Pittsburgh Convention. The West Chester Republican suggests, that as the cholera prevails, at Pittsburgh, it would be advisable for the Democratic State Central Convention.

But to issue a call, changing the time of meeting. But quere—whether shall we go, where the cholera may not come? By rushing from imaginary danger, we may "fly to evils that we know not of." We sub mit the suggestion to the Pittaburgh Post.—Lancas

We were no little surprised in reading the above paingraph. How any intelligent newspaper editor could be so far deceived as to state that the " Cholern prevails at Pittsburgh, " is a matter of astonishment to us. We here take occasion to declare, most positively and emphatically, that er Cholera does not prevail in this city. Are healthy we will say, that Pittsburgh was neve there is not than at the present time same population, where a city in the world than here. The idea of changing fewer deaths of than here. The idea of changing the Democratic State Conven jun, is positively too ridiculous for serious comment.
Our Democratic friends need not entertain the least apprehension in relation to the Cholera, so far as a visit to this city is concerned.

The emigration to the United States is rapidly in creasing, especially from Germany. The emigrants from that country are generally active, healthy, industrious and enterprising men, who will people our western States, and make the "wilderness blos som like the rose." A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, in writing from Washington, says: "We may, in the course of this summer, expect the arrival of more than two hundred thousand emigrants. from Germany-mostly men of considerable means. more or less compromised in the late revolutions.-If, as was estimated by the last Secretary of State, each of these men bring with him only on an average £10 sterling the money thus brought to the country cannot be less than two millions sterling, or in round numbers, ten million of dollars. been made. We speak of Mr. Brobson as a public man and officer. He is utterly and palpably incompetent to a proper discharge of the duties of the office. He has no other recommendation but the bitterness of his writings against both friends and foes, and his long continued and uniform sycophantic laudation of Hon. John M. Clayton. His services to the whig party are supposed to have never benefitted it one vote; and he was very tardy in coming to the support of Gen. Taylor. As John M. Clayton has large means, it would have been magnatimous in him to have pensioned Mr. Brobson out of his private purse, if he owed him anything for services rendered, but not on the public; and if the vote was taken in this city and country, Wm. Brobson could not receive that of a respectable uninority. One of taken in this city and county, Wm. Brobson could not receive that of a respectable minority. One of the old General's principles have been violated, to wit: "is he capable?" Gen. Young would have given general satisfaction. We speak out as freemen, for the public. Let them hear the truth and judge for themselves. If such appointments are made elsewhere, we cannot wonder that the administration is defeated in the late elections. It is a consolation to know that if just and progressive principles are repudiated in our party, and impropor ones adopted, they will appear in another; and ultimately triumph.
