THE PRESIDENCY.--NR BUCHANAN

The names of a number of distinguished Dem ocrats have been spoken of in connection with the Presidency, any one of whom would fill that exalted position in an honorable and creditable manner. Senator Douglass, Gen. Cass, Gen. WM. O. BUTLER, Gen. SAM. Houston, and Gen. LANE, are all glorious Democrats, and not only stand high with the party, but are respected wherever their names are known. We would cheerfully support either of these gentlemen I nominated by the National Convention. But the "signs of the times" clearly indicate that the Hon, JAMES BUOHANAN will receive the nomination of the Democratic National Convention, which assembles in Baltimore on the 1st of June next. It seems to be conceded by our Democratic brethren in other States that Pennsylvania shall have the honor of giving to the untry the next President. The Democracy of the good old Keystone States, with a unanimity almost unparalleled, have declared their profe-

A Mis-Quotation Mr. Webster, in his speech before the New England Historical Society, falls into a common error respecting one of the most beautiful passinges of Milton, which he quotes as describing the fall of Lucifer from Heaven: we allude to the lines, "Hurled by angry Jove he crystal battlements; from morn

Sheer a er the crystal battlements; from m To noon he fell, from noon to dawy eve, A summer's day; and with the setting sur Dropt from the zenth like a falling star, On Lemnos, the Ægenn isle." Now this is a description of the fall of Vulcau the famous fall by which the old blacksmith wa the famous fall by which the old blacksmith was lamed. Nor is the passage introduced in allusion to Lucifer at all, but to Mammon, whose skill in mining, elaborating precious metals, and in architecture forms the burden of the preceding fifty lines. Mis quotations like these may be expected in a newspaper article, where the writer depends on memory alone, and has not time for reference; but, in a careful, elaborated speech it is area to see them. A great man like speech, it is rare to see them. A great man like Webster may do these things with impunity, however; but a similar mistake in a young man would make him the general butt.—Philadelphia Bulletin.
