With respect to snow-clad mountains, perpetual or otherwise, in the equatorial regions of Africa, one fact is preferable to a boat-load of opinions; I therefore desire to inform you, that when employed as assistant surveyor in Her Majesty's steamer Elma, under the command of Caphain Alexander Vidal, surveying in the Bight of Biafro, in February and March, 1836, I beheld the mountain of Cameroons capped with snow. This magnificent mountain, raising quickly from the coast line, in the bottom of the bight, just enstward of the low fiat Delta of the Quorra (Niger!) to the height of 13,000 feet, at the distance of sixteen or seventeen miles hland, was beautifully expeed with snow on our arrival in the neighborhood; it vanished, to the best of my recolled the of the voyage by me, I cannot he exactly sure as to the date.
