To seize my prize and take it within the little uncertain yellow haze of the solitary allow candle, was the work of a moment, for I thought myself at least safe of an occupat bed time, if it were only in counting the number of saint's days and holidays there are in the calender. I was pleasingly disappointed, however; the good fairy revealed herself a book is nably feminiae) to me in the shape of a useful little manual, published by Meinecke, of runswick, in 1851, and called the " Post Almanack." As I was given to understand that jost of the facts related in it have actually happened, and may be taken as real chips of the German Post, perhaps the reader may not be sorry to be made acquainted with some of them Lat us commence with the following, which the narrator considers would make a good farce. I differ with him. It is called a "Romance of the In a certain village, called Berlingen, in the district of Mittlich, there lived a small farmer named Johann Mentges. He was an honest and industrious man, but, unluckily no favorite of fortune; perhaps because he muddled himself with beer and pipes,—though this is not alleged as the reason. With the help, however, of a pair ot rich in nothing but debts, and as these must be paid, he mortgaged his little property for two hundred thalers, or about thirty pounds. It is needless to say, Johann Mentges did not he resolved to foreclose. It was in this unhappy glazed hat and yellow-worsted decorations of the ed camel when he won't get up, and expecting it was some new notice, declaration, or other legal botheration, of which he had lately had more to receive the letter extended towards him.

There is a time, just are the frest;
Prepares to pave old Winter's way,
When Autumn in a reverie lost,
The mellow daytime dreams way;
When Summer comes, in musing mind,
To gaze once more on hill and dell,
To mark how many sheaves they bind,
And see if all is ripened well.

With balmy breath she whispers low.

Dying flowers look up and give
Their sweetest incense ere they go.
For her who made their beauties live.
She enters 'neath the woodland shade,
Her hophyrs lift the lingering leaf,
And bear it gently where are laid,
The loved and lost ones of its grief.

At last old Autumn, rising takes,
Again his sceptre and his throne,
With boisterous hand the trees he shakes,
Intent on gathering all his own.
Sweet Summer, eighing, files the plain,
And waiting Winter, gannt and grim,
Sees miser Autumn hoard his grain,
And smiles to think it's all for him.

medicine is purely natural, and is bottled as it flows from the bosom of the earth.

The following certificate is copied from a paper published at Syracuse, N. F., and bears date August 2, 1832, to which is also appended the certificate of the celebrated D. F. Foot, M. D. Syracuse:
This may in truth certify, that I have been so badly affected with Scrotnia for the last seven years that most of the nicted with Scroftle for the last-seven years that most of the time I have been unable to attend to any kind of business, and much of the time unable to walk and confined to my bed, and have been treated nearly all the time by the best Physicians our countries affects. bed, and have been treated nearly all the time by the best Physicians our country affords; I occasionally got some relief, but no cure, and continued to grow worse until Dr. Foot recommended me to try the Petroleum, or Rock Oil, as everything else had failed. I did so without faith at first, but the effect was astonishing; it throw the poison to the surface at ones, and I at once began to grow better, and by uning seven bottles I have got a cure worth thousands of dollars.

MRS. NANCY M. BARKEK.

This may certify that I have been acquainted with Kier's Petroleum, or Rock Oil, for more than a year, and have repeatedly witnessed its beneficial effects in the cure of indolent ulcurs and other diseases for which it is recommended, and can with confidence recommend it to be a medicine worthy of attention, and can safely say that success has attenditive worthy of attention, and can safely say that success has attenditive worthy of attention, and can safely say that success has attenditive.
