Work, not Wait. BY GEOSCE HOO! ER. " Wait a little longer."-Street Sony. Full long the promise has gone furth,
Of better times and brighter days,
When honor shell a tend on worth,
And meet reward on hours't ways.
The people have been told to wait
Until this golden age appears.
75 wait! Why that has been their fate.
For some six thousand years. To wait is good, to way is brave;
To wait, it is the hero's part;
But waiting never freed one slave;
Nor besled one wounded heart.
O Fort, write thou Work for Wait,
In humble faith and acrive deed;
The Worker is the lord of fate;
The Man who waits still fails at need.
Lordon Pay I cannot help making the avowal and I make It at the risk of being never asked to Christmas, with the Robinsons again—I cannot help avowing. I say, that I dislike babies. My averon, however, is, I flatter myself, ha philosophical principles. We do not like to be reminded of our origin—a cidevant tailor would not like to dine on goose, nor would a retired market gardener feel very grateful at being sent a present of a pumpkin! Accordingly, I do not allogether like to have a living memento thrus continually before my eight, reminding me tha I was once a dampling of raw looking flesh, tha sucked its finger, slobbered its bib, and neve said anything but "tata!" It is humiliating to reflect that you were once such a mere animal, and you are in a second pulled flown from your dignified elevation by the vacant smile of baby-bood. As a class, babies are universally disagreeable. My experience, I grieve to say, is etty large among infantile acquaintsness d I can conscienciously state that I never me and I can conscienciously state that I do not as well conducted buby in my life. I do not think one over existed; they are ontlaws and irresponsible to human laws. of manners, and irresponsible to human laws.
I have good reasons for disliking babies, for through the instrumentality of one of that fearful race I lost a property, that would canbled me to marry, and have a house of my own, instead of being as I am, a single man in lodgings. I had an aunt who, being very well to do in the world, and having no nearer kinsman than myself, kindly intimated to my family that she had made me heir, and would be glad if I paid 12th, P. Damon. 24th, George R. Barre my respects to her: accordingly I started, per coach, and was, in due time, deposited at her coach, and was, in due time, deposited at her door. A warm welcome, and a glass of capital claret soon put me at my ease; and it was no until after the first day that I discovered the my aunt was pussionately fond of babies, and was never without some protege of tender years in her house, whose education she superit Godfrey's Cordial" tered. "I had been afflicted several years with a soreness of both eyes, which continued to increase untill last september, (1850), the inflammation at that time having involved the whole lining membrane of both eyes, and ended in the deposite of a thick film, which wholly destroyed my sight. I had an operation performed, and the thickening removed, which soon returned and loft me in as bad a condition as before. At this stage of the complaint I made application to several of the most eminet medical men, who informed me, that "my open would never get well." At this time I could not distingth any object. By the advice of some friends I come medical men, and I have recovered my sight entired its use.
