REVOLUTIONARY TALE. "There was a sound of revelry by night."

The moon was shining brightly upon the pol ished musket and gorgeous equipments of a sen-tinel in the scarlet uniform of the Buffs-the crack regiment of the day-as he traversed his round at the garden gate of Greenwich st., behind the residence of Sir Henry Clinton, the commander-in-chief of the British forces in America. His stalwart figure and high grenadier cap made his shadow appear gigantic beneath the rays of our full and glorious orb-the Western moon. Occasionally he would pause as if listen ing to the rich music which ever and anon swelled forth from the residence of Sir Henry, and his thoughts tarned upon the youth and beauty mingling in the dance within. Once or twice he
