THE CITY POST: WEDNESDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 17 CHROUT COURT OF THE USTIED STATES.—Trial for murde -Before Judges Grier and Irwin. On Monday night, after the conclusion of Mr. Sweitzer's address to the jury in behalf of the government, Judge Grier charged the jury. The learned Judge spoke of the bility of the present case. The jurors were empanelled in a case, in which it was their duty carefully to empanelled in a case, in which it was ever duey carriany to examine the testimony laid before them, without fear or pre-indice. Neither should the horror of the crime imputed to ant, be permitted to affect the minds of the ju rors they should not mistake suspicion for proof; and when the evidence was uncertain, the doubt should operat in favor of the prisoner. The government had also a right to claim of the jury a stern performance of their duty; feelings of pity should not lead the jury to forget their duty, which was to find a true verdict according to the evidence, without fear of the consequences. The judge continued, in addressing the jury, that while the prisoner is entitled to an acquittal where there is a reasonable doubt of her guilt. which serve only 44 an excuse to an injured conscience for The prisoner stands charged with the crime of the murder of her step son. It is not denied that a homicide has seen committed, nor it was caused by the acts of the prisoner. It was also admitted that the occurrence took place within the walls of the arsenal, belonging to the United States, the jurisdiction of this Court therefore to try the case was not questioned. [The Judge then read from the act of Congress, passed on the 30th of April, 1792, in relation to the punishment of the crime of r when it occurred within the walls of any Fort, or Arsenal. dock yard, &c.] The term murder as used in the act of Congress, is to be homicide is classed under four heads—lst, murder, 2d, man. slaughter, 3d, excusable homicide, and 4th justifiable homi-The first two only are termed felonies, and subject the perpetrator to punishment. On an indictment charging the defendant with murder, the jury may find him guilty of manslaughter, if the evidence show him to be guilty of the latter offence, and not of the former. On the contrary, if the offence should be found to come within the class of excusable or justifiable homicide, the defendant is entitled to a verdict of "not guilty." Judge Grier continued as follows; in relation to the principles of law. relevant to the case:ples of law, relevant to the case.—
Marder is defined, or rater described to be, where a person, of sound memory and discretion, unlawfully killeth any reasonable creature in being, with malice aforethought exreasonable creature in being, with malice aforethquight express or implied.

It is of two kinds—list, involuntary manulaughter, where a man doing an unlawful act, not amounting to felony, by a cocident kills another; and 21, voluntary manulanghter, which is the unlawful killing of another without malice, either upon anden quarred; or unlatentionally, while the slayer is in the commission of some unlawful act not amounting to felony. Manslaughter differs from murder in thistance of the commission of some unlawful act not amounting though the act which occasions the death be unlawful, or likely to be attended with bodily mischlet, yet the malice, either express or applied, which is the very essence of murder, is presumed to be wanting and the act being imputed to the infirmity of human nature, the punishment is proportionally lenient. portionally lenient.

31: Excusable homicide is of two kinds. 1st. Where a man, dding a lawful act without any intention of hurt, by accident kills another; this is called homicide per infortaneum or by misadventure.

21: Where a man kills another upon immediate attack, merely in his own defence, or that of his wife, child, parent or servant. This is termed homicide se contents, or self defence.

Justifiable Homicide is of three kinds. 1st. When an executes a criminal. 21. When an officer of leading resists min. at when the nomicae is committed in pre-jention of a furcible and stroclous crime.

As should probably not be fulfilling our duty in a proper manner, by leaving the case to you with these general defi-nitions and principles of law, extracted from the books, without assisting you to make a specific application of them to the cash thefore you. stimut assisting you to make a specime approximate the desire you.

In this case the fact of the homicide, and that the death of the deceased was caused by the act of the defendant in discharging a gun at him, are clearly proved and not denied.

Your enquiry will therefore be directed to the circumstances attending the act, and the question whether the killing was done intentionally or with make—or if not, whether in the perpetration of some unlayful act, not amounting to a feloperpetration of some unlawful act, not amounting to a felo-ny, or accidentally by miseafurourner, while in the perform-nee of a lawful act. As these are the three possible views which may be taken of the case, we shall notice them in their orders, stating the law bearing on each, and recapitula-ting the testimony given in support of it. 1st. What is the malice aforethought, which is necessary to accompany the act of homicide, in calor to constitute margier? to accompany the act of homicide, in cancer to constitute murder?

If the killing was intentional, to gratify hatred or revenge in the popular sense of the term of malice, and without immediate proposation, it would be a plain case of unreter.

But to constitute malice in law, it is not nocessary that there should be a mortal grade, settled anger, hatred, or rancor of mind, against the descenced for any length of time previous. Malice, in its legal sense, denotes a wrongful act, done intentionally, without just cause or excuse. It is implied in law, from any deliberate cruel act committed by one person against another, however sudden, unless done under great and audden provocation. All homicide is presumed to be malicious, and amounting to murder, until the contrary appears, from circumstances of alleviation, excuse or justification, and where-the defence rests upon violent provocation, to refuce the crime to that of manalaughter, it will not avail if it appears there was an interval or reflection, or a reasonable time for the blood to have cooled before the deadly purpose was effected. And provocation will be no answer to provocation to reduce the crime to that of manalaughter, it will not avail if it appears there was an interval or reflection, or a reasonable time for the blood to have cooled before the deadly purpose was effected. And provocation will be no answer to provocation to injune another, or an obsiduate provastication and thereby causes its death, it might be murder. If a monther willfully neglect to give her child food, and thereby causes its death, it might be murder. If a parent inflicts corporeal punishment on a child, and complete it work beyond its strength, and the child dies of a literate and the reduced the constitution of his appendic. If a monther willfully neglect to give her child food, and thereby causes its death, it might be murder. I thich is given above,made some remarks in reference to th ary came in , and Mr. Darste, a member of the jury, interated the Judge in writing in relation to a portion of the dge's charge which was not understood, or misuuderst y the jury, and formed the principal reason of their disa-reement. This interrogation was in relation to that por The Judge stated that if the death occurred from a careless t, or from the commission of an illegal act, it was undoubt-lly murder. But if it did not appear that the pointing of mpty gun at a person was an Hegal act, or that she be classed as a criminal act. He spoke also of the reonsibility resting on the porson who had placed the shot the gun, of that if Mrs. Richardson had known the shot as in the gun, and in forgetfulness or carelessness had fired she was culpable—that, however, was for the jury to de-At four o'clock, the jury returned into Court, and stated they could not agree. THE GREAT VEGETABLE REMEDY:
DR. H. B. MYER'S EXTRACT,
Dandeleon, Wild Oberty and Sarsaparilla Tills valuable medical preparation differs entirely from any simple "Extract of Sarsaparilla," or common purifying medicine. It is a compound of many most CLEANSING MEDICINES, with others acting directly on the Kidneys, or having immediato reference to the rellef and continued healthy operation of some internal organs. It contains articles which enter into no other preparation in existence,
AND IT IS UNRIVALLED

in purifying and refreshing effects, by any Medicino in the articles which enter into no other preparation in existence,
AND IT IS UNRIVALLED
in purifying and refreshing effects, by any Medicine in the world. It is put up in LARGE BOTTLES, is very pleasant to the taste, and is more concentrated,
STRONGER, BETTER AND OHEAPER,
than any other in the market. Persons who have taken "Sarsaparilis" by the gallou, without relief, have been radically cured by using two or three bottles. This is the only compound in which Dandellou, Wild Gerry and Sarsaparilis have so prepared to offer the peculiar virtues of each, in combination with pure extracts of other healing articles, in a highly concentrated state. Its ingredients are purely we getable, and are such roots and barks as are found, though chiefly affecting certain parts, in their general tendency, to produce the most cleanding and healing effects.

To cure many diseases. Dropsies, Kidney Complaints, &c., draw off Watery Humors from the Blood, or corrupt and ir ritating scretcions of diseased granas from the body, without the therough operations on the Kidneys, as caused by this medicine. No other extracts even pretend to this effect.—
In fact, this very operation, for which it is particularly compounded, differs from all other preparations, and makes it the best compound in existence.

TY ALL CASES OF DROPSY, use this medicine. It will pounded uniers from all outer preparations, and makes it the best compound in existence.

IN ALL CASES OF DROPSY, use this medicine. It will relieve. It has cured when life itself was despuired of. It contains articles that will cure, if anything can, and takes the only method to make permanent cures.
