for Our cotemporary of the Journal has at length raised the name of the whig candidate for Mayor. As we have said before, he would not do it until Descon White would "do it first."-The Dencon did do it on Monday morning, and, dict, says :--ns we expected, the Journal of Tuesday contained the name of the whig candidate for Mayor. This is as it should be; but we observe that 'he publishes the name more conspicuous than his neighbor of the Gazette. For instance, the Deacon inserted it in the following obscure manner:

A HOME PICTURE. One autumn night when the wind was high, And the rain fell in heavy plashes, A little boy sat by tho kitchen fire, A popping corn in the sahes; And his sister, a carly haired child of three. Sat looking on just cose to his knee.

The blast went howling round the house, As if to get in 'twas trying; It rattled the latch of the outer door, Then jeemed it a baby crying i Now and then a drop down the chinney came And mutters i and then it. red and hissed in the bright re-

Pop, pop—and the kernels one by one, Came out of the embers flying; The boy held a long pine stick in his hand, And kept it busily plying; He stirred the corn and it scapped the more, And faster jumped to the clean swept floor.

A part of the kernals hopped out one way, And a part hopped out the other; Some flew plump into the siter's lap. Some under the stoal of the brother; The little girl gathered them into a heap. And called them a flock of milk white sheep.

All at once the boy sat still as a mouse, And into the fire kept gating; He quite forgot he was popping corn, For he looked where the wood was blaring He looked and he fancied that he could see A house and a barn, a bird and a tree.

Still steadily gared the boy at these, And pusy's gray back kept stroking, Till his liftle sister cristed ond, "why bub, Oaly see how the corn is smoking !" And sure enough, when the by looked back, The corn in the sches was burnt quite black.

"Never mind," said he, "we shall have enough, So now, let's sit back and cat it : So now, let an include and each at. I'll carry the stools and you the corn; This nice-mobody can best it," She took up the corn in her pinafore, And they ats it all nor wished for more
