

EDITH VERNON.

Edith had placed pillows behind her uncle's head and then sat down on a stool at his feet. "Don't you feel happy, uncle," said she, "now that you are able to sit up?"

THE MORNING POST.

"You'll change your mind," said Mrs. Miner, "when I tell you that it is not worth a cent; but he has lost every thing, and is dependent on us for the bread on which he lives."

EDITH VERNON.

"I wish you'd rid of your uncle, and you must leave him alone," said Edith, "I have been thinking of it for some time, and I don't know what to do."

EDITH VERNON.

"I don't care for her anger," said the excited girl, "I will go and take care of him, and I will not let her see me."

EDITH VERNON.

"I will give you three minutes to decide," said Mrs. Miner, "and then you must go."
