HON JAMES BUCHANAN

The enemies of this truly great man and dis tinguished statesman, have been lately declaim ing very loudly against, and misrepresenting very grossly, his late brief speech at an im mense meeting of his political friends in the city of Lancaster, to which he had been invited We hope our friends will read it as we give it this morning. In their denunciations, they would seem to be influenced by the single consideration, that he, like themselves, has become so low in the scale of political morality, as to have no character to lose, and no reasonable ground upon which to hope to build one. No one, worthy of enjoying the rights of a freeman can find aught in the remarks of Mr. BUCHANAN in any manner unbecoming the exalted positions which he has held under the government of he has met in a public manner, his immediate neighbors and friends, with many of whom he has been associated through life—these political his motives in the most scandalous manner: But we regard the abuse of such men as are thus arrayed against James Buchanan as an ultimate blessing of the highest character. The ablest, purest, and best men of the Democratic party have ever been most foully aspersed by the adherants of Federalism, and their adjuncts in our own ranks; and when "Pennsylvania's favorite son" shall be praised by them for any political act, he may well be disposed to question the correctness of his course. But so long as he shall receive from them only evidences of malice, hatred, spite, and misrepresentation, he may with full confidence appeal to the radical Democracy of the country for support.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENT. It will undoubtedly be highly gratifying the friends of Mr. Silsbee, the inimitable delineator of "down east" manners and customs, to hear that he is about to visit Europe, and that he has been favored with an appointment as bearer of government despatches to some of our foreign representatives. Beet Root Sugar. The subject of cultivating the Beet-root, with a view to the manufacture of Sugar, is now engrossing a good deal of public attention. Ireland is said, by Mr. Sulilvan, the chemist to the Museum of Irish Industry in Dublin, to possess great capabilities for the production of beet-root in large quantities, and of very superior quality -the Irish root possessing at least as much saccharine matter as that of France or Germany. The statistics of beet-root sugar are very curious and instructive. In 1841, the production of this article in Europe was estimated at 55,000 tons; in 1847 it was said to be 100,000 tons, and in 1850, it is calculated to be 190,000 tons. The manufacture is said to be rapidly increasing, and realizing a great profit to those who are engaged in it. We see no reason why it should not be prosecuted as favorable in Ireland as in Russia, Prussia; Belgium and France the countries at present most largely engaged in its production.

If there could be invented some time-keeping attachment to the heel of ungraceful dancers, the American Eagle might flap his wings in triumph!"

BOOK BINDING IN THE OLDEN TIME, -It was not to gold and precious stones alone that the bindings of books in former days were indebted for their beauty. The richest devices of the reedlewoman were often wrought on the velvet or brocade, which became more exclusively the fashionable material for binding. This seems to have been a favorite occupation of the high-born dames about Elizabeth's day; and, indeed, if we remember the new-born passion for books, which was at its height about that time, we shall not was at its neight moon that time, we shall not wonder at their industry being displayed on the covers as well as the insides. SPEECH OF MR. BUCHANAN. Correspondence of the Pennsylvanian.

Lancasten, 28th June, 1851. Dear Sir:-I was present at the Democratic ounty meeting held this afternoon in Lancaster. and listened attentively to Mr. Buchanan's remarks on that occasion. I cannot however pretend to give anything more than a general sketch or outline from memory, of a few of the points which he touched. Deeming that this might be gratifying to your readers, I shall furnish it to you. Mr. Buohanan addressed the meeting for nearly an hour.

He commenced by stating the strong claims of Messrs. Bioleg and Clover on the Democratic party, speaking in terms of warm approbation of their past history. He then pronounced a well deserved eulogy upon the character and qualifi-cations of the Democratic candidates for Judges of the Supreme Court, and said that their nomination had proven to the world that the people were quite as capable of selecting their own udges as any Governor had ever been; that hese five nominees, should they be elected, would constitute a Supreme Court equal to any in our past history.

He then spoke of the hostility of a few men falling themselves Democrats, against Judge CAMPBRIL. He knew the Judge well, and on he attention of the Board of Health and other man of sound judgment, extensive information, and modest and agreeable manners. He venhis own responsibility pronounced him to be a tured the prediction that although the youngest Judge upon the bench, in the course of a very few years, he would be equal to any of them in the discharge of his important diffice. harge of his important duties. He said that he was truly sorry to learn that Judge CAMPBELL would be opposed by some be-cause he was a Catholic. He then cited the utution of Pennsylvania, which declares that "every man has a natural and indefeasible right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience." This was the most sacred of all rights, and no human power, without wanton usurpation, could interfere between man and war: Your paper is never opened in this office, and of his God. The vital, the essential principles of course never read; besides, its contents are not worth Democracy forbade such a usurpation. No Demcrat, then, could oppose or proscribe Judge Cambrell on account of his religious faith, without violating that sacred, natural and indefeasi-ble right, guaranteed to every citizen by the Constitution of the State. If the Catholic should be prescribed to-day, this might be the fate of the Presbyterian to-morrow, and of the Metho-dist the next day; and thus the Democratic party Street Commissioner is respected by me, if it is be destroyed, and religion be intermingled with politics, against every principle of our free Government. The eminent Chief Justice of the United States, Mr. Taney, was a Catholic, and as a

He said this was the most important State election, considering the principles involved, which had ever been held in Pennsylvania. hould Pennsylvania become an Abolition or Free Soil State, then farewell to the Union; and here he pronounced an eloquent eulogy upon the Union. But it was said that the Union was in no danger; and men cried, peace, peace, as did the ancient false prophets, when there was no peace. Look at South Carolina, which had already, in February last, elected delegates to a State Convention, with an express view to sepa-rate secession. In case she should carry her purpose into effect, which he trusted in Heaven express condition. That condition was, that the Methyr Tydvi', in South Wales. Fugitive Slave Law should be faithfully executed. In all the Union meetings, without exception, throughout the slaveholding States, this condition has been solemnly announced. He would cite the proceedings of the State Convenient of the proceeding of the State Convenient of the proceeding of the proceeding of the State Conve tion, held in Georgia in November last, as an example of what had been done at all the other Union meetings. He read from two of these resolutions: "That the State of Georgia, in the judgment of this Convention, will and ought to resist, even as a last resort, to a disruption of every tie, which binds her to the Union. &c. &c. any act repealing or materially modifying the laws now in force for the recovery of fugitive slaves;" and "that it is the deliberate opinion of the Convention, that upon the faithful execution of the Fugitive Slave Bill, by the proper authorities, descende the preservation of our much loved ties, depends the preservation of our much loved Union. To say then that the Union is in no danger, in case this law should be repeated of materially modified, is to pronounce that all the Southern States, without exception, have pro-claimed a falsehood to the world. And yet we are to have a continued agitation in Pennsylva nia for the repeal or material modification of the Fugitive Slave Bill; and this important quesrightee State Bill; and this important ques-tion of union or disunion, is directly involved in our approaching Gubernatorial election. The late respectable Whig Convention which assem-bled at this place, had by an overwhelming majority, voted down a proposition which looked to the faithful execution of the Fugitive Slave Law. So bitter had been the hostility of Goveror Johnston to this law, that he had refused to pprove a Bill repealing a section in our act o 847, denying to the Government of the United States, that right of courtesy which belonged even to foreign nations, to have fugitives, who had violated their laws, confined for safe keeping in our jails.

Mr. Buchanan then expatiated at length up on the constitutionality, justice and necessity of the Fugitive Slave Law. He said that the Conleague and covenant between independent State sovereignties, and that it never would have existed without a solemn pledge that fugitive slaves should be restored to their masters, and that if this pledge were violated by one of the parties, the other would feel themselves to be reeased from its obligations. Mr. Buchanan said that the Southern States had acquiesced in the Compromise, expecting that it would produce peace, and yet it now appeared that the agitation was to continue for the repeal or modification of the Fugitive Slave law.

Every thing on earth that a Southern man held most valuable, the lives of those most dear to him; as well as his property. s well as his property, were to be endangered by this agitation in the North; when all he de red was, to be let alone and permitted to live n peace.

Pennsylvania could finally decide this question. She is emphatically the Keystone of the Union. Let a majority of her citizens sternly decide that the Constitution and the Laws shall be faithfully executed—that the Fugitive Slave Bill shall neither be repealed nor nodified—that the use of our jails shall be afforded to the citizens of our sister States for the safe keeping of their fugitives from labor whilst awaiting their trial, and the danger will then nave passed away. Let her citizens decide difforently, at the approaching election, and the consequences may be disastrous.

He did not dread the dissolution of the Union, because he believed that the kind Providence which had protected us in our infancy, and had hitherto blessed us as a nation, would incline the hearts of our people to do justice to each other, and to obey, in good faith, the Constitution and the Laws, and this would render our Union personnel.

A resolution was presented to dissolve all connection with the Old School General Assembly, as a pro-slavery body, and after earnest discussion was rejected by a vote of 32 to 4. Delegates were appointed to attend the next meeting of the Assembly in Charleston, S. C. After this decision, one of the minority took his hat saying, "I with draw from this Convention forever, for I can no longer hold fellowship with a bodyin league with Daniel Webster and the Devil." Whereupon he left and went on his way, rejoicing that he was much holier than those of his brethren from whom he had just parted.

Another brick building, suitable for a dwelling and retail store; all on the main street, near the Conemaugh Bridge and Pennsylvania Canal. There are good cellars under these buildings Also, two wells of good water on the front lots: one convenient to the kitchen, the other at the stables, with pumps in both;—also, a large cistern for tain water, with a pump/near the kitchen and wash-house.

The foregoing and several other useful buildings are on the two front lots. On two other lots, immediately north of these, and separated from them by a 12 feet alley, occupied parily as a kitchen garden, a large brick and large trame Stable is erected; also, a Blacksmith Shop and Coachmaker's Shop.

Also, about TWENTY ACRES OF LAND, partly meadow, a joining the north line of the Borough, off which 40 tons of hay may be made in a season; the remainder being pasture ground, with a stream of running enter through it—are also offered as above.

The Hotel is very eligibly situated on the north-east corner of the Diamond, near the terminus of the Branch Railroad, and within a short distance of the Canal bout Landing.

The country around is improving rapidly, both in Indiana and Westmoreland counties. One or more Plank Roads are in contemplation, to connect at this place with the public improvements now in asse or in propress. This property is of that description which would require the attention and supervision of the owner.
