For the Morning Post. MR. EDITOR :- Ever since the infamous Taylor four cent letter tax went into operation, I have been very careful to inquire for letters at the Post Office, one or two days before publication day, in order to prevent being defrauded. But, unlike Botts with Captain Tyler, they succeeded in heading me. On last Thursday evening I inquired to a letter, and was answered in the negative. On Saturday a letter was advertised. The letter was post marked December 6th, and I received it on the 15th inst. It had only 45 miles to come, and the mail arrives twice a week from that place. I merely observed to Mr. Gelston, on paying over the charity fax, that if it was Taylor instead of him I would nitch it in his face. This villainone four cent tax I consider is not one whit behind the "British Tea Tex."

Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun. The Boston Tragedy. Bosrow, Dec. 14, 1849. The inquisition is over, but the seal of secrecy still remains upon the proceedings of the inquest. The solemn verdict, however, is rendered; and he who, but a few days since stood highest in the esteem of the world, is declared to be the murder.

er of Dr. George Parkman, by "six good and law A profound mind, cultivated by a liberal education—the moral influence, of refined association—the sacredness of the domestic circle, combined with the maturity of age, seem to have had no power in restraining or subdaing the ungavernable and devilish temper for which Prof. Webster has been remarkable. This remark does not hagree with the statement recently published, that Prof. Webster possessed a mild and peaceable disposition;

but I learn from those who have known him from outh, that he has a bad temper that while Harvard College, such was the irritability of hi emper, that he was known as "skyrocket Jack." It has been supposed by many, that the recent tragedy commenced in a quarrel, which resulted in death, and subsequently in the butchery of Parkman, as the best mode of concealing the murder. But circumstances clearly indicate that the destruction of "Parkman was premeditated several days previous to the day on which it is support the deed was done. On the morning of Friday, Nov. 30th, as Ephraim Littlefield and family wer inversing in their own apartment, Prof. Webster alled at the door and remarked that "there was another rumor about Dr. Parkman"-"a woman oder mesmeric influence has said that Dr. Parkman's body was wrapped up and put into a cab— that the cab had been found out and a large lot of tor, merely expressed his doubts about the truth of the rumor, and then Prof. Webster retired into his laboratory. In the afternoon of the same day, by order of Dr. Bigelow, Littlefield commenced a further search in the basement of the building, and proceeded to dig a hole in Webster's private vault, his wife being stationed at the trap door to give the alarm in case Webster heard the noise. He had been at work but a short time when the horrid fact was evealed, and the mangled limbs were discover uspended on large fish hooks. Soon after the lice arrived, when a general search was mad and the upper portion of the body was found in the chest. The remains were then put together and Prof. Webster with two officers, was brought in to look at them. This was a solemn scene As he gazed at the torn remains of the deceased Post is one of the largest Job Printing Offices in the city he stood speechless—then, a soft smile played upwhere all kinds of work is done on the shortest notice, and on his countenance—in a moment more, he shad dered fearfully, and then the anguish of his soul seemed to relieve itself in a flood of tears If such were the feelings of his heart at that momen what must have been his emotions this morning when he read the solemn verdict of the inquest? I had the privilege of viewing the entire premi-ses of Prof. Webster, in the Grove street Hospital. After a careful examination of the rooms, vault urniture, and a chemical substance which ba been ignited, I could discover nothing upon which to rest a hone that Webster was innocent of the awful charge. I could only endorse the opinion of some of Prof. Webster's own friends, that the chain of evidence against him can never be broken are requested to meet at Burners's Hotel, in Har-risburg. on Tuesday, 29th January, 1850, at 3 o'clock rooms strengthens the conviction that the marder-

P. M., for the purpose of fixing the time and place for er performed his diabolical work with such delibthe crime almost without a parallel in the civili-zed world. Poor Littlefield is strongly suspected by the friends of the accused, and a watch has been stance which will implicate him. So far, the of-ficers have discovered nothing in his conduct that The Democratic City Committee will meet will justify she least suspicion. This is very propon Saturday, the 22d instant, at 11 o'clock, A. M., er, as the friends of Webster can never sustain any charges which may be brought against him here

The excitement, which had almost subsided in eonsequence of the secrecy of the inquest, was again renewed after the publication of the verdict, and it is thought there will be some difficulty is obtaining a jury to try the case. I am of opinion that a jury will be easily obtained, and that, should a verdict of "guilty of murder in the first degree be rendered, Prof. Webster will never get his de serts. LOCAL MATTERS. "RETURNED TO HIS IDOLS."—There is nothing annoys the editor of the Gazette so much as a prospect of the operatives in manufacturing establish-ments obtaining fair wages, or a mitigation of their evere hours of labor. Bound soul and body to the shrine of Mammon, he toils for his idol with an enhusiasm worthy of a better cause. The "Star' factory, that won for its owners bright honors, during the "Ten Hour" controversy, seems to be i an accidental position (from the rise in cotton, without a corresponding advance in the man factured rticle,) to call forth the exultation of the Gazette. We do not envy the feelings of the man who would exult at an apparent momentary check to the claims of humanity. We have as little fear of the failure of the Ten Hour System as we have of the eternal progress of Human Rights. Has the editor of the azette neither conscience nor modesty? We adrise our saintly neighbor not to bother his readers any more about the "STAR;" but, if he will write, let him spell the name backwards, and for the sake of variety, it will enable him to give the public a treatise on how he conducts his own affairs.

" Good Lord! would thou the giftie gi'e us, To see oursel's as others see us," &c CINCINNATI, PITTIBURGH AND LOUISVILLE,-The Cincinnati Enquirer has a long and scurrilious article in relation to the falked of connection between the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati packet line and the Louisville Telegraphs. It speaks of the " narrow inded" men of Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, who have been trying to injure Cincinnati! Pshaw!

The following is the conclusion of the article: We say in all seriousness to the owners of the present Pittsburgh and Cincinnati line, or to any ther line that may be started, that if they are wise they will not attempt to change trade and travel, but content themselves with trying to accommodate both. All such schemes as the one talked of, end only in ruid to the projectors. It will be better on the part of the boatmen to leave the small minded merchants of the two villages we have here mentioned, to plot and scheme at their own expense. They may suc-ceed in a cery small matter; but when they undertake so large a contract as that of making Cincinnation way port—a place of re-shipment of passeagers, same as bale goods—there will be a failure certain, and ruin to all concerned.
