The Democracy have never deceived the honest workingmen. Whether success smiles or defeat frowns upon them, the Democracy do not change their Principles or Opinions. They have nothing to conceal from the public eye. They have confidence in the intelligence of the people; and although they may be cheated and defeated, it can only be for a short time. Like TRUTH that has been crushed to earth, they will rise again, purer, and brighter and holier than ever.

"Carleatures." Our conscientious and truth-loving friend of the Gazette asserts that-"The Washington Union, and other Locutor prints, continue to hold up the President of the United States to ridicule, by publishing caricatures of the speeches, and representing them as genuine." The Deacon wishes to know if " these papers" will publish "the speech of the old General delivered at Pittsburgh." We shall do so with pleasure, the moment we receive a genuine copy thereof, certified to by gentlemen of respectability who actually heard it. We deny, most positively, that the report of the General's speech, as published in the Journal and Gazette, is genuine. It is a gross " caricature," if not a forgery. We are authorised to say that there are sentences in that report that were never uttered by Gen. Taylor. This can be proven by the testimony of Whige. Will the Gazette have the reck. less impudence to deny this?

The hired prisoner of the Regency is the Wash ington Republic. We have already seen its slanders against Messrs. Weller, Collins and others, published just enough times before the are fell, in order the case of Mr. Collins was peculiar. While stricken with the cholora, mourning upon a sick bed the death of a cherished member of his household—the death of a cherished memoer of his nousehold—the subtle calumby was published against him at a distance, even before he dreamed of it. Col. Weller is struck at whilethousands of miles absent and though bravely defended by his friends, is whistled off like

Juring the detention occasioned by this very usual exhibition of Mormon character, I visited several elevated points in our vicinity in order to enjoy the grandeur of the prospect. There is something reviving to one's feelings in the ascent from those deep and suitry valleys to the mountain's top, and bathing the feverish brow in the cooling atmosphere of that region of everlasting snow. In this ramble, I traversed vast hills composed of sand and sea shells. Yes, there in the LOCAL MATTERS. Contradiction.-We have been requested to state that our neighbor of the Chronicle was entirely in error yesterday morning, in reference to the disturbance before the Monorgabela House on Monor con-ent Re- day night. Upon invitation the Empire Minstrels went there for the purpose of serenading Gen. Taylor and Gov. Johnston, and had been in the house singing for nearly two hours, when they came out with the intention of going home. They were met at the door by the Western Minstrels, and a proposition was made that each company should sing : song. The Westerns sang first and the Empire immediately after. After the singing was over some individuals not in any manner connected with eithe band, started a fight, in which we have every rea son to believe, and have so been assured by both ompanies, none of their members participated. The disturbance was of but a moment's duration We were present and did not see any thing out o the way on the part of either band; both tried to revent and quell the disturbance.
