PITTSBURGH:

SATURDAY MORNING:.....FEBRUARY 25.

☞ READING MATTER WILL BE FOUND ON EACH PAGE OF THIS PAPER.

THE SATURDAY MORNING POST,

Which is now printed, contains a large amount of highly interesting matter. Mr. DAWSON'S great speech on the Homestead Bill; the Gadsen Treaty, accompanied by a message from the President; proceedings of a meeting of the friends of Washington College; highly interesting foreign news; congressional and legislative news; a detailed and accurate market report; proceedings of the Democratic Convention; Telegraphic news; editorials; miscellaneous selections, &c., &c. For sale at the counter, price five cents.

THE AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT.

The Austrian government is negotiating for the sale of the railroad property belonging to the State. It is valued at 203,000,000 florins. Mr. Francis Joseph had better sell out as fast as possible. If that almost universal war begins in earnest, it is doubtful whether he can long retain his throne. To maintain a neutrality will be impossible. If he takes part with Russia, England and France will incite the Hungarians to revolt, and afford them aid. If he joins England and France, Russia will probably do the same. Either way he is in danger; and his best course is undoubtedly to sell out as fast as possible, and get means to feed and pay his armies to dragoon his people into obedience for a time, and then be prepared to run. As to ever paying the government debts of Austria, that is simply and utterly impossible. Every year increases the debt; and in his ill-timed quarrel with the Jews of late, Austrian bonds were so utterly discredited, that the Emperor of Russia alone would lend money on them. The late refusal to aid the schemes of Russia, cuts off that source of supply for the future. The railroads must be sold; and the money will soon be used up in keeping the Italians and Hungarians in subjection. What then? Where will the next supply come from? The crown lands and crown jewels might produce a little more. But that would be wanted to run away with. Sell the railroads, Francis Joseph; and prepare to quit. The lease of your despotic and blood-stained throne is running out. Sell the railroads, by all means. The capitalists will buy them now at some price. Wait a few years longer, and the people will have them without price.

That Austrian government is utterly insolvent, and without credit. Its last friend, the Czar, is lost, if Austria does not take part with Russia in the coming conflict. And woe to Francis Joseph if he does that. He is certainly in a desperate condition. Peril on either hand; treason beneath and all around; insolvency open and acknowledged; the Jewish bankers stopping the supplies; Kossuth invited to Turkey, and the Hungarians waiting his coming. The railroads must be sold; that is a clear case. But they will not bring over 100,000,000 florins; and that will go but a little way to support the armies necessary to keep the people in slavery; and pay the Haynaus for whipping and butchering the women. And when that fund runs out, what then? "Alas, poor Yorick!" The way of the perjurer and transgressor is hard.

But the people, the long-suffering millions of Austria, Hungary, and Italy,—the day of their deliverance, we hope, draws nigh.

A quarter of a century ago, Austria was one of the great powers of Europe; and her preservation was deemed necessary to that "balance of powers" by which the peace of Europe and the security of despots were to be maintained. Now Austria can hardly be considered an independent power on earth. Insolvent in her finances; her own armies unable to subdue revolted Hungary without the aid of Russia; the glory and pride of the Austrian despot has passed away. Yet the Austrian people are intelligent, industrious; skilled in manufactures; and the Austrians makes excellent soldiers. Nothing is wanted to make Austria again a great nation, but a constitutional, liberal, free and popular government. Let the railroads be sold, then; and let the faithless and ruthless despotism be starved out. A nation of freemen will rise in its place, happy, prosperous and powerful; that would check further aggressions westward of Russian barbarism.

THE CONNELSVILLE RAILROAD.

All doubts as to the determination of the company to build this road are now at an end. It will be seen by an advertisement in another column, that the work is to be let to contractors on that part of the road between West Newton and Connelsville, a distance of about twenty-five miles. The directors have resolved to commence work at West Newton, to which place a slack-water navigation extends from Pittsburgh. We are informed that nearly enough stock is already subscribed to complete the entire road, and it is the intention of the company to drive forward the work with all diligence. Pittsburgh may expect to be soon brought within about eleven hours distance of Baltimore, and within about twelve hours of Washington City.

We consider this road of great importance to the interests of our city, and of the south-western portion of our State. The readiness with which the stock has been subscribed, shows the confidence of the public in it as a paying improvement, when completed. Of that there is no doubt. The undeveloped wealth of the region through which it runs will make its local trade a source of good dividends. It is, besides, the most direct route, in connection with other roads, between Baltimore, the north-western States and the Lakes. We are rejoiced to learn that the work is now to be commenced in good earnest, after so many and long delays.

DR. M'CLINTOCK.

The Morning Post of Thursday, attempts a defence of the Democratic Senator from this District, and closes its article thus.

"The Journal says Dr. M'Clintock has voted for the extension and perpetuation of slavery. He has done no such thing."

We say that he has done exactly that and nothing else.—Commercial Journal.

We deny it; and dare, defy and challenge the Journal to the proof. He who asserts, not he who denies, must prove. The Journal asserts; and on it rests the burden of proof.

But the facts are simply these: Resolutions were introduced into the Senate, instructing our Congressional delegation to vote against the Nebraska bill. Mr. Piatt, of Bradford] county, moved that the consideration of the resolutions be postponed till the 15th March. A meeting of his constituents was to be held in the meantime to consider the matter, and he wished to hear from them before voting. The motion to postpone was agreed to; Dr. M'Clintock voting in the affirmative. This is the true state of the case, from the Record; and out of this the Journal makes the charge that the Doctor has voted for the "extension and perpetuation of slavery!!!" Oh, fie!

CONGRESSIONAL.

The debate on the Homestead Bill in the House of Representatives at Washington, has become quite animated. The members from Pennsylvania seem to take an active part in favor of the bill. Mr. Grow is said to have delivered a powerful speech in its favor. Mr. Dent, of Georgia, and Mr. Smith, of Virginia, spoke against it; and Mr. Gerrit Smith, of New York, made a speech against all land monopolies. Mr. Dawson made another speech in favor of the bill, which closed one day's work in the House.

Mr. Sumner delivered a speech in the Senate against the Nebraska bill.

News and Facts from all Quarters.

The Caloric ship Ericsson made a trial trip last week. The Courir and Enquirer says that when passing down the North River she appeared to move at about the rate of four or five miles through the water.

Benton's Thirty Years in the Senate.

We were called on yesterday by Mr. M'Ginnis, who has the agency for the sale of the above work in Allegheny and Washington counties, and informed that he will commence immediately canvassing for subscribers in this county. This work has been frequently noticed by almost every press in the country, and the people have seemed to wait impatiently for the appearance of the volumes. We saw it stated, not long since, that over 30,000 copies had been subscribed for; and there is no doubt that it will be one of the most valuable and popular works that has issued from the American press for many years. The great and distinguished ability of the writer, his indefatigable industry, his intimate acquaintance with all the principal characters and events of the times of which he writes, must insure for the volumes a vast sale, and an eager and general perusal. We do not know how the pen and time of the veteran statesman could have been more profitably employed, for the last few years, than in giving to the world just such a work. For upwards of thirty years Mr. Benton was a member of the United States Senate; and all know that, for a great portion of that time, he was considered one of its ablest members; and ranked alongside such men as Calhoun, Clay, Cass, Webster, Buchanan and other illustrious statesmen of that thirty years of which Mr. Benton writes. With such advantages, and such ability, this work can hardly fail to be one of the most interesting in our language. "No library will be complete without it."

It will be in two large and handsome volumes. For sale to subscribers at $5. It is published by Appleton & Co., New York; and will be ready for delivery during this month or April next.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.—The Democratic Convention met on Monday last, and instructed their delegates to support William Bigler for Governor, Jeremiah S. Black for Judge, and L. Sherwood for Canal Commissioner.

The Convention also passed resolutions in favor of an alteration in the delegate system.

Col. John Jackman and Col. Matthew Linn are appointed delegates to the State Convention.

LEGISLATURE.

Mr. Bigham has introduced into the House, some pretty strong anti-Nebraska resolutions.

Dr. M'Clintock has introduced in the Senate a bill to provide for a vote of the people on the question of a prohibitory liquor law.

CHANGE OF PLACE.—The Kunkel Troupe will perform this evening at the Athenæum instead of Masonic Hall. They are all in town; and the public will find their music and acting as attractive as ever.

☞ We take the following from the Washington Commonwealth, in relation to our neighbor, Dr. Keyser. It is the truth, and we republish it as an evidence of what can be done by industry, enterprise and advertising.

Fortunes Made by Advertising.

That sterling paper, the Pittsburgh Gazette, published an article lately under the above caption, in reference to Dr. George H. Keyser, of that city, stating that the Doctor had built up a fine business, solely by advertising and advising others to take the hint. Dr. K. is certainly a great advertiser, and a friend of the press, but no less his own friend, in the patronage he bestows on the craft to which we have the honor to belong; for, while he does so, he not only draws attention to his store, which is well supplied with the first quality of articles in his line of business, but spreads far and wide the reputation of the different articles he has for sale.

Dr. Keyser owes his success probably to no one thing, not even advertising; for while we know he has done much in that way—yet there is in the Doctor a great degree of the elements which are calculated to win a man success in business, whatever it may be.

In the first place, he is thorough master of his business, having devoted, we are informed, some twenty years of his life to it—besides having been engaged in a reputable practice, in one of the interior counties of our State for over four years. He is further a working man.

Go into his store when you will, you will find him actively employed, working like a mole in the various branches of his business, and we are pleased to learn he has done so to some purpose. There is a branch of his business, however, to which we call the particular attention of our readers—the Trusses, Shoulder Braces and Supporters. He has given this matter some study, and we are informed his success in this respect has been very great. If any of our readers visit Pittsburgh, we advise them to call at his store, No. 140 Wood street, and they will be amply compensated for their trouble.

TEMPERANCE BILL.—On Monday last, Dr. M'Clintock, of Allegheny county, in Senate, offered in place, and read an act relating to the perplexing question of a prohibitory liquor law. The act purposes to have a special election at an early day, to ascertain the will of the people, whether the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited within this commonwealth. The proposition is reasonable, because an appeal is made directly to the sovereign power, the only legitimate foundation upon which may stand measures of doubtful expediency. We readily admit that minorities, in a republic, may be seriously oppressed, and that at times of high political excitement, legislation may run mad, but in view of constitutional rights, if errors for a time prevail, "the sober second thoughts of the people" will always be a catholican for hasty legislation; nor is danger to "inherent rights" to be apprehended where freemen are jealous of the inestimable blessings of political liberty. Still, we hold that on this question, as well as on all others of general concern, the better way is to refer the subject to the people themselves; and we think that in this instance the Doctor has conceived, very happily, the appropriate tribunal for the decision of a prohibitory liquor law.

MISSED A DAY.—The Danube (Mass.) Times mentions an amusing incident which occurred in that town last week. A worthy farmer got the impression that Friday was Saturday—and at evening put up his stock preparatory to the duties of the Sabbath. His Sunday was unusually disturbed by the running of trains on the Danbury railroad; much to his surprise, but concluding that there was some very especial reason for it, magnanimously concluded to overlook the desecration. On Sunday morning he started for Bethel with a load of wood, and was impressed with an unusual movement of people along the road, but knowing that he had kept every kind of Supporters, Lady Bracer, Suspensory Bandages, Elastic Stockings, for enlarged veins, and all kinds of away by gipsies—sold to pirate captain—heaven sent young man—preserved falls on her knees —young man embraces her—sailors get drunk —marriage at sea—life on the ocean wave —ship in port—young man promoted—land of liberty—Yankee Doodle! FINIS.

JUDGE MASON'S ADDRESS.—In a French paper, we find the address of Mr. Mason, of Virginia, the United States Minister to the Court of France, on the occasion of presenting his credentials to the Emperor. As the following is translated from the French version, it may not be in the exact words used by Mr. Mason:

"Sire:—I have the honor to present a letter addressed to your Imperial Majesty, by the President of the United States, accrediting me to the capacity of envoy extraordinary, and minister plenipotentiary of my country, residing near your imperial court.

"I embrace this occasion to assure your majesty of the friendship of the United States, and also of the wishes which they form for your welfare. I will add, that my instructions desire me constantly to give my attention to maintain and to develop the interest and prosperity of both nations.

"I am happy to fulfil this duty in common with the government and people of the United States. I can never forget that France was the active ally and friend of my country at the period of its weakness, and it was from France that the United States acquired by an honorable treaty the State of Louisiana, at the mouth of the Mississippi.

"We see with admiration the extraordinary actual prosperity of France. In contributing by my official conduct to draw closer a cordial good will, and to cement our social and commercial relations with this country, I shall find a saving of the views of the President, I shall esteem myself happy if I can aid in consolidating the bonds of reciprocal interest and durable peace which so happily exist between the two countries."

WHEN GROG MAY BE TAKEN MEDICINALLY.—[As soon as the Law for Prohibition of the Sale of Liquor comes into operation.]

Grog may be taken Medicinally—

After goose, on Michaelmas day—

Or any delicacy of the season, into which onions may have seasonably entered.

Invariably after salmon.

When there is any washing being done at home.

When the painters are in the house.

When a person feels faint, and doesn't know what is the matter with him.

When a friend turns up after an absence of several years, or when you are parting with a friend you do not expect to see for several years.

When a person has the toothach.

When a person has lost at cards, or when a person has come into a large property.

When a person has met with a great misfortune, or made a tremendous bargain.

When a person has quarrelled, and when a reconciliation has taken place.

When a person is riding outside a stage coach, or is on a sea voyage, or goes out between the acts of a five act tragedy, or before ascending in a balloon, or after coming off the jury of a coroner's inquest, or when you are sitting for your wife, or when a friend drops in to smoke a cigar; and, in fact, upon all suitable occasions of sadness or merriment, when a person feels rather low, or very high in spirits.—Punch.

COUNT BOULBON AND THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT.—The Mexican papers publish the correspondence of the Count Raousset de Boulbon with a Mr. Salar, of San Francisco, in which the whole scheme for a revolution is laid down and argued. It is dated, however, as far back as October 27. The Count declares himself ready to exert himself as much as possible to overthrow the existing order of things in Mexico, and that the time for action had come. The chief features of the scheme are the engaging of D. F. de la Vega, of Sinaloa, to lead the revolution, and the organizing of some 1,000 or 1,500 Frenchmen in California, who are to invade the territory in support of a pronunciamento proclaiming the restoration of the federal system and the sovereignty of the States. The ambition of La Vega, and the vengeance he is said to have to gratify in consequence of his treatment by Santa Anna on a former occasion, the Count holds up as sure to be found sufficient to induce him to take part in the movement. The population of Sinaloa, Sonora, Chihuahua, Guadalajara and Durango were the points to be acted on; and the population was said to be sure to rise in support of the movement. Men, arms, money and vessels are represented as being ready and abundant command.—Balt. Sun.

Death from a Rupture.

☞ There are thousands of persons who are afflicted with a Rupture of the Bowels, who pay but little attention to the disease until the bowels become strangulated, when in all probability it may be too late. How important it is, then, for all those suffering with any form of a Rupture of the Bowels," to call at once upon DR. KEYSER, at his Wholesale and Retail Drug Store, corner of Wood street and Virgin alley, and procure a TRUSS, to retain the protruding portion of the bowels. Dr. KEYSER has an office back of his Drug Store, where Trusses are adapted, and warranted to give satisfaction. He also has every variety of Trusses that you can name, and at any price, to suit the means of every one in need of the article. I also keep every kind of Supporters, Lady Bracer, Suspensory Bandages, Elastic Stockings, for enlarged veins, and all kinds of mechanical appliances used in the cure of disease.

I would respectfully invite the attention of the public to an excellent TRUSS FOR CHILDREN, which invariably effects cures in a very short time.

☞ Prof. Morse's Invigorating Elixir or Cordial—One of the recommendations of this great vegetable exhilarant is, that it strengthens for long intervals the very main-springs of life. The Arabs, as Dr Morse has assured us in his interesting travels, use a certain herb, included in its ingredients, as a means of prolonging life; and it is well known that those wanderers of the desert live to a most advanced age than any other people. A venerable Sheik of the Bedouin tribe, not long since, cautioned to chew the leaves of the plant as we use tobacco, informed Dr. M. that he had never known a week's illness, and that he was 106 years of age! There is no manner of doubt that the Invigorating Elixir or Cordial gives a permanent vigor to the whole organization, and certain Materials to it which the stomach they form for your welfare. I will add, that my instructions desire me constantly to give my attention to maintain and to develop the interest and prosperity of both nations.

"I am happy to fulfil this duty in common with the government and people of the United States. I can never forget that France was the active ally and friend of my country at the period of its weakness, and it was from France that the United States acquired by an honorable treaty the State of Louisiana, at the mouth of the Mississippi.

"We see with admiration the extraordinary actual prosperity of France. In contributing by my official conduct to draw closer a cordial good will, and to cement our social and commercial relations with this country, I shall find a saving of the views of the President, I shall esteem myself happy if I can aid in consolidating the bonds of reciprocal interest and durable peace which so happily exist between the two countries."

WHEN GROG MAY BE TAKEN MEDICINALLY.—[As soon as the Law for Prohibition of the Sale of Liquor comes into operation.]

Grog may be taken Medicinally—

After goose, on Michaelmas day—

Or any delicacy of the season, into which onions may have seasonably entered.

Invariably after salmon.

When there is any washing being done at home.

When the painters are in the house.

When a person feels faint, and doesn't know what is the matter with him.

When a friend turns up after an absence of several years, or when you are parting with a friend you do not expect to see for several years.

When a person has the toothach.

When a person has lost at cards, or when a person has come into a large property.

When a person has met with a great misfortune, or made a tremendous bargain.

When a person has quarrelled, and when a reconciliation has taken place.

When a person is riding outside a stage coach, or is on a sea voyage, or goes out between the acts of a five act tragedy, or before ascending in a balloon, or after coming off the jury of a coroner's inquest, or when you are sitting for your wife, or when a friend drops in to smoke a cigar; and, in fact, upon all suitable occasions of sadness or merriment, when a person feels rather low, or very high in spirits.—Punch.

COUNT BOULBON AND THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT.—The Mexican papers publish the correspondence of the Count Raousset de Boulbon with a Mr. Salar, of San Francisco, in which the whole scheme for a revolution is laid down and argued. It is dated, however, as far back as October 27. The Count declares himself ready to exert himself as much as possible to overthrow the existing order of things in Mexico, and that the time for action had come. The chief features of the scheme are the engaging of D. F. de la Vega, of Sinaloa, to lead the revolution, and the organizing of some 1,000 or 1,500 Frenchmen in California, who are to invade the territory in support of a pronunciamento proclaiming the restoration of the federal system and the sovereignty of the States. The ambition of La Vega, and the vengeance he is said to have to gratify in consequence of his treatment by Santa Anna on a former occasion, the Count holds up as sure to be found sufficient to induce him to take part in the movement. The population of Sinaloa, Sonora, Chihuahua, Guadalajara and Durango were the points to be acted on; and the population was said to be sure to rise in support of the movement. Men, arms, money and vessels are represented as being ready and abundant command.—Balt. Sun.

EDUCATION IN TURKEY.—On the authority of a recent English work, we find that since 1846, a law of the Turkish Empire requires every citizen, as soon as his children have reached their sixth year, to inscribe their names in the books of one of the public schools, unless he can prove his ability to educate them at home. At Constantinople it is reported that there are now 800 free schools, frequented by 22,700 children of both sexes. There are also six secondary schools, with about 1000 pupils. In order to gain an entrance into these, five years must have been spent in the free schools. There is also a high school for young men who are intended for public employments, a college for the same object, a normal school for the education of professors, an imperial college of medicine, a naval and an agricultural school. Of these schools the Sultan is superintendent, and he attends their examinations. The public libraries of Constantinople contain 80,000 volumes.

"Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy—
For the apparel oft proclaims the man."

☞ Every well dressed man knows how difficult it is to find a Tailor who thoroughly understands the peculiarities of each figure, and can suit his requirements with a well cut, gentlemanly fitting garment. Hence it is that so few feel "at home" during the first day's wear of any new article of dress, and however costly, never become adapted to their forms. To remedy so manifest a deformity, E. GRIBBLE has practically studied both form and fashion, always adapting the garment, weather, coat, vest, or pantaloons, to the exigencies of its wearer—thoroughly attaining that elegance of fit which the spirit of the age dictates.
