OUR FOREIGN RELATIONS.

When President PIERCE was inaugurated, it was evident that the most important and difficult portion of his task would be the proper and safe management of our foreign relations. The signs of the times indicated then as now many changes in the condition of the world before many years; it may be before many months, have passed; changes too of vast consequents to mankind.

The rebellion in China is one of those events; and if successful, will be one of the greatest events of this or any age. It will change the political, social and moral condition of one-third of the human race. The rebels, as they are called, notwithstanding one reported defeat, seem likely to overturn the old Tartar dynasty after a rule of about two hundred and thirty years. The restoration of the old Chinese royal line to the throne is the avowed aim of the revolutionists. The present representative of this ancient line, a youth of nineteen years of age, heads this formidable rebellion, and has been declared Emperor. And while fighting up the flames of civil war over an empire containing some three hundred and fifty millions of people, strange to say he styles himself the "Great Tranquillity."

In his proclamation, he is reported to have declared in favor of Christianity, and of a free commercial intercourse with foreign nations.—We wish success to the "Great Tranquility," if his character and intentions are such as represented. No nation, except the Chinese themselves, has so great an interest in this event as the United States.

Our wide and rich Pacific seaboard fronts to the old nations of Asia, and with our fast growing steam marine, and with a Pacific railroad, our trade with China will be immense.

The rich and populous empire of Japan is soon to be visited by our American Squadron seeking more liberal commercial relations and intercourse, and we trust that expedition will prove successful to some extent.

The prospect of such events in the old, rich and populous nations of Asia requires the presence of an American Commissioner in China, who can rightly understand and secure American interests there. Such a man is the Hon. R. J. WALKER, to whom the President has intrusted that mission. No man in this country is so well fitted for that important post at this eventful era in that half of the world. And it is not surprising that the press of the country has expressed such universal approval of this wise choice of the President.

We hope Mr. WALKER will soon be on his way to the field of his labors. His good judgment and ability might accomplish much for the interests of this country that might be lost by delay, or a mistake of the present incumbent.

Another Foreign Appointment by the President we consider equally wise and fortunate.

Our relations with Spain are of an important and delicate nature at the present time; and require for their management at the Spanish court a man peculiarly fitted for the task. Such a man is SOULE, who is now preparing to depart on that mission. A Frenchman by birth and education, he understands European politics. An American by choice and long residence, he is already recognized as one of our ablest statesmen and Senators. Thoroughly acquainted with Spanish character and history; with the Island of Cuba, and the disposition and condition of its people, we consider his appointment an excellent one.—We like it none the less that, Mr. SOULE is in favor of the acquisition of Cuba by just and lawful means.

That acquisition is in our view a necessity for the peace of this country, and the safety of its commerce. The time when, must be determined by the progress of events. But we hope Mr. SOULE will be able to accomplish it by peaceful means, and make it one of the events to distinguish this administration.

That our affairs will be properly managed at the court of St. James under Mr. BUCHANAN'S care, no one can doubt. We look for an early and satisfactory settlement of the fishery and Central American questions. We hope, however, that these two questions will be settled at Washington.

☞ A malignant article appears in the Dispatch of yesterday, relating to the course and motives of the proprietors of this paper. We hope he is well remunerated for his feeble effort to harm us.

To show the recklessness of the writer, and his utter disregard of truth, we will refer to only one of his statements. He says, "it is unusual for the democracy to nominate before September."

Now, it is well known that the Democratic County Conventions to nominate our tickets are never held as late as September, or even as late as August. Every one who has paid any attention to such matters, is aware of this fact. The exposure of the writer's recklessness in this one point is sufficient to show that all his assertions are as worthless, as his conjectures as to personal motives are ridiculous. We understand that article, and its origin.

HEMPFIELD RAILROAD.—The Pennsylvanian of the 18th, says: "the contractors of the Hempfield railroad are said to be prosecuting their work with great vigor. It is expected that the cars will be running on thirty-two miles of the road by the first of January next, and that the whole road will be finished before the close of the year 1854."

We are glad to hear it. We are free trade men in the matter of railroads. We know no North, we know no South, in these enterprises. All we desire, is that the people of our locality shall evince a spirit of liberality towards this system of gigantic improvements which, if fully carried out, is destined to make Pittsburgh, the leading city in the West. We must not hamper any project that will bring trade to our city, or stumbling block in the way of railroads.

☞ The Danville Democrat, which, notwithstanding its Democratic name, is a rabid Whig paper, says that "the general prosperity of all manufacturing and mechanical occupations has given employment to every person willing to work." Whig orators who are "preparing to pucker" for a heart-breaking wail, during the approaching campaign, over the dreadful effects of the Free Trade Tariff of 1846, are requested to pause and reflect over what the Democrat has said.

☞ POLITICS in our county are, at the present time, rather a mixed up affair. In both parties, the most strenuous efforts are being made to secure nominations. The democracy are more hopeful than their quondam conquerors, and they feel certain that their nominees will be elected. The signs of the times indicate this, but it is made still more evident when the opponents of our party hire a guerrilla sheet to misrepresent us. This is pure whiggery, and good bogus democracy, but it will not pass current with the party. Democrats do not desire any instructions from paid outsiders as to the course they shall pursue in bringing their ticket before the people, or as to the time when that event shall take place. They are capable of attending to their own business, and we think they will do it without regard to the advice of whigs or guerrillas.

The whigs, as we have before said, are evidently frightened. They see that the power is departing from them, and that they now stand almost in the position of a forlorn hope. The frauds that have been practised upon the taxpayers—the manner in which the high officials have, with impudence unbounded, refused to explain to the people the manner in which they have been robbed, and to expose the robbers, has created a feeling in the minds of the honest voters, against which whiggery cannot stand. The frauds are so apparent that they dare not attempt an explanation of them. High officials are implicated, and because they have patronage to give, the whig organs will not speak. But the people will think, and they will speak in trumpet tones at the ballot-box. Let whiggery beware of the ides of October.

We were amused on Monday evening to observe with what alacrity the Whig office hunters hurried to the German Theatre. The house was crowded to excess, and it was interesting to observe the efforts made by these several office hunters to keep themselves before the audience. One of them had the advantage of the others; he had a baby with him, and he managed to keep it in a state of excitement all the time, and draw the attention of the audience to his part of the house—during the whole performance. Whether the excitement in the office hunter's baby was created by pinching or tickling, we are unable to say, but one thing we are certain of, and that is, that he made himself more notable than our good looking friend the Major.

When the Whigs have to resort to such tricks as the one related above, to secure the friendship of the people, it can be readily understood that they consider their case a desperate one, and that they think nothing but babies will save them. This baby jumper project is an improvement upon the suggestion made by one of their leading men last fall. He proposed that they should employ the Infant Drummer to beat the reveille to wake up the Whigs. His suggestion has been improved, and now the Whig office hunters carry their babies to German festivals, to awake by their shrill cries a feeling of sympathy for their papas.

It is evident from all this that whiggery considers itself on its last legs, and they are now straining every effort to find something to lean against. If our County Committee will only give the party an early opportunity to rally to the support of a good ticket, before the Whigs make a nomination, there is nothing that the Whigs can do to prevent its election. We have the power within ourselves to carry the county, and by holding back, waiting to see what our opponents will do, we are only wasting our strength. What is it to us when they nominate? We have nothing to expect from them, politically, nor have they anything to expect from us. We, in common with the disinterested voters of the party, desire to see our ticket brought into the field at an early day, and if it is a good one we will guarantee its triumphant election.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

We compile the following description of this famous palace from a long article in the Commercial.

It is erected on Reservoir square, at the northern extremity of New York city. The building, with the exception of the floor, is entirely constructed of iron and glass. Its general form is that of a Greek cross, surmounted by a dome at the intersection. Each diameter is 365 feet and five inches long, with three entrances, each 47 feet wide. Each arm of the cross is on the ground 149 feet broad, and divided into three arched passage ways. The central dome is 100 feet in diameter, and rises to the height of 149 feet. Ten large, and eight winding staircases connect the principal floor with the gallery, which opens on three large balconies. The building contains on the ground floor 111,000 square feet of space, and in the galleries 62,000 square feet more, making together 173,000 square feet of space for the purposes of the Exhibition. This makes four acres of space on which to exhibit the specimens of skill and industry of all nations.

The total amount of space on the floor occupied by different countries for exhibition, exclusive of the naves, is about 162,000 square feet, of which 94,102 is on the ground floor, and 59,000 is in the gallery. This space is divided as follows:

England.....	10,750	7,801
Switzerland.....	1,458	2,970
Zollverein.....	6,196	6,053
Holland and Belgium.....	2,916	729
Austria.....	1,458	1,316
Denmark, Sweden and Norway...	2,916
Russia, &c.....	729
British Guiana, and West Indies:	1,093
British Colonies.....	2,369	3,429

The total amount of space occupied by foreign countries is 98,739 square feet.

The United States contribution occupy 94,585 square feet on the ground floor, and 19,045 square feet in the gallery.

The total number of exhibitors from abroad are 2,905, of whom—

England sends.....	677	Italy.....	185
France.....	521	Sweden & Norway..	18
Switzerland.....	114	West Indies.....	3
Zollverein.....	812	Prince Ewd's Island.	18
Holland & Belgium..	155	Nova Scotia.....	2
Austria.....	100

The list will be somewhat larger, from the fact that the local committees of Canada have not yet sent in their list of contributors, and it does not include quite a number from British Guiana. A small number of Turkish and other contributors are also to be added, making the contributors and exhibitors not far from 2,700.

In the U. S. department the number of exhibitors is 1,178, and applications have been received since the 1st of March, amounting to over 400, which have not been acted on for want of space. The total number of exhibitors, both foreign and American is 4883.

For the Morning Post.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I beg leave through your paper to suggest to the democracy throughout the county, the well-known and staunch democrat, JACKSON GRIBBIN, Esq., of the Seventh Ward, as a favorable nominee upon the Senate ticket.

Mr. GRIBBIN'S popularity, if nominated, would give strength to the balance of the ticket. Besides, if elected, which I have no doubt, he would make one of the most energetic and useful representatives the people could have to serve them at Harrisburg. THIRD WARD.

HIGH PRICE FOR TOBACCO.—Mr. D. E. Franklin, of Campbell county, Va., sold last week, to Wm. T. Hocker, Esq., of Lynchburg, two hogsheads of tobacco, one at $110 per cwt., and the other at $225.50 per cwt. Mr. Franklin also sold another hogshead at $49.75, and Mr. John D. Alexander, of the same county, one at $100, and another at $75 per cwt. This tobacco is to be sent to the New York Crystal Palace exhibition.

From the Baltimore Sun.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PRESIDENT.

The greater part of Friday was occupied by the President and his suite in visiting the harbor of New York, in company with the members of the Chamber of Commerce, and a large number of leading merchants. The steamboat Josephine was chartered for the occasion, and the participants in the excursion enjoyed a pleasant trip. A fine collation was given on board, and a number of speeches made.

On Friday night the President attended the grand banquet at the Metropolitan Hotel. About six hundred persons received invitations to partake of the feast, and nearly that number of persons sat down to the tables. Among the guests were, the President's suite, the Sardinian Charge d'Affairs, Sir Chas. Lyell, commissioner from London, Baron Gevolt, Minister from Prussia; Count Sartiges, Minister from France, Maj. General Wool, U. S. A., Colonel Hoover, United States Marshal, of Washington, and W. W. Corcoran, Esq., of Washington.

The banquet was a magnificent affair. Four tables ran the entire length of the room, and every thing was provided on the most liberal scale, and in the most elegant manner. The walls and ceiling were tastefully draped with flags of various nations, while immediately over the seat occupied by the President, the stars and stripes were tastefully festooned.

After the removal of the cloth, the first toast was of "The President of the United States." This was introduced by Mr. Sedgwick. Gen. Pierce replied as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen—In responding to the sentiment you have pronounced, my own thoughts, I confess, dwell upon a circumstance of this mars, and, so far as I know, the only circumstance that does mar the festivities of this joyous occasion. I allude to the illness and absence of Lord Ellesmere. (Applause.) Gratified as we all are that he came, how much has that gratification been enhanced by the fact that he came not alone, but that his family graced and honored the inauguration of your exhibition by their presence. (Applause.) I am sure, I should hardly be excused if I were to fail here to refer to a gentleman who has paid to our country and countrymen many pleasant compliments—more, I have sometimes thought, than were deserved—a gentleman who, if his reputation depended merely upon the cultivation of science, would occupy a proud eminence among its devotees. But his fame rests upon a broader and ampler basis—upon this: that he has himself contributed largely to the amount of useful knowledge. (Applause.)

As an illustration of what this exhibition was likely to do, I was very much impressed by what Sir Charles Lyell himself told me that an eminent inventor and machinist discovered, upon visiting the workshops of Lowell, that while they accomplished in the working of iron in one hour what it takes us five to perform, yet in the cutting of wood the advantages is just as great in favor of our machinery. (Applause.) A striking fact, when it is remembered that the United States and England are now, with the wonderful application of steam, only nine or ten days apart. (Applause.) While we return our grateful acknowledgments to all the governments and nations here represented, do not all hearts unite with me in the expression of the hope that the only rivalry which may ever spring up between them and us shall be the rivalry of earnest, determined, friendly effort to promote the elevation of the race, and peace and good will among nations and men?

The remarks of the President elicited much applause, and, at its conclusion, he was greeted with nine hearty cheers.

Quite a number of toasts were drank, and to most of them responsive speeches were made. Sir Charles Lyell made a speech in reply to a toast complimentary to the foreign commissioners. The baronet was quite witty, and sketched the rumors which had prevailed of the eminent danger of war between this country and Great Britain on divers occasions. He spoke her thought there was but little real danger of such a calamity, and that the present kindly and peaceful relations exist between the two countries.

Secretaries Davis and Guthrie, Gen. Cushing, Theodore Sedgwick, Rev. Dr. Francis, Mr. Faulkner, of Virginia, Ogden Hoffman, Mr. Raymond, of the Times, and a number of others responded to toasts.

The President left the banquet soon after he had got through with his speech. From there he went to the opera at Castle Garden, where there was an audience of 5000 persons. He remained there but a short time, and on his leaving, the whole audience rose to their feet and gave him three cheers.

He was afterwards serenaded at his lodgings by the Democratic Union Club.

The President, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of War, and Attorney General, with a small party of friends, left New York on Saturday morning very soon after 10 o'clock, for Washington, by the New Jersey line. The party went quietly to the ferry, and were saluted by a large party as they left the Astor House and as they went on the ferry boat and entered the cars.—As the President was proceeding to Jersey City, a royal salute of forty-one guns was fired from the British mail steamer Arabia. Salutes were also given by the flags of the steamer.

All of the party expressed themselves highly delighted with their visit to New York, and with the marked attentions which had been bestowed upon them personally and officially. They reached Baltimore at six o'clock on Saturday evening, and at Washington about nine o'clock the same night.

THE WINE STATE.

A correspondent of a New York paper says that the Mesilla valley is already celebrated for its unequalled grapes. This territory is destined to produce wine enough to supply the demand of America and Europe, and not inferior in quality to that of Madeira; if it be attended with care and skill. Even now it produces wine of the best quality, and when properly cured, become the very best raisins in the world. It is from this acquaintance with the Mesilla valley that the United States and the Governor will get the wine that will throw Madeira and Sherry wines, and those of France, completely into the shade. The missionary fathers of the Jesuits in California, in former times, were renowned for the excellence of their wines, which indeed, if we may believe the accounts of travelers, excelled those of any other part of the world.

No wonder the Mexicans are so ready to fight for the possession of that valley. If we have to give it up we must come to the conclusion that those grapes are only "our grapes" after all.

☞ The President and the members of the Cabinet who accompanied him in his late excursion to New York, to witness the inauguration of the Crystal Palace, returned to Washington on Saturday evening.

What Russia Wants.

Emile de Girardin, in the Paris Presse, has a strong article under the above head, in which he says:

"To separate at any price England and France, whose fleets are stationed in concert at Malta and Egina, to sow mistrust between their two governments; to open with them negotiations which may compromise them reciprocally toward each other; to dazzle and seduce England, by holding up to her eyes the prospect of the possession of Egypt, so that she may be independent of America for cotton, and may hold in her own hands the passage of India by the Isthmus of Suez; then, to turn round upon France and whisper to her, 'You see England is ready to betray you, and you cannot seriously reckon upon a just and loyal reciprocity on her part;' to dazzle and seduce France, by holding up to her the prospect of a reward of the stipulations of Tilsit, and a domination over Europe in common with Russia; then to say to England in a whisper, 'You see France is ready to betray you, and you cannot reckon upon any just and loyal reciprocity on her part.' Such is the double game that Russia, at this perilous moment, is playing in the dark at London and Paris. But neither Paris nor London will be caught by the trap. A happy indiscretion has disclosed what Russia wants. She wants to triumph without fighting. She would succeed not by force but cunning. She would replace the Turkish by a Greek empire, as if it were the simplest and most desirable thing in the world, and quietly seat the Grand Duke Constantine upon the two united thrones of Abdul-Medjid and King Otho. But Russia would like this substitution to be effected peaceably, diplomatically, without lighting up in Europe the flame of a war which might transform itself into a revolution of all the oppressed peoples against their oppressive governments. This it is that Russia dreads above all things. This is what may yet paralyze her. Then she bends all her strength to enter—not with the axe, but with the wedge, between England and France; in order, by separating them, to hinder that liberal alliance which would place them at the head of Italy, Switzerland, and Spain. To unveil this design, the secret of which has escaped from one of its depositories, should suffice to insure its failure. England and France are warned."

☞ The Manchester Democratic Union says: "Long before Gen. Pierce's inauguration, he must have been aware that an ordeal of labor, responsibility and danger was before him, in the dispensation of the patronage of his position.—He met it bravely and sternly, and we congratulate him, the party, and the country, that he has safely passed it safely. Nearly all the appointments of general interest are made; and the general approval with which they are received justifies the deliberation with which they were considered, and vindicates the prudence and wisdom of the choice, under difficulties, unusual both in number and magnitude."

Consular Appointments.

We find in the Washington Evening Star, the annexed list of Consuls recently appointed or determined on by the President:

Lima—J. Caleb Smith, of California.
Pernambuco—Wm. Lilley, of Ohio.
St. Johns, (Porto Rico)—John Parsons, of Florida.
Matanzas—Edward Worrell, of Delaware.
Marseilles—Samuel Dinsmore, of New Hampshire.
Glasgow—Philip T. Heartt, of New York.
Genoa—R. Felix Foresti, of New York.
Elsineur—F. B. Wells, of New York.
Leith—James McDowell, of Ohio.
Turk's Island—John L. Nelson, of Maryland.
Nennhein—John Scherff, of Maryland.
Babia—John R. Bennett, of Missouri.
St. Jago de Cuba—Stephen Cochran, of Pennsylvania.
Sumatra—Commercial Agent, Robert R. Purvis, of Sumatra.

THE SHEEP TRADE ACROSS THE PLAINS.—F. X. Aubroy, the well known Western trader, left Santa Fe sometime during last December, with a flock of sheep of near 6000, and a number of mule teams. He traveled down to the Rio Grande mule teams. He traveled down to the Rio Grande some distance—went around through the State of Sonora—crossed the Colorado at the mouth of the Gila—and lost about 25 sheep and one mule, and that mule was shot by the Indians for food. Notwithstanding the winter through which he had to pass, he landed in California about the 16th ult., with some 5500 head of sheep, and ten mule teams—all fat and fine, and ready for market—after having sold 1000 old and lame sheep for $8000, and about $3000 worth of small, broken down mules, which he sold to the Mormons as he passed through their lower settlements.

AN OUTRAGE.—We copy the article below from the Louisville Courier of Thursday. If the circumstances stated as facts really occurred, the officers of McFaden deserve the severest censure of the public, and we hope will receive it. No person should patronize the boat, either by travelling on it, or by shipping on it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"We learn that during the last trip of the John McFaden from St. Louis, that the cook of the boat, with some provocation, seized a boy about 12 or 13 years of age, and threw him overboard. The little fellow managed to swim ashore and get on board with the wine that will throw Maddira and Sherry wines, and those of France, completely into the shade. The missionary fathers of the Jesuits in California, in former times were renowned for the excellence of their wines, which indeed, if we may believe the accounts of travelers, excelled those of any other part of the world.

LET THE BLOOMERS ALONE, WILL YE?—A young lady, a Bloomer, recently married at Orisheny, N. Y., was "horsed" by some of the village rowdies. She fired a gun over their heads, and they ran away. Being taunted by some of the villagers with the fact, they resolved to try it over. This they did the next night, and challenged the girl to shoot again, calling her a liar, &c. On this, the young woman fired once more above them; but they laughed her to scorn, and at last, goaded to indignation, she rent a charge of shot rattling about their brainless pates, and wounded and limping, howling and cursing, they retreated in confusion.

THE BLACK WARRIOR.—This is the name of the old war horse which the President rode on Thursday at the review of the military on the Battery.

He is upwards of 21 years of age, and is owned by Maj. Merrill, of the U. S. Dragoons. The Black Warrior participated in the Florida war, where he received two wounds, and is the only survivor of the battle with the Indians. The President also rode this favorite horse in the Mexican war.

UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION IN PARIS.—Official information has been received at the State department in Washington, that goods the importation of which is prohibited in France, will not only be admitted at the Universal Exhibition which is to be opened in Paris in 1855, but after the exhibition they may, at the option of the exhibitors, be either re-exported free of all duties, or delivered for interior consumption by paying a duty of thirty per cent. on the value.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

HAVING had twenty years experience as a practical optician, in connection with my watch and jewelry business, I presume I am to have an ample knowledge of the science of optics as Solomon, (I mean the London Jew,) whom ill-tempered and slanderous remarks in your paper of this morning's issue show that his pretensions to the knowledge of optics are as baseless as his novel claim to a "New Discovery for the Eyes" is false. There is but one principle in the science of optics, as it relates to spectacle lenses, since the days of Newton, and but one method of grinding convex glasses. I have the best ground and polished lenses made in Europe, and of equal quality with any sold by Solomon, and sell the same at 37½ per pair, which my customers have been paying this London Adventurer $5.00 for. Testimonials of these statements, I am willing to refer a competent portion of our respective glasses to Drs. Addison, Speer, and Snyder, (with whom I have had no conversion on the subject,) or to Drs. McCook, King, and Garnam, who have already recommended Mr. S.'s glasses; "a discerning public" can then decide.

☞ Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge.—During a practice of more than twenty years, Dr. M'Lane had attended innumerable patients afflicted with every form of worm disease, and was induced to apply all the energies of his mind to the discovery of a vermifuge, or worm destroyer, certain in its effects; the result of his labors is the American Worm Specific, now before the public, which is perfectly safe, and may be given alike to children of the most tender age, or to the aged adult; it purges mildly and subdues fever, and destroys worms with invariable success. It is easy of administration, and as it does not contain mercury in any form whatever, no restrictions are necessary with regard to drinking cold water, nor is it capable of doing the least injury to the tenderest infant. An inevitable number of worms have been expelled by this great vermifuge.

Purchasers will please be careful to ask for Dr. M'Lane's celebrated Vermifuge, and take none else. All other Vermifuges, in comparison, are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable Drug Stores in the United States, and from the sole proprietors, FLEMING BROS.,
Successors to J. Kidd & Co.,

☞ More Home Testimony.—Mr. SOLOMON Sir—I think it no more than an act of justice to you, as well as to the American community, to state that the SPECTACLES I bought from you still continue to give me as much improvement as when I first purchased them, and I can truthfully say that they have been a blessing to my eyes. Should my sight become impaired by the use of them, I have no doubt of continuing to improve by the use of them. I have no doubt but I shall be able to read without them in a short time.

Yours, truly, T. MOUNDER.

Allegheny City, June 25, 1853.

☞ I have used Mr. Solomon's EYE GLASSES for a very brief period, with decided advantage, and have no hesitation in stating that a defective vision of long standing has been relieved, and the organs seem to be strengthened by their use. I therefore cheerfully bear witness to their extraordinary efficiency, as also to Mr. Solomon's skill as a practical Optician, and the wonderful facility with which he adapts his Glasses to the various peculiarities of vision.

SPECTACLES.

WITHIN many are attracted by the novel advertisements of the London visitor, we continue to sell the SAME QUALITY OF GLASSES which he does, but from 3 to 500 per cent. CHEAPER. His: Glasses he sells at $2 per pair, we put in for 37½; Steel Frames he sells at $2.50, we sell at $1.00. Better patronize home enterprise, and save money.

FINE WATCHES, JEWELRY and SILVER WARE, well selected, and in large variety, of the latest styles and best workmanship.

WATCH REPAIRING done in the best manner, at the old established house of W. WILSON, jy18 Of Market st., corner of 4th.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.—An advertisement appeared in the morning papers of the 18th inst., headed "Spectacles," in which the advertiser states that he has the "same quality of glasses" as those sold by Mr. SOLOMONS, and which he sells at 500 per cent. cheaper. Mr. S. denies the unblushing falsehood, knowing that there is NO OTHER PROPRIETOR of the improved glasses, he being the PATENTEE and sole VENDER. Mr. S. is not the only victim of this selfish, would-be monopolist, as the same individual, some months ago, villified a respectable tradesman, who came to Pittsburgh to engage in the same business as himself. Mr. S. would be perfectly acquainted with his own business. Mr. S. leaves the matter to a discerning public to judge for itself, and whatever this individual may say hereafter, Mr. S. will make no reply to it, as he considers him beneath contempt
