reserve Township, Feb. 27, 1849.

MR. HARPER:

Dear Sir—I have not been in town for nearly a week, and during that time, have seen no city paper, except yours of yesterday; I therefore write without any special reference to anything that may have been said or printed concerning the note signed by myself and others, relative to the Cotton Manufacturers. Perhaps I was unwary in not thinking of the political aspect that might be given to that note; but certainly I did not think of it. No more did I intend that it should be used as an instrument to injure the Post. Some of the Manufacturers thought that circumstances justified them in getting a public certificate of their standind in this community, and I cherfully certified that they are esteemed honorable men. Several of those gentlemen have, for years, known my opinion, that ten hours a day is as much as any human being ought to work in a Cotton Factory, and I am sure they are too honorable to desire to impute any other opinion to me. If others have misconstrued what was intended by me simply as an act of good will, I desire that they may be undeceived.

Very respectfully, yours.
WALTER H. LOWRIE.

Now Let the People Speak!

TO THE PUBLIC.

The undersigned respectfully protest against a few individuals expressing the public sentiment of the Democratic Party. And we also protest against a false issue being raised, when, as we believe, the only great and vital question is the "Ten Hour Law." Great, as it involves the interests of our country and of humanity; vital, as the happiness of children and their lives are in the issue.—When the people meet together and speak for themselves we shall be content with their decision.—If the Ten Hour Law is not a Democratic measure, then "we have been fooled to the top of our bent," and we will consent to learn it from none but the people themselves. At the next Democratic County Convention, we ask that this question shall be submitted and settled. In the mean time we beg the public to believe that officials dictation is not always the voice of the Democracy.

If the object of the card in yesterday's Journal is to consummate, by annihilation, the crusade against the Morning Post, we trust the effort must fail. A manly and fearless defender of principle cannot be stifled to sink.
