Hon. R. J. Walker.

At this critical period, while the workingmen and farmers of Pennsylvania are resisting with all their power, the commercial restrictions which the mo popolisis demand, it is curious to observe the va rious tricks which the Protectionists are resorting to "for the purpose of making, capital for their party. The latest is the assertion that the Hon, R. J. Walk vier has declared himself favorable to an increase of duties on iron and coal. Of course, there is not one word of truth in the statement. Mr. Walker is neither knave nor fool.

It seems that Mr. R. has been on a visit to the home of his childhood. A letter from Pottsville, to the editor of the Pennsylvanian; shows the position of Mr. R., on the Tariff question. We give an ex-

THE INDIANS .- The agent called on us on Saturday vith tears in his eyes, and said we had injured him, by saving that he had left with the money of the Kansas Indians in his pocket. He promised to write an explanation of his conduct, but we have not seen an explanation of his conduct, but we have not seen him since. One thing is certain, the Indians were left in a destitute condition. They slept in the Second street by or Township Rights, as abore, to be made to be by or Township Rights, as abore, to be made to be on MACDANIEL. Market House on Friday night, and went breakfast-less until near noon, when they were gathered in by Mr. McFall of the Atheneum, and furnished with food. The exhibition of Friday night yielded them but five dallars, all of which went to the landlord who turned them out, or to some other person who should not have taken the money under the circum-
