[Written for the Morning Post.] What is Christian Socialism?

NUMBER ONE.

Socialism is the combination of all for the welfare of each. That is its essence when stripped of every thing adventitious, foreign and extrinsic to it, and viewed apart from all such accompaniments as arise solely from the peculiarities, character, customs, religion, &c., &c., of the people by labor, and absence of economy of space and whom it is adopted. Socialism is that system of philosophy which endeavors to increase the energy, virtue and happiness of every community, by to banding its members together in their interest and labors, that whatever there is of goodness and power in each may be reflected upon all; and the combined life and influence of all concentrated and converged upon each, so that every individual may command for his own development and happiness the entire resources, wisdom and power of the whole community. Socialism seeks to bring men together in such a way that they may be of the greatest use to each other. It aims to bring into play all the instrumentalities, the means, and influences, that are required to draw out the fullest efficiency, talent and virtue of every man, woman and child, and turn them in full tide to augment the general welfare; and on the other hand, it seeks to concentrate impartially and without stint the general resources to provide for the ample education and healthy human development of each individual. It recognises the great fact, that the members of the social body, like the members of the human body, are all mutually dependant; that each having a distinct and individual character has also a distinct function which can not be discharged properly except in concert with the re ciprocal and varied functions of the other mam bers and that for this purpose the community must be a united one. Socialism is nothing new. It is an eternal truth and fact of human life, now brought, in God's providence, more prominently before men's attention, only that it may be mor thoroughly understood and fittingly applied. All in our present civilization that is promotive of human happiness is owing to the Socialism i contains, which is potent for good only as far as it coincides with the outward manifestation of a collective and practical Christianity; all its vice and misery are the results of its anti-social and anti-christian features. Wherever cities, States, nations, combine their energies for the commo welfare, there you find Socialism; and the greater the number of objects for which such combination is entered upon, and the more perfect and free the when the people of any city combine their means to erect public water works, so that by a small contribution of his time or money each citizen, by the united effort of all, is saved the great cost and trouble of digging his own well, or hauling his own water-this is Socialism as far as it goes,-And the same, also, when they combine to give themselves gas light-when they build and endow public hospital—a public library, public baths, The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, the Convention their blind or insane-a house of refuge for their teachers, &c. All this is Socialism-the "combination of all. for the welfare of each." It is Socialism, too, when the people of a whole State, instead of a city, through their representatives, construct public works, as canals, railroads-State free schools-State colleges-State charitable. scientific; or other institutions-or make provision and appropriation of the State funds for the support of its various Courts, its State and County officers. Thus every kind of united action among born and raised in the very midst of the dreads. thing itself, and owe to it whatever education, refinement or happiness they possess. But why this great stir and fuss about Social ism now-a-days, if we have been all along under its influence? Answer-Because those who have recognized the great principle of Socialism, viz ombination of all for the welfare of each, and who see what great results it has effected, and i yet capable of effecting, are not content with its piecemeal, fragmentary, here a little and there a little, application; but wish to push it as far a it will go; to apply it to every thing to which it can be applied; to all the labors, wants, interes of men, that can be embraced by it. To illustrate our meaning: Suppose the people of Pittsburgh, or Allegheny, or any of our cities to become deeply impressed with the truth of Socialism, and convinced that by intelligent combination and direction of their united powers to all possible objects of common interest, they would effectually, or in great measure, secure themselve from disease, vice, ignorance and poverty, and were therefore met to deliberate upon their course of action, this would probably shape itself somewhat as follows:

First. It would be voted unanimously that the City Water works, the City Gas works, the City Free Schools, &c., were not a hundredth part o what they still required; and first and foremos they would consider the matter of their common health, as far as this was influenced by the dense packing together of their dwellings and shops; and forthwith their compact squares, narrow streets, sloppy alleys, filthy, compressed court yards, encircled by houses of all shapes and sizes; some towering skyward, excluding air and sunshine from others rising but a few feet above the ground, though sunk perhaps deeper below itall this jumble and crowding would be voted an unbearable nuisance. The cry would be, " more air-more room-more light." The dingy blocks of motley houses would come down, and in their place would arise a series of magnificent unitary dwellings or lodging hotels, with suits of private rooms for families and single persons, together with private and public parlors, dining halls, festal saloons for social gatherings, &c., &c., all lighted. warmed and ventilated on the most approved and economical scientific principles; while the domestic labors of cooking, washing, ironing, &c., being performed for all at once, on a large scale, would admit of a thousand applications of labor saving machinery, any one of which is now out of the question. All this is already done in our mammoth hotels, where several hundred persons are daily fed from a single kitchen, warmed by a single it lay to? for repairs. furnace, and kept in clean linen by a single, well contrived laundress. Why permanent lodgers worry, expense and discomforts of every kindsuch as is our present system of house-keeping with its incessant trials of patience and temper between mistress and servants-or between im prisoned children and quiet-loving old folks-o with its yearly moving, the heavy rents, the ill constructed houses, the eternal marketing for each separate family, and a thousand other etceteras. not to speak of the great waste of productive means, when there must be two or three hundred servants for each hundred families, a hundred little kitchens, a hundred separate tables laid thrice a day, &c., &c., when a few of each would suffice for a combined population. These newly constituted dwellings would, of course, not be constiguous. They would stretch away from each other. The city would expand—would occupy the country, and find itself, at last, embosomed in parks, gardens, pleasure grounds and extensive fares, which would afford every facility for the new modes of industry introduced by Socialism; of which more in the next article. New Hampshire has again proved true to herself, as we were sure she would. At the Democratic State Convention, just held, Samuel Dinsmoor, the present Governor, was nominated for revelection by a vote of 202 to 3, in place of Rev. Mr. Atwood, who was previously nominated, but who, it turned out, had been dallying with the abolitionists. A letter to the Boston Post, says:---

"There is but one centiment among the democracy from every section of the State, and that is, that they will have no union with disunionists, and cannot be sold over to free-soilism. Dinsmoor will be chosen triumphantly by the people."

The feeling in Now Hampahire is the same that prevails among ninestepths of the true democracy of the nation. It will have no entangling alliances with agitators or nullifiers at the south. It will abide by the old landmarks of the party, that have guided it successfully through many a contest heretofore, and will carry it triumphantly through the rer. It makes a positive statement, which, unless authoritatively contradicted, we suppose must be taken for fact. This will supersede all other machinery of the kind, yet invented. We cannot well conceive any possible further improvement in this branch of machinery than a cylinder press working both sides by the same revolution:

both sides by the same revolution:

The Principal of Principal of Principal of the world: Rach improvements in its machinery as any other of the arts of the world: Rach improvement, as it was tested, was considered "the very thing;" yet discovery pushed on something hower, simpler and better.—We had supposed the "How press" beyond the power of improvement; but it seems we were mistaken; a gentleman of Utica, N. Y., has invented a new cylinder press, and put it in successful operation in that city, which is certainly far ahead of any thing now in use. This press prints both sides of the paper by one revolution; will print twice as fast as the How press, and do its work as well or better than the Adams press, and it requires but half the labor in feeding it, while the cost of the machine, it is believed, will be less than that of any power press.

WM. DYER. BEAUTY OF WOMAN.—Is there not a beauty and charm in the venerable and venerated woman who sits in the "majesty of age;" beside the fire side of her son; she who nursed him in his infancy, tended him in his youth, counselled him in manhood, and who now dwells as the tutelary goddess of his household? What a host of blessed memories are linked with that mother, even in hor "reverential arm chair days!" What a multitude of sanctifying associations surround her and make her lovely, even on the verge of the grave! Is there not a beauty and a charm in of the grave? Is there not a beauty and a charm in the matronly woman who sits looking fondly on the child in her lap? What though the lines and lineaments of youth are fled? Time has given far more than he has taken away. And is there not a beauty and a charm in a fair girl who is knoeling before that matron; her own woman sympathies just open into active life, as she folds that infant to her bosom. All are beautiful—the opening blossom, that mature flower, and the ripened fruit; and the callous heart or the sensual mind, that gropes for loveliness as a stimulant for passion, only show that it has no correct sense of beauty or refined taste.

IT PREVENTS DISEASE—PROOF.

A CHILD SAVES! Curious Case—The following evidence is only one of thousands of similar character, and conclassively proves that Dr. Howe's Sarsaparilla is one of the most effective remedies over discovered:—
Dr. Howe:—Dear Sir.—My son, when about six months old, broke out with that dreadful disease, Scrofulous Sorst, over the face and body; and for two years and a half I tried every means that could be suggested by my friends. I also had the advice of six or seven of the best physicians in the country, without effecting a cure, and I almost wished the little sufferer dead, that it might be freed from its pains. During the last six months, the sorea were so distressing and painful; my-self and wife were up with it night and day, for weeks together, and we had given up all loops of ever raising our little one: At length, a friend advised us to try your Staker Sarsaparilla. Relactantly I tried it, and I have reason to bless God for it, tor, is a very short time, it head any the sore; so that there is searcely even a scar to be seen. We only regret that we did not hear of and commence using it sooner, as we are satisfied it would have saved a great deal of suffering and expense. The child is now well and hearty. We do unhesitatingly consider your Shaker Sarsaparilla one of the best preparations now in use. John STANSBURY.

Another Wonder!

If This is to certify that a man caue to my house in the fall of 1549, by the name of Henry Els, in a very destitute condition, and was almost totally blind. He had been a soldier in the British service, He was then taken to one of the best Hospitals in London, and had the best treatment that London could afford, and could not be restored to sight; and was discharged as incurable. I had heard so much about the Petroleum, I thought I would try some of it on this man. I get him a small bottle of the Petroleum Oil, which cured his eyes; well and sound, in the course of one month.

I am willing so be qualified to the truth of the above statement at any time I may he called upon so to do, and same of my neighbors can testify to the same.
