DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES:

JAMES BUCHANAN,

OF PENNSYLVANIA:

Subject to decision of the Democratic General Convention

FOR VICE PRESIDENT:

WILLIAM R. KING,

OF ALABAMA:

Subject to the same decision.

THE NEXT PRESIDENCY.

This important subject has for some months been claiming a large share of the public attention,—especially since the close of the elections in this State and Ohio: and the expressions of public sentiment have consequently been more pointed and frequent. The gentlemen whose names have been most frequently referred to in connection with the subject, are well known to the country; and, so far as it respects the prominent Democrats now before the People, we hazard nothing in saying, that either of them would give far more satisfaction to the country, in his management of our great domestic interests, than any one who has been named or could be named among the Whigs. Among the Democratic party the names of Buchanan, Cass, Douglass, and Houston, have all been favorably referred to; all have warm and ardent friends; and either would serve the Democratic cause faithfully; but there are grounds upon which each has been supported, that would be unavailing to some extent, for the others; and therefore there may be wide but honest differences of opinion in relation to the proper individual to be selected for the eminently important station. We accord to others all the consideration, and all the honesty, which we claim for ourselves; unless in peculiar cases, where the course of the individuals has been such as to forbid an acknowledgement of their honesty, unless at the hazard of our own character for ordinary intelligence. We are perfectly satisfied that a large majority of the People of Pennsylvania are devotedly attached to the principles of the Democratic party; and we as firmly believe that nine-tenths of this majority are at this moment in favor of the Hon. James Buchanan for the Presidency. Entertaining these views and regarding him above every member of our party, in point of merit and qualifications, we not only esteem it a duty, but it is also one of our highest pleasures, to aid in advancing his claims before the People of the country. Let others prefer one less eminent before the world, one less experienced in the affairs of the country, less able in debate, less powerful as a diplomatist, less faithful and unswerving to the Democratic faith—for our part we are only free to choose one whose course is straightforward, whose opinions are always given freely and frankly, who is always on the side of the People; and who, we think, will, in the approaching contest, be sustained by the People. Feeling this, we are pleased to record the proofs which are daily coming to us of his abiding and increasing popularity.

We present, to-day, some proofs of the estimation in which our distinguished fellow-citizen is held, as well at home as abroad. We begin with the Mercer county Independent Democrat, which is edited by WM. MCKEAN, Esq., who has been recently chosen by the People of that county an Associate Judge. He says:—

This week we place at the head of our paper the name of Hon. James Buchanan as our candidate for President of the United States in 1852. This has not been done for the purpose of manufacturing public opinion in favor of Mr. Buchanan; it is our duty as well as our inclination, in preferring the claims of candidates, in all cases to follow, rather than to lead public sentiment.

During the past year we have conversed with Democrats of every section of our county on this subject. This we have done so freely and unreservedly, asking their opinions without reference to our own, and find that, with a very few exceptions, every disinterested Democrat declares himself openly in favor of Mr. Buchanan, as his first choice for the highest office in the gift of the people. The principal reasons for this choice may be condensed in a few brief sentences.

Mr. Buchanan possesses, in a pre-eminent degree, all the requisite qualifications to fill the Presidential chair with honor to himself, and to the country. To talents and acquirements of the highest order, he unites as much experience in the political affairs of our nation as any man now living. In private life, his character is, so far as we know or have heard, without a blemish. Stern and unyielding in his principles, for a quarter of a century he has been the mark for the shafts of malice vituperation and abuse of an unscrupulous party, whose schemes for perpetuating power and wealth in the hands of the favored few he has uniformly exposed and defeated. In short he has been the best abused Democrat in the United States, a sure proof of his honesty and devotion to his principles.

Last, though not least, he is a native of Pennsylvania. This, of itself, should give him a claim to the support of our citizens, were his qualifications and other claims less than they are.

But while we thus urge the claims of our favorite, we would not attempt to detract from the merits of any of the great statesmen who have been spoken of as candidates for the Presidency. Should Cass, Douglass, Dickinson, Marcy, or Houston be the choice of the National Convention we shall yield the nominee our hearty support, though we are sorry to see some of the partizans of General Cass evince a very different spirit.

The Democratic Sentinel at Uniontown says:—

For thirty years, the name of James Buchanan has been intimately connected with the history of this country; in all its legislative and diplomatic relations; from the house he marched to Baltimore a volunteer, in the cause and for the defence of his country, until the present day, the great object of his life has been the prosperity and happiness of his countrymen and the perpetuity of the Union; with him there has been no vacillating, but he has at all times and under circumstances, supported the letter and the spirit of the Constitution with all its compromises, and to the support of that charter of our liberties, he brought the aid of a giant intellect. His arguments, always powerful in their truthfulness, were majestic in their elegant simplicity, and convincing in their clearness. Always advocating the cause of the people and the interest of the country, he has become to the democracy of the nation, as we have heretofore remarked, "a tower of strength," and in their hour of trouble "the stronghold of their defence."

Thus speaks the Clinton Democrat, on this subject:—

The Sunbury American should know that a few more such articles as that in its last number, in which a bitter allusion is made to Messrs. Buchanan and Dallas, are just what the friends of those gentlemen desire. We verily believe that the tendencies of this State eighteen months ago were encouraging to Gen. Cass. Lured by these favorable auspices, a set of men have made themselves his champions in this State who are enough to sink any man or any cause. Our county, for instance, was lately decidedly for Cass. But we can discover a gradual changing of popular sentiment—changeable altogether upon the persecution which is visited from higher quarters through such organs as the Sunbury American, upon Pennsylvania's greatest Statesman. Buchanan is the pride of Pennsylvania. It is neither democratic nor Pennsylvanian to abuse him.

Then hear the Mountain Sentinel, at Ebensburg:—

We have this day placed at the head of our paper the name of Hon. James Buchanan as our favorite candidate, and the choice of Cambria, for the Presidency, subject to the decision of the next Democratic National Convention. Of Mr. Buchanan's public services it is almost unnecessary to speak. His reputation is alike brilliant in every section of our confederacy. That he is a man of mighty mind, able, learned, and exemplary, there can be no doubt. Whether we look at his actions whilst a member of Congress, on the floor of the United States' Senate, or as the most brilliant star of the glorious administration of the lamented Polk, we find him ever a consistent democrat, an upright and estimable citizen, devoted to the institutions of his country, acting for the general good, proving himself equal to every emergency, faithful to the rights of each and every State, faithful to the constitution and the laws, and a tower of strength in his warm and cordial support of the recent compromise measures.

The Easton Democrat, a German Democratic paper of influence and ability, published in Northampton county, and circulating in Monroe, appeared on the 30th ultimo, with the name of Hon. JAMES BUCHANAN at its mast head, for the Presidency.

The Carolinian, at Fayetteville, N. C. says:—

The position of Mr. Buchanan throughout the whole agitation which has so shaken and convulsed the country, has been uniformly conservative and patriotic, and as such, we believe has won, not only the approbation, but the applause of liberal and high-toned men in every portion of the Union. He is opposed to further agitation upon the slavery question, and the modification of the fugitive slave law; and condemns without reserve the factions and corrupt demagogues of his own State, who, unmindful of good faith and their obligations to the Constitution, still persist in keeping open a question full of mischief and danger to the South. * * * * With leading statesmen in the North, standing in such an attitude before the country, proclaiming such sentiments as Mr. Buchanan does, and has done, since the beginning of the Slavery agitation, in 1835—with the prospect now so cheering that Pennsylvania, in the coming elections, will show herself worthy to be known as the "Keystone State"—the South may still hope that "the fatal question of Slavery will soon be finally settled and placed at rest."

The Wytheville (Va.) Republican, unfurls the broad flag of James Buchanan for President, and John Floyd, present Governor of Virginia, for Vice President.

The Martinsburg [Va.] Republican raises the flag of James Buchanan for the Presidency and Gov. John Floyd for the Vice Presidency.

A rather distinguished gentleman of Tennessee, whose statements are worthy of all credence, says:

"Mr. Buchanan is emphatically the choice of Tennessee, and let the National Convention nominate who it may, I am free to say that no other man in this Union, can command in this state as full a vote as your distinguished citizen."

The Knoxville [Tenn.] Plebeian, speaking of Mr. Buchanan's letter, says:

It will be read with pride and pleasure. Especially to the South does it come with "healing on its wings" and balm on its bosom. Prominent in the hearts of his countrymen in connection with the candidacy for the next Presidency, an expression from this distinguished Democrat, defining his views upon any point north of Florence, will be read at this particular crisis, can but forbode the unity of thought and sentiment of harmony and good feeling in the ranks of the Democratic party, which is an earnest of future success. The soul-breathing pathos in every line can but exert a salutary influence upon the citizens of our common country.

Speaking of the same able letter, the Memphis [Tenn.] Appeal says:—

Let no one fail to read the noble letter, in today's paper, of the Hon. James Buchanan. It is the production of a statesman whose every pulse is true to the Constitution and the rights of the people and the States. He has been extensively spoken of as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. The people cannot hesitate to choose between him and a Scott, a Fillmore, or a Webster, one of whom will certainly be the Whig candidate. We proudly defy the political friends of those gentlemen to produce anything from them, which can parallel the high-toned and patriotic principle which throughout pervades Mr. Buchanan's letter.

In answer to a southern Whig paper, the Mobile Ala. Daily Register thus honorably refers to Mr. Buchanan:—

We therefore take the liberty of suggesting to the "Whigs of the South" the following ticket: For President, James Buchanan.—For Vice President, Wm. R. King. Mr. Buchanan is as sound in respect to Southern rights, as any prominent man at the North. Let the Southern Whigs, who "are thinking" of Mr. Fillmore, compare His views and opinions with those of Mr. Buchanan, and they will be at a loss to discern who is the "sounder man in respect to Southern Rights." As to Col King, both of the old parties at the South will unite in his support. The States Rights party are satisfied with him, and if any confidence can be placed in the declarations of the so called Union Party, they will be glad of an opportunity to evince their respect for his character, and their confidence in his political principles.

If the North is satisfied with Mr. Buchanan, the South will be with Col. King, and the necessity for a Convention of the Democratic party, will be entirely superseded by the unanimity with which the ticket will be supported. His only opponents will be the Abolitionists and Freesoilers, and such partizans as may co-operate with them for the attainment of party ends.

Pittsburgh and Rochester Railroad.

From the M'Kean County News we learn that a meeting was held in Smethport, on the evening of the 21st ultimo, to take into consideration the project of making a railroad from this city to the city of Rochester. This work was regarded by the meeting as one of immense advantage to both the cities, as well as of the highest importance to the country through which it is designed to pass,—developing immense resources that are now hidden, and offering great advantages to all the leading branches of trade in the two communities. A route through McKean county has been pronounced by competent engineers altogether practicable; and it is one with which no other can possibly come into successful competition, whether the shortness of the road, or the value of the mineral, coal, iron, &c., along the line, be taken into account. In addition to the acknowledged fact that this is the shortest practicable route between Rochester and Pittsburgh, we should take into consideration the fact that all the legislation necessary is already secured for its passage through McKean county—thirty-five miles of the Sunbury and Erie Railroad being common to both roads.

Dr. Kinkel in Cincinnati.

The Torch-light procession in Cincinnati, on Monday evening last, in honor of Dr. Kinkel, the German patriot, was a truly grand affair. The Commercial says: "It numbered about 2,000, and was enlivened in its course by three bands of music, accompanied by three glee clubs.—Transparencies, blazing out revolutionary mottoes, dotted the line, and here and there the banner of Uncle Sam streamed out. The Society of Turners, in their white uniforms, led off the procession, and made a very pretty display. Altogether it was quite a clever affair, and was conducted with enthusiasm and propriety. The Doctor made his speech as set down in the programme, and the grand demonstration closed with any amount of cheers for the freedom of Germany."

☞ A large number of the Democrats of Armstrong county assembled at Kittanning on the evening of the 31st ultimo, to enjoy a social repast, and rejoice over the redemption of Pennsylvania from the hands of the Federalists. The Hon. John C. Kuhx presided, assisted by Gen. Robert Orr, James Douglass, and A. L. Robinson as Vice Presidents, and E. S. Golden, and Thomas McMasters as Secretaries. Many toasts were drunk, and a number of these were in honor of the Hon. JAMES BUCHANAN. The spirit of the meeting was altogether favorable to our distinguished fellow-citizen.

☞ We look occasion, last week, to notice the introduction by Mr. Xanpi, of Louis, of an onion from Spain, weighing a pound and a half. Yesterday we were shown one brought over from England by Judge JONES of this city, which weighed two pounds and one ounce when purchased, and weighed at the present time one pound and ten ounces. It is certainly a monster. We learn that Judge J. intends presenting it to some one of our gardeners for the purpose of raising seed.

Railroad Meeting at Frankfort.

According to previous notice, a meeting of the citizens of Frankfort and vicinity, was held at the house of G. W. Dungan, in Frankfort, on the 4th day of November, 1851, for the purpose of taking into consideration the propriety of recommending to the Board of Directors of the Pittsburgh and Steubenville Railroad Company, our claims to the proper examination of the route near Frankfort.

The meeting was organized by calling Thos. Nicholson, Esq., to the Chair, and choosing John M. Harsha, Secretary.

Agreed, on motion, that a committee of five to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting. Whereupon, the President appointed the following persons on said committee:—Messrs. W. S. Dungan, Jonathan Duncan, Jacob Keifer, W. H. Fraser, and Samuel Biggen. Who after a few minutes absence, returned, and reported the following preamble and Resolutions.

WHEREAS, A Railroad is about to be located from Pittsburgh to Steubenville, the experimental surveys are now being made. And whereas, we believe we have a route equal, if not preferable, to any other route proposed between those points. Therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of four be appointed by the President to meet with Mr. Roberts, one of the principal Engineers of the Road, at Florence, to-morrow the 5th inst., at 12 o'clock, M.; and proceed with him to Pittsburgh, to attend a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pittsburgh and Steubenville Railroad Company, to be held at that place on Thursday the 6th inst; to present our claims for the location of said road. That our claims to the road may be by the Board duly considered, and acted on; as the general interest of the company and country require.

The President appointed Messrs. Jonathan Duncan, James Morrison, Jacob Guy and Samuel Biggen on said committee.

Resolved, That should the Board authorize an examination and survey of our route, that Andrew Vance, James Morrow, John Stevenson, Jonathan Duncan, Russell Moore, Andrew Biggen, J. W. Stewart and William Guy, be a committee to attend at any time fixed upon by the Engineers, and point out to them the ground which we propose for the track, for their examination and approval.

Resolved, That we are willing to subscribe to the capital stock of the road to the extent of our ability, say from 30 to 50 thousand dollars, provided that our route be duly and carefully examined by the Engineers of the Company and should after a close examination, not prove so favorable as we anticipate, and after due consideration it should be rejected as not the most favorable route for the road. Still, if the road be located at any point north of Florence, it will in a good degree answer our purpose. And we will pledge ourselves to give the road our cordial support and favor.

Agreed on motion. That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the Pittsburgh Gazette and Pittsburgh Post. On motion adjourned.

THOS. NICHOLSON,
JOHN M. HARSHA.

☞ We understand that the Harrisburg Daily American, which was gotten up expressly to aid in the re-election of Governor Johnston, was edited by his brother, and proved to be the most ultra blackguard sheet in the State, has expired. This was a matter to be expected. It was only started to do dirty work, and it performed its part so thoroughly, that even the Whigs sickened at its appearance.

☞ A call for a State Convention has been issued by the Democratic members of the Tennessee Legislature, to take place on the 8th of January next, for the purpose of nominating Delegates to a General Convention, for the selection of candidates for President and Vice President of the United States.

Kossuth on board the Mississippi.

A letter from Constantinople, of Oct 1, in the Augsburg Gazette, gives the following as the speech delivered by Kossuth on going on board the frigate Mississippi:

"Companions—May the Almighty God be praised who has granted me the extraordinary favor of being able to speak to you, worthy brethren, of my mission, under this flag, [pointing to the flag of the United States.] Now, only I breathe freely. Now only I, a poor exile feel myself proud at owing my deliverance to you, and to one of the most magnanimous nations of Europe.

"I am about to proceed with my companions to that generous people to whom you have the happiness to belong, and I shall kiss with joy that sacred land of liberty, where I hope to find for my unfortunate people what I seek. Yes, for I seek brethren; and Kossuth will not die until he has found them. But I do not seek your sympathies, for we possess them; nor an asylum, for we shall never want one as long as the Negyar shall groan under the yoke of the Sclavonian; nor a Liberator, for Hungary will know how to deliver herself; but I seek an avenger against the oppressor of a holy cause, and for innocent men who have unjustly fallen."

When Kossuth had concluded the captain shook him by the hand, and the crew cried "God save Kossuth."

☞ It is after this manner that the hirelings of monarchy and aristocracy when traveling through our country, speak of us and our institutions. The extract is from a correspondent of La Patrie, a Paris paper, writing from New York. The fellow who could innocently write thus ought to have a guardian appointed by the public:—

Assassination is the order of the day—assassination at night; in broad daylight; at high noon; at every hour and in every place; in the city and in the hamlet; on land and by sea—it is a rage, a mania.

I venture to affirm that in no civilized country of the world are the statistics of blood and murder so rica in figures and facts as in this classic land of fraternity. Murder furnishes the indispensable illustration for each page of the history of our annals. There is not a page in which there are not lines traced in human blood.

Four individuals were tried for murder last month at Baltimore. Part of them escaped from prison, and the rest were acquitted. We are in the constant receipt of frightful accounts from Boston. Here, again, the pistol, stiletto, and poison, perform the principal part.

A Spanish paper calculates that there are 3,064 languages spoken throughout the world—587 in Europe, 937 in Asia, 276 in Africa, and 1,264 in America.

Early Lost—Early Saved.

Within her downy cradle, there lay a little child,
And a group of hovering angels, unseen, upon her smiled;
When a strife arose among them—a loving, holy strife—
Which should shed the richest blessing over the newborn life.

One breathed upon her features, and the babe in beauty grew,
With a cheek like morning's blushes, and an eye of azure hue;
Till every one who saw her, was thankful for the sight
Of a face so sweet and radiant, with ever fresh delight.

Another gave her accents, and a voice as musical
As a Spring bird's joyous carol, or a rippling wire-inlet's fall;
Till all who heard her laughing, or her words of childish grace,
Loved as much to listen to her, as to look upon her face.

Another brought from Heaven a pure and gentle mind,
And within the lovely casket the precious gem enshrined;
Till all who knew her, wondered that God should be so good
As to bless with such a spirit a world so cold and rude.

Thus did she grow in beauty, in melody, and truth,
The budding of her childhood just budding into youth;
And no one heart yet dearer, every moment than before,
She became, though we thought fondly, heart could not love her more.

Then out spoke another angel—nobler, brighter than the rest,
As with strong arm, but tender, he caught her to his breast,
"Ye have made her all too lovely for a child of mortal race,
But no shade of human sorrow shall darken o'er her face

Ye have turned to gladness only the accents of her tongue,
And no wail of human anguish shall from her lips be wrung;
Nor shall the soul that shineth so purely from within
Her form of earth-born frailty, ever know a sense of sin.

Lulled in my faithful bosom, I will bear her far away,
Where there is no sin, nor anguish, nor sorrow, nor decay;
And mine a boon more glorious than all your gifts shall be—
Lo! I crown her happy spirit with immortality!"
Then on his heart one darling yielded up her gentle breath,
For the strongest, brighter angel who loved her best was—Death.

Indian Outrage.

The Frontier Guardian, published at Kanesville, Iowa, on the 17th contains a letter from Maj. J. E. Barrow, Agent for the Omaha, Otoe, and Pawnee Indians, dated at Bellevue, Nebraska Territory, in which he says:

"I am under the necessity of asking you to get fifty men and their horses to come down as soon as possible. The Omaha Indians are becoming so impudent and dangerous, that they want chastisement. Young Elk, their Chief, drew his gun on me this morning, and threatened to kill me. This was done in consequence of my threatening it iron him for some of his and his men's misdemeanors toward the whites. Some thirty of them loaded their guns and the Chief told me that I would have to iron all of them if I attempted to with Elk."

On receipt of the Major's letter, [says the Guardian,] the citizens of this place called a mass meeting, and by the voice of that meeting, a committee of three were appointed to wait upon Mr. Barrow, to ascertain the cause or origin of the difficulty, but before their arrival at Bellevue, the Major's residence, the Indians left on their fall hunt; consequently no further steps were taken.

Secretary of State.

The Greensburgh Argus is out in favor of Judge Campbell of Philadelphia for the office of Secretary of the Commonwealth. The editor says:

The name of Judge Campbell has been mentioned for this office. We do not know where the Governor Elect could find a more competent man. His appointment would be highly gratifying to the democracy of western Pennsylvania, and give strength and respectability to any administration. The office is one of great importance, and should be filled by a man of eminent ability. Such a man we believe Judge Campbell to be.

☞ A Most Remarkable Case of Total Blindness Cured by Petroleum.—We invite the attention of the afflicted and the public generally to the evidence of William Hall, of this city. The case may be seen by any person who may be skeptical in relation to the facts there set forth S. M. KIER.

"I had been afflicted several years with a soreness of both eyes, which continued to increase until last September, (1850), the inflammation at that time having involved the whole lining membrane of both eyes, and ended in the deposite of a thick film which wholly destroyed my sight. I had an operation performed, and the thickening removed, which soon returned and left me in as bad a condition as before. At this stage of the complaint I made application to several of the most eminent medical men, who informed me that my eyes would never get well." At this time I could not distinguish any object. By the advice of some friends I commenced the use of the Petroleum, both internally and locally, under which my eyes have improved daily until the present time, and I have recovered my sight entirely. My general health was very much improved by the Petroleum, and I attribute the restoration of my sight to its use. I reside at No. 102 Second street, in this city, and will be happy to give any information in relation to my case WILLIAM HALL."

☞ Dr. Guyscott's Improved Extract of YELLOW DOCK AND SARSAPARILLA.—For the cure of disease, or as a Spring purifier of the blood, and as a general tonic for the system, is unrivalled.

The curative powers of this Extract are truly wonderful, and all invalids should make immediate trial of the "Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla." It cannot injure the most delicate patient.

Then fly from Mineral nostrums to seek hope, life, and vigor, from this purely vegetable remedy. There is, however, broken in health and spirits, however loathsome to himself and others, let no one despair of recovery; let the patient only understand that the hope of his physical restoration lies only in "Guyscott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla," and he needs not to despair. For my life's sake, to try it, and we have no hesitation in predicting his speedy restoration to health.

(From the Louisville Journal, May 29th, 1851.)
Dr. J. S. Houghton's Pepsin, for Dyspepsia.
Prepared from Rennet, in the Stomach of the Ox.
☞ On the 7th of May, 1851, Rev. M. D. Williams, Pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, in Louisville, was called to see a child that had been for a long time confined to his room, and most of the time to his bed, with Dyspepsia and Chronic Diarrhœa, and was, to all appearance, a victim of the grave, and acknowledged to be so by his physician, who had tried all the ordinary means in his power, without effect, and at the above named time the patient, with the consent of his physician, commenced the use of Dr. Houghton's "PEPSIN," and to the astonishment, surprise and delight of all, he was much relieved the first day. The third day he left his room. The sixth day, which was exactly hot, he rode out with no bad effect; on the eighth day he went on a visit to the country; and, on the thirteenth day, though not entirely restored to his natural strength, he was so far recovered as to go alone a journey of five hundred miles, where he arrived in safety, much improved in health, having had no disturbance of the stomach or bowels, after taking the first dose of Pepsin. These facts are not controvertible, and that this case which ought to convince all skeptics that there is a power in "PEPSIN." Let physicians and dyspeptics investigate.
