CAROLINE VILLERE THE ABDUCTOR'S FAT BY MORTIMER. (CONTINUED.) CHAPTER III. When Simpson read the letter sent to Henry L Ronde by General Villere, he laughed heartily; and turning to his friend, said, - Hen! do you intend to succumb to that fellow, and let him bully you out of that five hundred thousand?" "No! I'll see him d-d first," was the spirite reply of our young hero. "That's right," resumed Simpson; "perfectly right-manly, by George! I would'nt ask him for the privilege of wedding his niece; I would take her to the alter by moonlight; and if I don't mistake, I can find a man who will ship her off for you in a trice." "I am glad you're come, Ned-indeed I am; for, I've been thinking and thinking about a plan; but can't mature one—and if you could set me which is spreading its ravages throughout the land, on a good plan, I would take it as a very great "I can do that, Hen; I saw La Fitte in the city this morning; and he's the man you want; he is come to give some information to Governor Claiborne, about the plans of the British; and by the

"Why, you see," replied Simpson, "he was sailing about in the Gulf, on professional business -and he come across Col. Nicholl's; the two fell into conversation, and the Col. got to know something of La Fitte's character and business; and, thinking that he could easily bribe him to serve as a pilot for the British ffeet, he told him of their plans, and then proposed giving La Fitte a large reward, provided he would assist them. When La Fitte heard all, he refused to engage in their service, and, as I said, is here to communicate what he discovered to our Governor. And, in my estimation, it will be d-d mean on the part of the city, if they don't give him twice the amount Nicholis offered him. But I had almost forgotten, I was to speak of a plan by which you will fool the old General." "Yes, Ned, that is what I want to hear."

"Well! I feel certain that I can get La Fitte to assist you in taking this girl of yours; you had look him up, and make arrangements so that we can see him this evening." " Well! do Ned," responded the pleased Henry, and I will not forget you."

Simpson arose and took his leave. I will not follow him in his search; but pass to the contemplation of another character in my story. In a room, on the second floor of a hotel, in the La Fitte was the only surviving member of the family; he was about twenty-two years of age; had spent much of his life at sea; was bold, persevering, and in every way qualified to take charge of a vessel. But, instead of taking hold of his father's shattered business, for the purpose of righting it up, he closed the establishment made sale of all his property, and bought a schooner. This he armed in the most complete manner, and manned with the most desperate and determined men he could obtain. With this vessel, he set out to seek revenge upon the destroyers of his pared for the worst, for there is no security for life mother and father, as he termed the British.

After following the sea for one year, he found that it would be necessary to seek a place of rendezvous on land, and selected as a very suitable place, the island of Baratania. PITTSBURGH: SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 7, 1849. FOR CANAL COMMISSIONER. JOHN A. GAMBLE,

We publish the corrected proceedings of the Democratic State Convention, at length, in the Saturday Morning Post of this day.

OFFICIAL. BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES A Recommendation At a season when the Providence of God has man feated itself in the visitation of a fearful pestilence, it is fitting that a people, whose reliance has ever been on His Protection, should humble themselves before His Throne; and, while acknowledging past ransgressions, ask a continuance of DIVINE MERCY. It is, therefore, earnestly recommended that the first Friday in August be observed throughout the United States as a day of Fasting, Humiliation, and ious branches of the public service on that day; and it is recommended to persons of all religious denomnations to abstain, as far as practicable, from secular occupations, and to assemble in their respective places of Public Worship, to acknowledge the Infi-TITE GOODNESS which has watched over our existence as a nation, and so long crowned us with manifold

LOCAL MATTERS. Fine .- A fire broke out between 12 and 1 acclor n Thursday night in the board yard on the bank of he Allegheny River, between Pitt and Hay streets. The board yard belonged to Mr. Booth, and was entely destroyed. Loss $9,000, of this $4,500 was covered by insurance. The flames from the hoard yard communicated to the Western University, immediately adjoining, and this edifice, so late erected, was entirely destroyed, together with the household farniture of Professor Stevens, which was in the building. Prof. Steven valuable apparatus, together with a greater portio of the desks and seats belonging to the University ere saved. The building was insured in $10,000, which will entirely cover the loss.

There cannot be the least doubt but that the fire was the work of an incendiary. After the terrible example set to these desperate wretches only a few months since by Judge Patton, in sending one of their number to the Penitentiary for THIRTY YEARS, we had hoped that they would not dare again to apply the torch to the property of our citizens, We sincerely hope that the Police will use every exertion to ferret out the perpetrator of this fire, and cases fifty-seven. This shows a decline in Choicea, send them to keep company with their comrades

LARCENY .- A man named Hugh Hoay alias John M'Coy, was arrested by officer Jewell yesterday, inon having been made against him by Henry Muldane, for stealing a pair of shoes from his shop, on the corner of Ferry and Second streets, on Thursiers to him, offering day. On searching Hoay's trunk various articles, supposed to have been stolen, were found. Among them were shirts marked "J. A. C.," "S. No. 18," "Gilbert M'Masters," drawers marked "W. R." Silk shawle, vests, pants, caps, silk handkerchiefs, Src., showing that Hoey had evidently been doing a wholesale business in the way of picking up litt things. He was fully committed. THE LAST CHANCE .- This afternoon at 2 o'clock will be a good opportunity, for ladies, children and family parties to visit the Circus, without being endangered by the crowd. This Company have been performing here all the week to very large and delighted audiences. Good order has been maintained in and out of the arena. Reported for the Morning Post. There is no definite intelligence to-day from Si-CINCINNATI, July 6, 91 P. M. Louis in relation to Cholera. At Cincinnati the interments up to noon to-day from Cholera were ninety-one; and from other disbut an increase of mortality from other diseases. 11 is generally believed that the Cholera has now reached its height. Every reasonable offort is being sentleman for making a suggestion, which may have nothing new in it: The Contractors are about paving the upper part of Wylie street, Fulton streef, and Central Avenue. Within a month or so after these streets are finished they will be torn up; in order to have the water pipes laid in them, at a great expense to the City, as well as injury to the streets. Now, would it not be good policy to have the water pipes laid to forest that it is coastomary, to take a different course from that suggested; but I cannot for the life of me see the wisdom of it, though wisdom characterizes all the acts of the "City Fathers"
