Friday, January 20, 1854. rising this morning. The Clara Phher has made one trip Friday, January 29, 1864.

Since the date of our last weekly notice we have had a general thaw, followed with a general breaking up of our rivers, and we now enjoy uninterrupted navigation on our rivers. Business since Monday has been quite active, particularly in the shipping department. In our markets we find no important change to note, except in Fiour and Clover Seed.

The news received by the European Monday evening, of the widews of country of the excited state of the European breakfull market caused flour to advance from $6, 6,25@4,50, and has roled firm since then at this advance. In Clover seed there has been fullowing European Grain Circular, we copy from the London Mark Lone Gazette, which we commend to our readers, which we commend to our readers, which will prove more satisfactory than any speculation of our own with regard to the grain prospect: THIRTY-THIRD CONGRESS. England will, at all events, encounter great difficulties in England will, at all events, encounter great difficulties in England will, at all events, encounter great difficulties in looking over the list of sbipments from Olessa for the last three months, it is really astonishing to see how small a portion of vessels, cleared out from thence with grain cargos, have been for the United Kingdom. The great bulk has gone to Marseilles, without producing any marked or atting impressions on the prices there. And it would appear from the best sources of information within our reach, that the South of France will need to import on quite as large a scale as bitherto, up to the time of next larvest. We must therefore be prepared to expect a great dol of the falling off in the supplies from America.
