CITY INTELLIGENCE. Railroad Meeting .- A large number of ou citizens favorable to the construction of th Pittsburgh and Steubenville Railroad, assembled ing at the Board of Trade Rooms. The last ever meeting was called to order by appointing E. D. Gazzam, Esq., President, Jos. Pennock, Esq., Vice President, and Jos. Snowden Esq., Secre-The call of the meeting was read by the Se retary, when the President stated that the ol ject of the meeting was to receive the report of the committee who had been to Philadelphia.

Mr. Darsie, the only member of the commi tee present, stated that their chairman, Hon tee present, stated that their chairman, Harmar Denny, was lying ill in Philadeiphia.— He had no written report; but gave briefly and explicitly an account of their proceedings while in Philadelphia. They had been received cordially, and the project of the Steubenville Ross entertained with the greatest respect and sym pathy by the principal men in the city. At a meeting in the Railroad office there, a large num ber of Philadelphians were present, and a free the proposed project. The committee presented in the strongest terms, the advantages of this route, and enlisted the attention and warmest sympathy of all present in its speedy comple-The Committee, so far as he knew, had me with no gentleman who did not give it a decided preference to the Hempfield route.

Mr. Brown, a gentleman of great wealth and powerful influence, had given an unqualified preerence to this Road, and thought that no aid would be granted in Philadelphia to the Hemp field project. Although largely interested other projects, he said to set him down for $1 000 as an earnest of his interest, in this, and h knew of forty others who would at least give Mr. Darsie proceeded to show, by a table o listances, the advantages of this route over an rival. From Cincinnati to New York, by way the Erie route, it was 882 miles, whereas fror Cincinnati to New York, by way of Columbus Steubenville and Pittsburgh, it was only 74 miles, making a difference of 130 miles. this latter route from Cincinnati to Philadelphi it was 657 miles, and by way of the Hempfield route it would be 681 miles, making a difference in favor of our route over the Hempfield of 24 miles. He thought that their trip to Philadel phia had been productive of much good, and hoped we would have no reason to complain o ted that, as Mr. Naylor and himself had no con versation on the subject since their return, h would be glad to hear his views, and the in pression made upon his mind by their visit to Philadelphia. Mr. Stanton moved that the thanks of the meeting be returned to the Committee for the faithful manner in which they had discharged their duties. The motion was carried. Mr. Naylor then being called upon, concurred generally in the sentiments and impressions ex essed by Mr. Darsie, and made a lengthy energetic and eloquent speech, portraying in his nerrous style the immense advantages that Pitts-burgh must reap from the completion of this road. He evidently understands his subject well, and his comprehensive and original views are well calculated to take captive an audience. Mr. Peter Livingston, of Florence, Washington county, a warm and active friend of the enville Railroad, next addressed the meeting. He commenced by adverting to the difficulties constantly referred to by the opponents of the road, in regard to crossing through Brooke He was happy to inform the meeting that the most enthusiastic feeling prevails amongst our Virginia friends in favor of this Railroad. He (Mr. L.,) obtained from every landholder along the valleys of Kings and Harman's creeks, deeds of release, conveying Harman's creeks, deeds of release, conveying to the company the right of making the Rond along either of those creeks. So, it matters not what action the Legislature of Virginia may what action the Legislature of Virginia may take on this subject, we have the "right of way" through Brooke county, beyond all doubt or controversy.

Mr. L. then adverted to the matter of making. a Railroad bridge over the Ohio at Steubenville He said there would be no difficulty whatever in building the bridge in a position so high as nev-er to interfere with the free navigation of the Ohio. The banks are high on either side, and there are solid rocks for butments and anchorage. This would be a model bridge, which would put the people of Wheeling to the blush.

Mr. L. spoke also of the feeling existing between Pittsburgh and Florence in favor of this men. Road. The spirit is increasing every day and every hour. The people in the country have already subscribed liberally, and he had no doubt but that before the first of April next they would raise at least $300,000. The immense beds of coal, limestone and iron ore in the region through which the road will pass, will, of themselves, which the road will pass, will, of themselves, make the road good paying stock.

Mr. L., although a citizen of Washington county, was opposed to the Hempfield Railroad project, and he gave it as his opinion that that road would be an injury to the people of Washington county. His remarks about the Hempfield road were both sensible and humorous, and neid road were outh sensible and numorous, and called forth thunders of applause. In fact, the gentleman was warmly applauded throughout his speech.

Capt. Naylor stated that he never listened to a better Railroad speech than that made by his friend from Florence; and he therefore moved that the thanks of the meeting be given to Mr. Livingston for the able manner in which he addressed them. The motion was put by the chair and carried by acclamation.

Mr. J. H. Lowell then offered the following resolutions which were adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That the large subscriptions to the Pittsburgh and Steubenville Railroad, in this city and along the line of the road, and the friendly spirit manifested to it by Philadelphia afford ample assurance of the success of that enterprise.

Resolved. That after the organization of that company they should proceed at once with the work, so as to insure its completion within two in Dresden, Muskingum county, Ohio, showing the feeling that exists in that neighborhood in favor of a connection by Railroad with Pitts-burgh. BALTIMORE July 31st, 1851. The inactivity noticed in our last Circular continued to prevail until about the middle of the present month, at which time it become very brisk, and considerable business was done at lower prices than had previously prevailed.

The purchases were principally for Southern and Western account—our city trade having taken comnartively but a small present Western account—our city trade having taken comparatively but a small proportion.

Our tabular statement shows an excess of importations over the corresponding period last year, of 10,000 bags in round numbers, while the stock on hand to-day is less than it was at this period last year—showing conclusively the influence of prices upon consumption. The market closes with considerable finances on the part of owners, most of whom withhold their stock from market at the ruling figures. We quote prime at $1,000 good fair to prime at $2,000 kg. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral 1

TOR THE CURE OF COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH,

"I deem the Cherry Pictorial an admirable composition from some of the bestarticles in the Materia Medica, and a very effective remedy for the class of diseasest it is intended to cure."

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 1, 1849.

Major Pattison, President of the S. C. Senate, states he has used the Cherry Pictoral with wonderful success, to cure an inflamation of the lungs.

From one of the first physicians in Maine.

Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell—Dear Str. 1 am now constantly using your Cherry Pectoral in my practice, and prefer it to any other medicine for pulmonary complaints. From observations of many severe cases, an convinced it will cure coughs, colds, and diseases of the lungs, that have put to defiance all other remedies.

Invariably recommend its use in case of consumption, and consider it much the best remedy knowl for that disease.

Respectfully yours.
