We publish the following paper at the request some of our personal friends, who are anxious that the pure minds of a few in the community may be stirred up by way of remembrance. It is not a little strange that some of those who signed this paper, can now see no harm in that which was then so odious. It is still more strange that some should now be courting those who are represented in this paper as bound together by ties calculated "to weaken all the segitive of the stupid Cologne Times," of the whole class of constitutional wise-acres and other Diplomats—that the Republic has become unavoidable, that the French are the natural allies of the purities of Life, Liberty and Property;"-especially as these persons have not in any manner relinquished or disavowed those ties.

If republicanism consists in violating the Constitution of the United States, and disregarding the obligation of resulted in the present glorious Union, and in bringing upon the southern portion of the Re public, all the horrors of civil war, the midnigh murders, the indiscriminate slaughter of men, women, and children, then he confessed he never belonged to any such party. If republicanism consisted in sustaining the principles of the Constitution, and in carrying into effect the laws passed in pursuance thereof, then he was a re-caster means by the term "liberty," the immediate abolition of slavery in the South, the disraption of the Union, and the destruction of the vested rights of our southern brethren, (and about vested rights we have heard much in this House from certain quarters, (if this be his definition of liberty, then it may need an advo-cate here as elsewhere; but if liberty means the constitutional rights of all men, and the laws. What is their prayer? That this House pass a law giving the right of trial by jury to fugitives from labor, from other States. This is the prayer of the memorialists. And if it can be shown that to grant their prayer would be an infraction of the verted right of individuals here fraction of the vested right of individuals here or elsewhere, he felt satisfied that this House would concur in the opinion that the matters referred to in the memorial, be indefinitely postponed. For the purposse of fully under-standing the subject, he would refer to the third section of the fourth article of the Constitution of the United States.

In the state of disease in children is the unbealthness of parents: I would be just as reasonable to expect a rich crop from a barren soil, as that strong and healthy children should be born of parents whose constitutions have been worn out with intemperance and disease. A sickly frame may be originally induced by hardships, accidents, or intemperance, but chiefly by the latter. It is impossible that course of vice or imprudence should not spoil the best constitution; and did the evil terminate here, it would be a just punishment for the folly of the transgressor. But not so, For when once a disease is contracted, and though neglect in applying the proper means it becomes rivited in the habit, it is then entailed upon posterity. The states—and yet who would wish to improve, not only your own health, but that of your own offspring, by cradicating the many distressing diseases that are entailed the states—and yet who would wish to improve, not only your own health, but that of your own offspring, by cradicating the many distressing diseases that are entailed the state of the state o

Dr. J. S. Houghton's Pepsin, for Dyspepsias, Prepared from Reanet, or the Stomack of the Oz.

[To in the 7th of May, 1851, Rev. M. D. Williams, Pastor of the Fourir Presbyte in Church, in Louisville, Kentucky, was and had been for a long time confined to his room, and most of the time to his bed, with Dyspepsia is and Chronic Diarrheas, and was, to all appearance, on the very verge of the grave, and acknowledged to be so by his physician, who had tried all the ordinary means in his power, without effect, and at the above named time, the patient, with the consent of his physician, commenced the use of Dr. Houghton's "PEPSIN." and to the astonishment, surprise and delight of all, he was much relieved the first day. The third day he left his room. The sixth day, which was excessively hot, he rode ten miles with no bad effect; on the eighth day he went on a visit to the country; and, on the thirteenth day, though not entirely restored to his natural strength, he was so far recovered as to go alone a journey of five hundred miles, where he arrived in safety, much improved in health, having had not disturbance of the stomach of bowels, gifer taking the first dose of Pepsin. These facts are not controvertible, and that this is a case which ought to convince all skeptics that there is a power in "PEPSIN." Let physicians and dyspeptics investigate.
