DAILY MORNING POST.
WEDNESDAY MORNING.....MARCH 16.

HOPEFULNESS AND HEALTH.—The influence of hope in the treatment of error and physical health has never received sufficient attention from the physicians or metaphysicians. There is no emotion more conducive to success and happiness in life, and none whose effects are more favorable to longevity. Dr. Alcott makes the following sound philosophical remarks on the influence of hope, from which we may infer the importance of cultivating its organ in the brain:

Hope, moderately indulged, communicates a mild but delightful sensation to the whole region of the heart, and elevates and strengthens both mind and body. What we call vital, or nervous, energy is, by its influence, diffused equally, or nearly so, through every part of the system. The result is a state of things approximating more nearly to what is usually called perfect health, than anything known. It preserves the mind from violent emotions, agitations, or depressions, and enables us to exercise its noblest power with a tranquil vigor. It tends to keep the body in a regular and proper discharge of its varied functions, without the sensation of difficulty or embarrassment. "In these circumstances," says Dr. Cogan, in his excellent "Treatise on the Passions," "respiration is free and easy, neither requiring conscious exertion, nor even a thought. The action of the heart and arteries, with consequent circulation of the blood, is regular and placid, neither too rapid nor too indolent; neither labored or oppressed. Perspiration is neither deficient nor too excessive. Alimenta are sought with a proper appetite, enjoyed with a high relish, and digested with ease and facility. Every secretion and excretion is properly performed. The body is free from pain, dullness, oppression, and every species of uneasiness, and a certain vivacity and vigor, not to be described, reign throughout the system."

DE QUINCY'S
Improved Non-Explosive Camphene Lamps.

HAVING PURCHASED THE right for the above LAMP in the counties of ALLEGHENY, BRAXTON, WASHINGTON, FAYETTE, and GREENE, we are prepared to furnish Lamps, or sell rights for a reasonable price. These Lamps are constructed on the principle of the Argand, and the public may rest satisfied that they may be used with entire safety. They also give more brilliant light, and the materials used being cheaper than the Sperm Oil of any kind, they must come into general use. We also have LANTERNS and CANS on the same explosive principle.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

This is to certify that we have seen, examined and tried, De Quincy's Improved Non-Explosive Camphene Lamp, patented January 6th, 1852, and are fully satisfied that it is a very valuable improvement, and will be found far preferable to any other Lamp in use. We believe the safety it is perfectly reliable, and therefore does it richly deserving the attention of all such as have occasion to use Lamps of any kind.

NEW PATENT ANGLE SAW.—This important invention removes the two great obstacles to the use of Steel Saws, viz: their rigidity, and their rapid destruction by the sand and grit in the log. It is ingeniously examining the quill pen in the act of writing, it will be seen that the action is compound, consisting, first, of a gentle yielding backward action immediately after the point is pressed upon the paper, and, the "balance" action, or spreading open of the points to receive the ink for the next movement—which steel pens hitherto never have had—and, lastly, the elastic reaction, or closing again of the points, which all together gives that peculiar springy play which is so much admired in the best quill pens, and which seems to suit the action of the muscles of the fingers; yielding, as it does, to the slightest pressure, without cramping the hand. The effects of all these movements have been, first, to add greatly to the ease and rapidity of writability, and by that to the attainment of this essential quality in a degree which has never before been reached in any metallic variety of quills and pointings to attain it. The invention of the pen is of very recent date, and, from a series of experiments, that the whole principle is destined to, in this respect, be even more perfect than the quill itself, and, by the "process" adopted in the manufacture of these pens, they can be furnished at such a price as to bring them within the reach of all.
