Railroad was celebrated on Saturday in a man ner at once pleasing and brilliant. At the time appointed, about an hundred of our citizenes, of all professions and occupations, started for Coal Harbor, on board the little steamer Clarion, and in a little while were safely landed at that place. Coal Harbor, from which the Bailroad commen ces, is situated immediately adjoining McKee' Rocks, at the foot of "Smoky Island," about three miles below Pittsburgh, on the Ohio river. A sufficient number of new coal cars to accommodate the invited guests, were fitted up with comfortable seats, and in a few minutes the Iron Horse moved quietly off, with his train of passengers, amidst the most enthusiastic huzzas, whistling and snorting "like a thing of life," and making valley and hill side echo with his strange sounds. Along the Bailroad, at various points, the people of the neighborhood were collected in groups,-the men shouted and tossed up their hats, the ladies (God bless them,) waved their 'kerchiefs and smiled most graciously, and boys and girls held up their little flags, while their faces flushed with excitement and joy. It was a great day for the denizens of Chartièrs Valley !

In a little over half an hour the cars arrived at the coal pits, about five miles from Coal Harbor. Although the grade up the hill is very heavy, being about 145 feet to the mile, yet the Iron Horse had no difficulty in pulling up his burthen, albeit his motion was not rapid. The party amused themselves for about an hour in examining the pits and the surrounding grounds. At the invitation of the gentlemanly and enterprising President, Mr. McElBATH, we got into one of the pit cars, to which was attached a horse, and were pulled about one thousand feet. into the "bowels of the earth." Dark, dreary and chilly was that ride! The pits are seven feet high and about the same width. The vein Hon. John L. Thompson, District Attorney; of coal is six feet in thickness, and is of the very best quality to be found in the neighborhood of Pittsburgh. The Company have commenced operations upon the most extensive scale, and their facilities for taking out and transporting coal to the river are unsurpassed. There is a railroad running into each pit, and as soon as the coal is dugit is loaded into small cars, which are pulled out by horses to a platform, and their contents are rapidly deposited in the large cars, by means of a "abute." This is all done in as short a time as it takes us to describe it. Twenty loaded cars or 100 tons of coal, were brought down on Saturday, in one train in front of the cars occupied by the guests. The descent was made in the most satisfactory manner. when the party returned to Coal Harbor, three and JOHN McNEISS, of Pittsburgh ;-all citizens without the slightest accident occurring, and
