THE READING CONVENTION Has closed its labors, in such a manner as to give the strongest guarantee that could have been offered, of the complete success of their mission. They have nominated only honest and capable men; and have conducted all their proceedings in a spirit of harmony, and devotion to the interests of the State and the country, that will call down upon them the continued plaudits of a united Democracy; and insure the triumph of our candidates, in the great struggle soon to commence, by an old-fashioned Democratic ma jority of twenty or twenty-five thousand! We have devoted so much space to the proceedings of the Convention, that we cannot find room to say all that is dictated by our feelings on the occasion: and we therefore confine our selves to making a remark or two respecting the speech of Col. BIGLER, on his appearance before the Convention, after having been officially in formed of his nomination. This speech we con sider one of the best that has been made on any similar occasion; and if any evidence had been required of the quick and ready mind of our candidate for Governor, this speech would offer proof enough to satisfy any one. It is free and off-hand in the expression of political opinion: frank and manly towards political opponents and able in defending the leading measures of the Democratic party. Col. BIGLER is too well known in the State to need any studied culo gium; and we can therefore feel entirely safe in ommitting the ship of State to his charge. Mr. CLOVER, our candidate for Canal Commis sioner, is also so well known to the people of the tory; but we can venture notwithstanding, to say, that a more competent man could not have been chosen, for the station of Canal Commissioner, either in the State or out of it. Commending our friends, the nominees, to the fearless and honest voters of Pennsylvania, we shall expect them to pass upon their merits, when the proper moment arrives; and we have no doubt

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION. After the organization of which we have acquainted our readers, the Convention took up the case of the contested Senatorial seat for the Cambria District, in which Adam Moses, Esq. claimed under the authority of one conference and H. L. Patterson under that of another. After the contestants had been beard, a ballot wa taken on the issue, the result of which was favorable to Mr. Patterson. He accordingly took hold Jacksonian tune, of twenty-five hundred of a his sent. Thos. A. Maguire then contested the seat of John C. O'Neill, Esq., of Cambria. The adverse claim in this case, was so feebly sustained, that the Convention unanimously accorded the seat to Mr. O'Neill. Then came up the great question of the day, the contest between the

The exercise of an unlimited system of credit the individual transactions of the country—in the transactions between Banks, Corporations, and Communities engendered by a periodical emis sion of paper money—constituted the elements and laid the foundation of a financial hurricane, which shortly after bursted upon the country with unequalled violence, prostrating indiscriminately the innocent with the guilty: robbing the borer of his hire, and filling the land with distress and misery. Before this storm, Pennsylvania, for a time, was compelled to give way. A vain attempt was made in this crisis, it is true, to supply her wants by a resort to mere expedients, the only effect of which was to postpone he evil day and to aggravate the disease; and in 1843 she lay prostrated beneath a funded debt of 38 millions, with a million of unpaid interest, and over three millions of a domestic debt demandable at the Treasury every day. That she could have been honorably extricated from such vortex seems almost incredible. But it was accomplished, and to have had the opportunity of an humble participation in this laudable work will ever be to me a reminiscence full of interest and gratification. If elevated to the high trust or which you have named me, it will be my special pride and ambition, as it will be my duty, as far as in me lies, to relieve our good old Commonwealth of her present burthens; to husband her means and guard her honor. True, I am not of that school of political philosophy which teaches the dootrine that the people can be made rich and the country prosperous by mere acts of Legislation, or that the wealth of the country is to be measured by the amount of paper money which may be thrown into circulation. All experience has demonstrated, in this country, as well as in others, the fallacy of this doctrine. and proven that a super abundance of this latter element never fails to mislead the productive in-dustry of the country, and to be followed by the most baneful consequences to society. SPECIAL NOTICES.

Prom the Louisville Journal, May 29th, 1851]
Dr. J. S. Houghton's Pepsins, for Dyspensi
Frepared from Rennet. or the Stomach of the Oz.
[17] On the 7th of May, 1851, Rev. M. D. William
Pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, in Louisvil Pasior of the Fourth Presbyertjan Church, in Lonisaville, Kentucky, was and had been for a long time confined to his toom, and most of the time to his bed, with Dyspesia and Caronic Diarrhæa, and was, to all appearance, on the very verge of the grave, and acknowledged to be so by his physician, who had tried all the ordinary means in his power, without effect, and at the above named time, the patient, with the concent of his physician, commeaced the use of Dr. Honghton's "PEPSIN." and to the asionishment, surprice and delight of all, he was much relieved the first day. The third day he left his room. The aixth day, which was excessively hot, he wont on a visif to the country; and, on the thirteenth day, though not entirely restored to his natural strength, he was so far recovered as to go alone a journey of five hundred miles, where he arrived in aftery, much improved in health, having had first dose of Prosise. These facts are not controvertible, and that this is a case which ought to convince all skeptics that there is a power in PEPSIN." Let physicians and dysopolics investigate.
