Part 4th. Airs arranged as Quartetts.
This work contains most of Mr. Foster's popular melodics, as well as the most popular airs of the day, by other composers, comprising in all upwards of minety of the most desirable pieces of mulaic. The accompanying parts in the Trics and Quartetts are intended for Violia and Violincello, but can, in the absence of those instruments, be performed with good effect on the Plano or Melodeon. Altogether, this is decidedly the most complete work of the kind ever published, and should be possessed by every family and by all interested in easy and plessing instrumental music.
