The art of making an Astrictual Digestive Fluid, and of performing the process of Digestion, out of the Stomach, has long been known to Physicological Chemiats. The honor of the discovery belongs to a celebrated German Chemist, who gave the name of Pratin to the active principle of the Gastric Inice, which he obtained by macerating the lining membrane of the Digestive Stomach of the Calif in water, and precipitating the Pepsin from the solution. Dr. Prout, Dr. Persina, and Dr. Gregory, in Engand; Dr. Besamont and Dr. Dunglicon, in America; and chief, of all, Baron Lirano, have recently experimented, and written upon this singularly interesting and curious subject, and thrown much light upon the nature of the Digestive process, in its chemical and physiological relations.
