Baron Liendo, in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastic Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the stomach of the calf, in which various articles of lood, as ment and eggs, will be so softened, changed and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the imman stomach."

Dr. Perena, in his famous treatise on "Food and Diet," published by Fowlers & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation. There are few higher authorities than Dr. Pereira.

Dr. Comme, in his valuable writings on the "Physiology of Digestion," observes that "a diminution of the duc quantity of the Gastric Juice is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia" and he states that "a distinguished professor of medicine in London, who was severely afficited with this complaint, finding everything else to fail, had recourse to the Gastric Juice, obtained from the stomach of living animals, which proved completely successful."
