Drowned .- Another young man, belonging to the Good Intent Fire Company, named Thomas Johnston, was drowned in the Monongahela river on Saturday afternoon. In diving from a boat, he struck his head against a rock, which stunned him so much that life was extinct before any assistance could be rendered.

In Mourning .- Our citizens yesterday, from 11 A. M. until 1 P. M., showed, by outward demonstration, their love for the great statesman, who is now no more, and whose death all parties and above. Flags were displayed, shrouded with grape, and many of our public buildings were trimmed with mourning: minute guns were also fired. Work-shops and ware-houses were deserted, and every person seemed to sympathize in this event as in that of a family bereavement
