MR. MAGILL-THE SHERIFFALTY.

During all last week we refrained from referring to these two fruitful subjects for comment We supposed that some one of the Whig organs would say something in answer to Mrs. Swisshelm's terrible article of the 18th. But they were all as close as an oyster on the subject, and not one of them said a word in defence of Mr. Magill. Mr. Magill did undertake to sttend to the matter himself, and called at the office of the Visiter to "explain." Mrs. S. de. | fore, and we hope that hereafter it will be equalscribes his visit as follows:

Scribbes his visit us follows : "Mr. Marili callet at our office in quite a passion, and we were sorry for being absent. Should like to here, seen him, to know exactly what he could do about it.
