THE subscribers take this method to inform property holders, house-builders, and all others interested, that they still continue the business of Fin Roofing, in all its branches. Their skill and experience in this part of the business, has hitherto enabled them to give entire satisfaction. And they hope, that by continuing the same polley of using the best materials, and employing skillful workmen, to keep up this favorable impression. If the question of Tin Roofing was new, or just brought before the notice of this community for the first time, we would consider that the importance of the subject would justify us in extending our views on its superior advantages. This, however, is not the case. We shall therefore, confine ourselves to a few remarks. On the 6th day of June, 1844, (nearly seven years ago,) we finished our first job of Tin Roofing in this place. From that up to the present time, we have covered with tin the roofs of the finest and most costly buildings than have been srected in this county. We have given our views on a previous occasion on the superior advantage or Tin over iron, as a covering for houses. And time, the great tester of all things has but too clearly proven the correctness of our opinion.

Again, if we place Tin in juxta-position, with State as a covering for houses, we think that it will bear a favorable comparison, with some decided advantages. Number yet required....... Also, when tin its fissed the gatters are worked in, thereby saving the extra and reavy expense for copper gatters, copper flashings, &c.,—things indispensible on state roofs. If further reasons were deemed necessary, we could offer the experience of our eastern cities in proof what has been advanced, as it is a well known fact that New York and othereastern cities very generally prefer even tin for heir most coulty and splendid-buildings, nowithstanding they have a full supply of slate at their doors. The Ohie and Pennsylvania Railroad is the extension of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad westward from Pittsburgh, into the State of Ohio, by the best route. Its charter is a unit in both States, and it is free from the annoyances and losses caused by divided counsels and a double management. It costs less than one-half sa much per mile as the Pennsylvania Railroad, and its traffic is free from taxailon. It runs through one of the richest wheat a fowing regions of Chio, and it has spon its lime immense beds of biturhinous and cannel cost, and ample state power; and in its immediate vicinity, more than thirty towns and villages. It will command an amount of way buthers sufficient of itself to make the road profitable, and which, it is believed, no other line in the State of Ohio can equal.

The whole length of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Rail Road will be 185 miles; extending from Pittsburgh, by Besver, Salem, Canton, Massillon, Wonster, Loudenville, and Mansfield, to its point of intersection with the Cieveland, Columbus, and Cincinnati Railroad, at Creatine near Galion.
