Daily Morning Post.

GEORGE V. GILLMORE.....THOMAS PHILLIPS.

Gillmore & Phillips, Editors & Proprietors.

PITTSBURGH:

SATURDAY MORNING.....MARCH 18

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR,

WILLIAM BIGLER.

FOR JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT,

JEREMIAH S. BLACK,

OF SOMERSET COUNTY.

FOR CANAL COMMISSIONER,

HENRY S. MOTT,

OF WAYNE COUNTY.

JOB PRINTING.

We have one of the best Job Printing Offices in the city, and we would respectfully ask merchants and all others who want Cards, Circulars, Bills of Lading, Bill Heads, Blank Checks, Handbills, etc., to give us a call. All our Job Type are of the most modern manufacture and cannot fail to please all our customers. Our workmen are perfect masters of their business, and will labor assiduously to please all who will favor us with an order.

THE SATURDAY MORNING POST.

Now for sale at the counter, is filled, as usual, with a great variety of interesting matter. The foreign and domestic news is of great importance, and will be perused with pleasure by every reader. Our editorial, local, commercial and financial columns are filled with matters of much interest, and cannot fail to be attractive.

RENTS IN NEW YORK.—Here is an example—one among a thousand—which indicates the rate of increase in the price of rents in New York, during the last seven years.

In 1846, Fowler & Wells's Phrenological Cabinet, in the Clinton Hall block of the Park, in an establishment they occupy, rented for $300 per annum. In each of the three following years the rent was raised $100, and in 1849 it was raised $200, which brought it up to $600. In 1850 it was raised to $1200, in 1851 to $1500, in 1852 to $2000. Finally, in 1854 this same establishment, which eight years ago rented for this $300, now rents for $2500.

Rents can not be expected to advance in the same ratio in Pittsburgh for the next seven years, because an establishment like the publishing office of Fowler and Wells would rent here now for $2000 per annum. We can congratulate ourselves for rents, at least, our city is but little behind New York.—Cincinnati Columbian.

And we can tell you how that process of raising rents in New York is managed by the landlords. They will give only short leases. A young man with a small capital rents a store for a year or two, and commences business. By industry and great exertions he secures a good run of custom, and by the end of the second year, when his lease expires, he has built up a profitable business, which would be greatly damaged by a removal. He must get his lease renewed and remain. The landlord understands his case. He adds $200 to the rent, and will renew the lease for but one year. It must be submitted to, for a removal would be worse than the increase of rent. By additional exertions the tenant meets the increased expense, and his business prospers. At the end of the next year he finds himself in the same predicament. He would suffer by a removal; the lease must be renewed, and three hundred more added. And so it goes on from year to year, as in the case mentioned in the above extract, until from $300 the rent becomes $2500. The landlord thus pockets the best part of the profits of his tenant's industry and exertions. The actual annual value of the tenement is by no means $2500; but the business built up in it would be more damaged by removal, than by the landlord's well devised system of extortion. So the rents go up, and the newspapers brag of it as an evidence of the increasing prosperity and greatness of Gotham.

The Whig Nomination—The Gazette.

The Gazette of yesterday laments the defeat of Gen. Larimer in the Whig Convention, and predicts only a moderate amount of Whig enthusiasm, during the coming campaign, in the western counties of the State. We doubt whether a much different result would have attended the nomination of Gen. Larimer. He could not possibly have been elected, and his nomination would have cost him much time and money, and interfered very seriously with his duties as President of the Connellsville Railroad Company. The General has been "sold" by the Whig Convention; that is certain. He has been shabbily treated, and we do not wonder his friends promise only a cold support to James Pollock for Governor.

We would advise our neighbor of the Gazette to turn his attention to theology and abolitionism for the next six months. Politics will not pay.

The Gazette of yesterday also publishes a communication from Mr. "I.," telling our wondering fellow citizens who James Pollock is; and the writer assures us that he was actually born and raised in the village where he now resides; and that he did not wish to be a candidate at all; but his friends forced him to it. A strong anti-slavery tinge is given to his character by this writer; and the people of the State are told in advance that they will do a very foolish thing if they refuse to make a governor out of him.

By the way, why does not the Gazette announce the names of the candidates for Canal Commissioner, and Judge of the Supreme Court. We have understood that Mr. Darsie is nominated for the former office. We would advise the gentleman who is to take a race with Chief Justice Black to mount the stump at once. If he has any hope of success he can't be too quick in getting to work.

SEVERAL THINGS.

European letter writers and newspapers now assert with strong confidence that Austria is pledged to an alliance with the Western powers against Russia. This isolates the Czar utterly in Europe; and in Asia he finds few allies whose assistance can be of any benefit. Single-handed and alone, the Autocrat of Russia defies the world in arms, and is rallying the whole power of the vast empire for the conflict. But the sincerity of the Emperor of Austria in the alleged alliance with the Western powers may yet be questioned.

The seizure of the Black Warrior by the Spanish authorities is the absorbing topic of conversation at Washington; and, it is reported, has attracted the attention of the President and Cabinet at one of their meetings. Unless backed by Spanish and Prince in refusal, the Spanish government will probably make restitution. From the preliminary evidence thus far received, it would seem to be a clear case of an illegal seizure, and the President has sent a message to Congress, which is said to be firm in its tone; and it is evident that the matter will demand full and speedy attention.

The business of privateering fish from depositing their supply in rivers, and the Delaware, is attracting a good deal of attention in the cities of the Eastern States at present. It is a subject well worth consideration, and mankind may be vastly benefited by the measures taken in this direction. There is no more beautiful fish in the water than the best quality of shad, and the rapid multiplication of this species is as certain as the growth of corn in the Western States.

It is estimated that the hogs of Missouri will be unusually scarce this season, in consequence of the ravages of the cholera. Indignation meeting, of course, is to be held at Jefferson City on an early day, at which an address to the people of Missouri will be issued. An article from the Missouri Democrat, on this subject, in which the city population were severely censured, appeared in the Post a few days since. We are glad to see that the city of St. Louis is to be represented in the meeting, and think it quite probable that the Democrat will be appointed on the committee to draft resolutions. We think it could frame, if it would not "fit Soldier."

The Philadelphia Celebration and the Lawyers.

The Philadelphia papers for two or three days have been pretty well filled with accounts of the celebration that lately came off in that city. Amongst others the Philadelphia Bar came in for a compliment, and W. B. Reed, Esq., one of the ablest lawyers at that bar, responded to the sentiment. We publish his speech, as interesting for its historical reminiscences, and its high compliment to many of the distinguished lawyers of the State.

The Chairman of the meeting said:

Gentlemen:—We have paid proper and deserved tribute to the industry and commerce of our city; it is time we should offer our respects to the gentlemen who are here in behalf of the learned professions. Of these there are many present of high distinction, and among them my friend the District Attorney; and as it is his business to represent "the body of the county" in its public relations, I am sure he can have no objection to answer for his professional brethren the toast which I now propose:

"The Bar of Philadelphia."

Mr. W. B. Reed said:

Mr. President—I am highly honored by being selected to acknowledge your toast to my professional brethren. I am grateful, too, in behalf of my profession, at finding that in your arrangements you have first honored and remembered other pursuits of active life, and that we are placed here in our true relation, not in any painful or equivocal sense dependent, but co-equal, neither far behind nor at all ahead of other modes of honest industry. Mine is a purely representative profession. Our success and our honors are closely entwined with the success and prosperity and honors of the great social community around us. We are your representatives where doubtful rights are to be maintained. We are your advisers, your guides, your friends—but not in any sense your superiors. I therefore thank you for postponing us, the representatives, till you have honored those classes of industry which are our constituents. All the great measure you celebrate to-night benefits other occupations. It will benefit us. It surely cannot in any sense injure the bar by enlarging the area of clients. I confess I have some little of the sorrowful feeling so gracefully alluded to by Mr. Dallas, as to the city. I am a native, not merely of the city, but in my profession have no mere matter of interest in my prosperity. I am willing to be repugnant to the new one. I am willing to be very hopeful. (Applause.)

But in direct acknowledgment of your sentiment, I am a little at a loss what to say. The instincts of good taste admonish me to avoid those of the great men, dead or living, who have reflected lustre on the bar of this city. The time elected invites a pun lost in remote antiquity, which one hears in Europe and at home, as to puzzling a Philadelphia lawyer, attests our traditional fame, and I have no other word to say about it. But of the Bar of Pennsylvania (outside the city limits) in this company I do wish to speak, and first with earnest pride. Its influence in past times has hardly been appreciated. I do not ask to refer to colonial times, when law students went regularly to finish their studies at the Inns of Court—happy times, when lawyers rode in their coaches and four—times, I must be permitted to say—for I have no admiration for proprietary annals—of pseudo aristocratic domination and of feeble perplexity, which, in ninety years, never produced one really great man, and which never produced one really great work. The patriot party was in control, for there was really no civilized country. But I may refer to Revolutionary times for the influence of the country on the city. Had the cause of the revolution, with its sharp and irregular processes, and its disturbance of old theories, depended only or mainly on the city lawyers, its progress would have been slow indeed. When, in 1776, the first republican constitution was penned, the Bar frowned on it, and stood aloof. The patriot party had to send to New Jersey for an Attorney General, and to Delaware for a Chief Justice. And in 1789—a dark a period as the war saw the executive of the State appointed as his chief law adviser a young man of twenty-five years of age, who was practising law in "the city of York," and who, rising steadily up the gradations of professional and political distinction, died, at the early age of forty, Attorney General to President Washington. I allude to Mr. Bradford. During Washington's administration and that of his successors, there were lawyer statesmen in Congress from Pennsylvania, men of lofty bearing and high intellectual stature; such as Mr. James Ross, of Allegheny—a man of great prominence any where—and Samuel Sitgreaves, of Northampton.

Nay, Mr. Chairman, coming down nearer our own times, when amongst us is ignorant of the high professional—purely professional—fame of Thomas Duncan and David Watts, of Cumberland, the last leaving a lineage of distinction at the bar behind him (applause,) and Charles Smith and James Hopkins, of Lancaster—and I have been told, for I only lived in another function, that Chief Justice Tilghman was discovered to be on the trial of a cause (no small praise) than Chas. Huston and Thomas Burnside, of Centre, (I believe I saw here this evening his brief at law,) and Jesse Lynch Hamilton, of Bedford, and their two others, both of whom, in their day and time, I may venture to call my friends, men with all their infirmities, of bright parts and vigorous power, Richard Coulter, of Westmoreland, and John Blanchard, of Centre. (Applause.)

Such has been the fame and such the influence in pastime of the bar of Pennsylvania, and such is the fame of the contests of the living generation, I am admonished to pause. Whether we are better or worse than those who have gone before us—whether their example is practically influential, to raise our standard of duty, I cannot say. I am very sensible that in the ranks of the profession are men of sound technical learning and high scholarship, men, too, on whom the historical associations of the past are operative, and who feel that the honors of our history, professional and social, of our inheritance to be proud of, I could name such, were it proper to do so individualize, among our honored guests, to-night—and, within the last month, a Pennsylvania man, a Fayette county lawyer, has delivered a speech in the councils of the nation on a measure of great public importance, which, in all the elements of statesmanlike ability, of varied study and practical manly eloquence, is worthy of all praise. (Applause.) Had it come from Massachusetts or Virginian lips, the echoes of applause would be crowding round him, and he might be "a favorite son," indeed. As it is, his honors are more precarious. I speak of him here with pride, however, as a living Pennsylvania lawyer, whose destiny should be a high one.

And, to close my catalogue of illustrious Pennsylvanians, on the edge of our own times—last but not least—Henry Baldwin, a learned lawyer in every sense—a man of vigorous and wayward intellect which bowed at last, and broke beneath the burthen of his technical knowledge, but which has left its mark on the jurisprudential history of the nation. (Applause.)

In the name of the bar—of the country, if our friends will allow me to speak for them, and of the city, I thank you. Personally, I thank you for giving me the opportunity to speak of and for the lawyers of our State; and let me indulge, the hope that, bound closer and closer together by common sentiment, as well as mutual interest, separated by no sectional divisions or mere miserable party strife, we—I mean the whole State—may be hereafter a great commonwealth to do for, Mr. Jones, cabin passenger, from Jacksonport, was among the lost.—Missouri Republican, 13th.

THE LAST CUBAN EXCITEMENT.—Fifty thousand men could be raised, the New York Sun says, to go and whip the Spaniards out of Cuba, because the government of that Island seized upon a steamer for violating the revenue laws of the Island. When we remember the Erie exaggerations of the press of this city, and the demand made by it upon the United States Government to march troops into Pennsylvania, to settle a question before the Supreme Court, we need not be surprised that force should be thought of before justice in any question with Cuba. Those who have right and justice on their side need not rely upon force. The law is sufficient, and the Government is always disposed to see justice done. These "tremendous excitements" created by the press of New York, are pretty well understood by the public.—Ledger.

LARGE LOCOMOTIVE CONTRACT.—Seth Wilmorth, proprietor of the Union Works, South Boston, has lately closed a contract with the New York and Erie Railroad Company, for the building of forty locomotives, of the largest class. The first of these machines is already completed, and it is believed, is the largest locomotive ever built in New England. It weighs thirty-two tons, with four five-feet drivers, eighteen inch cylinder, twenty-inch stroke.

SINGULAR OBITUARY.—Died in Winchendon, 24th ult., Mr. John Tatro, aged 101 years and 9 months. He had the appearance of being a man of about 75 or 80 years old when we last saw him. It is said that he sawed about one hundred cords of wood at the door, the year he was 100 years old. He was a Frenchman, and had lived here for the last few years.—Puritan Recorder.

☞ The Wall Street Reporter says that the Emperor Louis Napoleon has lately invented between seven and eight millions of francs in various public securities in New York.

News and Facts from all Quarters.

A tailor, who in skating fell through the ice, declared that he never again would leave a hot goose for a cold duck.

A gentleman who did not trust to his memory, wrote in his pocket book; "I must be married when I get to town."

The old lady that used to dry her clothes on the equinoxial line, has gone to Greenland to get the north pole to draw cistern water with.

Mrs. Robert Armstrong, of Richmond, Va., gave birth on Tuesday, to three children, two girls and a boy. All are alive and doing well.

A wedding party took place at Batavia, N. Y. lately, and during the evening all hands were taken sick. Subsequently the bridegroom Mr. Philpot, the bride, and a young man named Peard, died. Several others are still in a dangerous condition. It is supposed that some liquor they drank contained poison.

The Pennsylvania Agricultural Society has awarded a premium of ten dollars to Benjamin Covert, of Fayette county, Pa., for the best yield per acre, of corn,—that gentlemen having produced the past season, the extraordinary yield of 158 bushels and seven quarts of shelled corn from a single acre of ground.

In Boston there are 300 physicians, of which number, 16 are Botanic, and 11 females, 3 manufacturers of artificial limbs; 16 dealers in botanical medicines; 73 dentists; 2 dental depots; 88 apothecaries; 45 dealers in drugs, medicines, &c.; 3 chiropodists; 111 midwives and nurses; 6 surgical and dental instrument manufactories; are placed here in our true relation, not in any painful or equivocal sense dependent, but co-equal, neither far behind nor at all ahead of other modes of honest industry. Mine is a purely representative profession. Our success and our honors are closely entwined with the success and prosperity and honors of the great social community around us. We are your representatives where doubtful rights are to be maintained. We are your advisers, your guides, your friends—but not in any sense your superiors. I therefore thank you for postponing us, the representatives, till you have honored those classes of industry which are our constituents. All the great measure you celebrate to-night benefits other occupations. It will benefit us. It surely cannot in any sense injure the bar by enlarging the area of clients. I confess I have some little of the sorrowful feeling so gracefully alluded to by Mr. Dallas, as to the city. I am a native, not merely of the city, but in my profession have no mere matter of interest in my prosperity. I am willing to be repugnant to the new one. I am willing to be very hopeful. (Applause.)

But in direct acknowledgment of your sentiment, I am a little at a loss what to say. The instincts of good taste admonish me to avoid those of the great men, dead or living, who have reflected lustre on the bar of this city. The time elected invites a pun lost in remote antiquity, which one hears in Europe and at home, as to puzzling a Philadelphia lawyer, attests our traditional fame, and I have no other word to say about it. But of the bar of Pennsylvania (outside the city limits) in this company I do wish to speak, and first with earnest pride. Its influence in past times has hardly been appreciated. I do not ask to refer to colonial times, when law students went regularly to finish their studies at the Inns of Court—happy times, when lawyers rode in their coaches and four—times, I must be permitted to say—for I have no admiration for proprietary annals—of pseudo aristocratic domination and of feeble perplexity, which, in ninety years, never produced one really great man, and which never produced one really great work. The patriot party was in control, for there was really no civilized country. But I may refer to Revolutionary times for the influence of the country on the city. Had the cause of the revolution, with its sharp and irregular processes, and its disturbance of old theories, depended only or mainly on the city lawyers, its progress would have been slow indeed. When, in 1776, the first republican constitution was penned, the Bar frowned on it, and stood aloof. The patriot party had to send to New Jersey for an Attorney General, and to Delaware for a Chief Justice. And in 1789—a dark a period as the war saw the executive of the State appointed as his chief law adviser a young man of twenty-five years of age, who was practising law in "the city of York," and who, rising steadily up the gradations of professional and political distinction, died, at the early age of forty, Attorney General to President Washington. I allude to Mr. Bradford. During Washington's administration and that of his successors, there were lawyer statesmen in Congress from Pennsylvania, men of lofty bearing and high intellectual stature; such as Mr. James Ross, of Allegheny—a man of great prominence any where—and Samuel Sitgreaves, of Northampton.

Nay, Mr. Chairman, coming down nearer our own times, when amongst us is ignorant of the high professional—purely professional—fame of Thomas Duncan and David Watts, of Cumberland, the last leaving a lineage of distinction at the bar behind him (applause,) and Charles Smith and James Hopkins, of Lancaster—and I have been told, for I only lived in another function, that Chief Justice Tilghman was discovered to be on the trial of a cause (no small praise) than Chas. Huston and Thomas Burnside, of Centre, (I believe I saw here this evening his brief at law,) and Jesse Lynch Hamilton, of Bedford, and their two others, both of whom, in their day and time, I may venture to call my friends, men with all their infirmities, of bright parts and vigorous power, Richard Coulter, of Westmoreland, and John Blanchard, of Centre. (Applause.)

Such has been the fame and such the influence in pastime of the bar of Pennsylvania, and such is the fame of the contests of the living generation, I am admonished to pause. Whether we are better or worse than those who have gone before us—whether their example is practically influential, to raise our standard of duty, I cannot say. I am very sensible that in the ranks of the profession are men of sound technical learning and high scholarship, men, too, on whom the historical associations of the past are operative, and who feel that the honors of our history, professional and social, of our inheritance to be proud of, I could name such, were it proper to do so individualize, among our honored guests, to-night—and, within the last month, a Pennsylvania man, a Fayette county lawyer, has delivered a speech in the councils of the nation on a measure of great public importance, which, in all the elements of statesmanlike ability, of varied study and practical manly eloquence, is worthy of all praise. (Applause.) Had it come from Massachusetts or Virginian lips, the echoes of applause would be crowding round him, and he might be "a favorite son," indeed. As it is, his honors are more precarious. I speak of him here with pride, however, as a living Pennsylvania lawyer, whose destiny should be a high one.

And, to close my catalogue of illustrious Pennsylvanians, on the edge of our own times—last but not least—Henry Baldwin, a learned lawyer in every sense—a man of vigorous and wayward intellect which bowed at last, and broke beneath the burthen of his technical knowledge, but which has left its mark on the jurisprudential history of the nation. (Applause.)

In the name of the bar—of the country, if our friends will allow me to speak for them, and of the city, I thank you. Personally, I thank you for giving me the opportunity to speak of and for the lawyers of our State; and let me indulge, the hope that, bound closer and closer together by common sentiment, as well as mutual interest, separated by no sectional divisions or mere miserable party strife, we—I mean the whole State—may be hereafter a great commonwealth to do for

HAIR.—A writer in a late number of the London Quarterly Review furnishes the following information on this subject: "London imports about five tons of human hair annually. Black hair comes mainly from Brittany and the south of France, where it is collected principally by one hair merchant, who travels from fair to fair, and buys up, and shears the crops of the neighborhood damsels. A traveler in Brittany describes the peasant girls as attended at the fairs with their beautiful tresses, perfectly willing to sell out. He saw several girls sheared, one after another, like sheep, and as many more standing ready for the shears, with their caps in their hands, and their long hair combed out and hanging to their waists. By the side of the dealer was placed a large basket, into which the successive crops of hair were thrown, each tied up in a wisp by itself. For a head of hair about twenty sous in money is given, or a gaudy handkerchief. The hair is the finest and most silken that can be produced. Light hair comes from Germany, where it is collected by a company of Dutch farmers, who go over to England for orders once a year. And, who knows from what source come these pendant tresses, gleaming in the gaslight, with which our blooming Eves, spitefully entangling their snaky coil with their own, tempt our eligible Adams."

A REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT has taken place in Amapluca, Mexico, on the Pacific coast. It is the conduct of Gen. Alvarez, who has possession of the fort, knows the country, and is a wealthy proprietor. It is believed that he can give Santa Anna considerable trouble; the one legged Dictator doubtless thinks so, for he sends four hundred men against him, and will increase the force to twelve, if necessary. The fort is blockaded by Santa Anna. There has been no engagements as yet. Like many other insurrections in that country, it may be put down by buying off the chief instigator of it.

☞ The Medical Times and Gazette mentions a case in which delirium appears to have been induced by forced abstinence from tobacco, and was relieved by its re-employment. Another similar instance was that of a man whose skull has been trepanned on account of fracture, and who subsequently became raving; but, being allowed to smoke, was soon relieved and rapidly recovered.

ADVERTISING FOR A WIFE.—A chap out West tried advertising for a wife. It worked to a charm, as usual. He says he has received in answer to his advertisement, 794 letters, 4 daguerreotype likenesses of ladies, 2 gold finger-rings, 1 "A" locket of hair, 1 copy of Ike Marvel's "Reveries of a Bachelor," 1 thimble, and two dozen shirt buttons. He ought to be convinced.

☞ "Mother, can't I go and have my daguerreotype taken?"

"No, my child, I guess it isn't worth while."

"Well, then, you may let me have a tooth pulled; I never go anywhere."—Lynn News.

☞ The best board in the world for dyspeptic young ladies is said to be the wash-board. It gives them strength of muscle, an exuberance of spirits, a good appetite for their meals, and supersedes the necessity of painting their faces.

☞ Important to Country Dealers.—DR. GEORGE H. KEYSER, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, No. 140, corner of Wood street and Virgin alley, has for sale a complete assortment of pure and genuine patent or proprietory medicines, which will be sold at proprietors prices; among which are the following, viz:

Dr. Rose's Alterative,	Hoffman's Female,
do. Railroad,	Anderson's,
do. Golden,	Boorhave's Holland,
do. Female,	Hostetter's Stomach,
Dr. M'Clintock's Liver Pills,	Green's Oxygenated,
Hohenstark's Liver Pills,	Hampton's Tincture,
Seiler's do.	Radcliff's Alkaline,
McLane's do.	Hutchings' Dyspepsia,
Fitch's Cough, do.	Stoughton's,
do. Cathartic,	Sergeant's,
do. for Diarrhœa,	Wolfe's Schnapps,
do. for bleeding Lungs,	snares and coun exercise,
Roberts' Sarsaparilla,	Dr. Keyser's Pectoral,
Torrence's do.	Dr. Jaynes' Expectorant,
Bonnet's Plant and Root,	Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort,
Hudnut's Indian Vegetable,	Schenck's Pulmonic,
Wright's do.	Dr. Duncan's Expectorant,
Holloway's do.	Dr. Swayne's Expectorant,
Dr. Peck's Anti-bilious,	Dr. M'Clintock's Pectoral,
Lee's New London,	do. Cough Mixture,
do. Windsor,	Fisher's Pulmonary Balsam,
Dr. Cook's Bilious,	do. Expectorant,
Hibbert's do.	do. Cherry Pulmonic,
Harris' sick headache,	Dr. Rose's Expectorant,
Radway's Regulators,	Ayres' Cherry Pectoral,
Moffat's life,	Sellers' Cough,
Brandreth's Anti-bilious,	Morgan's do.
Jayne's Sanative,	do. Fever and Ague,
Brandreth's,	do. Liver,
Herman,	No. 140 Wood street, corner Virgin alley.

☞ Remember the place, No. 140 Wood street, corner Virgin alley. mar16-dlaw

☞ Medicine Chests.—DR. KEYSER, wholesale Druggist, of 140 Wood street, has on hand a splendid assortment of MEDICINE CHESTS, for families and steamboats, at various prices. Those in want of articles of this kind would do well to give him a call. feb1

☞ Ague and Fever of three years standing.—Mr. John Longdon, now living at Beaver Dam, Hanover county, Va., near Richmond, had Ague and Fever for three years, most of the time he had chills twice a day, and rarely less than once; he was parched with fever as soon as the chill left him; and after trying physicians, quinine, most of the Tonics advertised, and every thing recommended to him, was about to give up in despair, when Carter's Spanish Mixture was spoken of to be got in two bottles, but before he had taken more than a single one, he was perfectly cured, and has not had a chill or fever since.

Mr. Longdon is only one out of thousands who have been benefitted by this great tonic, alterative and blood purifier.

See advertisement with his certificate. mar1

☞ Morse's Invigorating Elixir or Cordial.—A host of fearful diseases that have in times past been considered susceptible of relief, but not of cure, are literally exterminated by this preparation. Among these may be enumerated nervous headache, the sickness, nausea, indigestion, nervous irritabilities, hysteria, paralysis, tic in early stages, hypochondriasis, vertigo, spasms, fainting fits, general weakness, and a host of functional disorders afflicting the general health of mind and body. As a remedy for any of the complaints which produce mental incapacity, it is an absolute and invariable specific.

The Cordial is put up, highly concentrated; in pint bottles. Price three dollars per bottle, two for five dollars, six for twelve dollars.

Sold by Druggists throughout the United States, Canada, and the West Indies.

AGENTS.

FLEMING & BROS., No. 65 Wood street, Pittsburgh.
GEO. H. KEYSER, No. 140 Wood street, do
J. P. FLEMING, Allegheny City. mar11-smaw

DIALOGUES.

DR. KEYSER, of 140 Wood street, has furnished us with the following dialogue. The boy says he will not vouch for the occurrence of the present one, but insists on it that the same thing happens daily:

DIALOGUE.—SCENE, BARBER SHOP.

Enter man in long coat. Man: Mr., I want you to shave me as quick as possible, and don't you hurt, for my face is very tender.

Barber.—I'll do that, sir, and won't hurt you, neither; and if you want your tender face cured, get some of Dr. Keyser's Cream or Roses, and put it on your face; it'll cure it.

Man.—Where can I get it?

Barber.—At Dr. KEYSER'S, No. 140, corner of Wood street and Virgin alley.

Man.—Dr. KEYSER'S, eh! That's the very place I was going. I see he has HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS for sale, and I want a bottle for my wife; she has the dyspepsia very bad.

Boy.—Looks here, Master, when you go down here, is get a box of dat Hunn Dray sally sale dere, an' it'll make dem red whiskers of yours as black as charcoal.

Man.—Yes, or as black as your face;—but no matter; if I go there, I will get a box of Hair Dye. Let me see; what's the name of it?

Barber.—CHEVALIER'S HAIR DYE. You can get anything you want at KEYSER'S, except dry goods. He has a splendid assortment of all kinds of perfumery, soaps and fancy did assortment of all kinds of perfumery, soaps and fancy articles, besides Drugs and Medicines. It's worth a visit to his store, to see his fancy show cases, and those Crystal Palace scales.

Man.—Well, I'm going there. I want several articles in his line, and may as well buy from him as any body else. [32]

"Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not anyrmost in fancy; rich, not gaudy—
For the apparel oft proclaims the man."

☞ Every well dresser also knows how difficult it is to find a Tailor who thoroughly understands the peculiarities of each figure, and can suit its requirements with a well cut, gentlemanly fitting garment. Hence it is that so few feel "at home" during the first day's wear of any new article of dress, and however costly, never become adapted to their forms. To remedy so manifest a deformity, E. ORIBBLE has practically studied both form and fashion, always adapting the garment, weather, coat, vest, or pantaloons, to the exigencies of its wearer—thoroughly attaining that elegance of fit which the spirit of the age dictates.

ORIBBLE'S CLOTHING HOUSE,
240 Liberty st., head of Wood.
dec23

DIED:

On Thursday evening, 16th inst., Mrs. ANN COOPER, in the 46th year of her age.

The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral, from the residence of her husband, Samuel Cooper, in the rear of Mannie Hall, Fifth street, next Sabbath, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

To Gardiners.

FOR RENT.—A small FARM of between 24 and 25 acres, about one mile from Jones' ferry, on the Ohio river, with a two story frame dwelling house. Possession given on the 1st of April. JAMES B. SAWYER,
No. 73 Grant street.
mar18:stawlt

LEAD.—3000 Pigs in store and to receive, for sale by ALEXANDER GORDON, 132 Front street.
mar18:1wd

ENTERPRISE WORKS.

No. 326 Wood street, Third door below Virgin Alley.

BROWN & TETLEY would call the attention of Sporting men to their large assortment of Guns, Rifles and Revolving Pistols, the largest and best selected stock ever opened in this market; together with a general assortment of Hardware, Cutlery, Tools and Fishing Tackle, all of which we offer at the lowest possible prices to cash purchasers, or for good approved paper. mar18

SHOT GUNS—200 Double and single Barrel Shot Guns; 500 Rifle Percussion Caps, assorted; 200 Pair Pistols, just received and for sale at BROWN & TETLEY'S, mar18 132 Wood street.

SPRING AND SUMMER MANTILLAS.—A. A. MASON & CO. will display on Monday, 20th of March, their large and new variety of Spring and Summer Mantillas, comprising the following new and desirable styles:

LA DIANA.—A light and graceful garment, in appropriate work.

LA REINE BLANCHE.—An elegant style of the Talma shape.

NAPOLEON III.—A graceful and general favorite; trimmed with Gray Otis.

EMPRESS EUGENIE.—In all colors, with a novel trimming of the same material. Chat trimming is $1 50.

LA ZERLA.—Very light and graceful, intended for warm weather. Cost $10 to $20

LA MANTERON.—Large, may be had in all colors, with heavy trimmings.

The above, with numberless other patterns, form a very full and varied assortment. A. A. MASON & CO.
No. 25 Fifth street.
mar18

NEW BOOKS.—The Barclay's of Boston, by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe.

The Lamplighter; a thrilling story.

The Workman's Way in Many Lands.

Bruno's Classic and Historical Portraits.

Leipoard's Upper Ten and Lower Million.

The Behavior Book; a manual for ladies, by Miss Leslie.

Life of Benjamin Robert Hayden, Historical Painter, from his Autobiography and Journals; edited and compiled by Tom Taylor.

Haps and Mishaps of a Tour in Europe; by Grace Greenwood.

Home Scenes and Home Sounds; or the World from my Window, by H. Morton Stephens.

The Poetical Papers, by Geo. W. Curtis.

The Planter's Northern Bride, by Caroline Lee Hentz.

The Friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral, from the residence of her husband, Samuel B. Cooper, in the rear of Mannie Hall, Fifth street, next Sabbath, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

GRIBBLE'S CLOTHING HOUSE,
240 Liberty st., head of Wood.
dec23

DIED:

On Thursday evening, 16th inst., Mrs. ANN COOPER, in the 46th year of her age.

The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral, from the residence of her husband, Samuel B. Cooper, in the rear of Mannie Hall, Fifth street, next Sabbath, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

H. CHILDS & CO.,

Wholesale Boot and Shoe Warehouse,

NUMBERS 133 AND 135 WOOD STREET,

PITTSBURGH, PA.

HAVE JUST RECEIVED their extensive Spring Stock, consisting of upwards of thirty-four hundred cases of BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, AND BONNETS, all of latest styles and fashions, among which are:

Ladies & Misses'	Men and Boys'	Palm Leaf Hats.	Ladies' Bonnets.
Bronze Kossuths,	Eo'd Nullifiers,	Leghorn and Straw Hats,	Fancy French Lace,
Purple Parodies,	Drab Congress Boots,	Fur and Wool Hats,	Snake Skin Plait,
Cinderella Slippers,	Kid Glove Button do,	Cloth and Glazed Caps,	Eo'd Fancy Belgrades,
Sontags & Eurekas,	Oxford and Union Ties,	Plush and Velvet Caps,	Gossamer Lace,
Buskins and Gaiters,	Calf and Kip Boots,	Children's Shapes,	Leghorn and Straw,
Albert & Paris Ties,	Coarse & Fine Brogans,	Infant's Colored Boots,	Florence, with Capes.

Together with a great variety of Fancy Goods, well adapted to the approaching season. Our Stock having been purchased direct from the Manufacturers, principally for cash, with great care in the selection of quality and size, adapted to the Western trade, we are enabled to offer superior inducements this Spring, and are determined not to be undersold by any regular house, either in New York, Philadelphia or Baltimore.

Merchants visiting our city will please call and examine for themselves.
mar18:slaw2m

B. A. FAHNESTOCK & CO.,

CORNER WOOD AND FIRST STREETS,

PITTSBURGH,

Manufacturers of White Lead, Red Lead and Litharge, Importers and Dealers in

DRUGS,	DINGEE OIL,	LARD OIL,	ALCOHOL,
MEDICINES,	VARNISHES,	TURPENTINE,	TANNER'S OIL,
CHEMICALS,	WINDOW GLASS,	PATENT MEDICINES,	SPERM OIL,
DYE STUFFS,	GLASS WARE,	PERFUMERY,	WHALE OIL,
PAINTS,	SURG'L INSTUMENTS,	BRUSHES,	SPICES,

HAVING RESIDENT PARTNERS in the Eastern Cities to take advantage of all favorable changes in the Market, we are enabled to sell, for cash, or to prompt time dealers, on as reasonable terms, as Eastern Jobbing Houses.

Our brands of White Lead we guaranty to be strictly pure and full weight, and equal in quality to any made in the United States.

☞ B. A. FAHNESTOCK'S Vermifuge furnished with directions in the English, French, German and Spanish languages. mar9:lmw

SPECIAL NOTICES.

WESTERN FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY,
NEW LISBON, OHIO.

Capital.....$150,000.

R. MCCASKEY, Agent.
St. Charles Building, 108 Third street, Pittsburgh.

OFFICERS.

JAMES KELLY, Pres't. JAMES BURDICK, V. Pres't.
LEVI MARTIN, Secretary and Treasurer.

REFERENCES.

A. & A. M'Bain, U. Shakespeare, Dr. Irish, Joseph Hall, Springer Harbaugh, R. M. Stanton, Wilkinson & Hoffstot, Gilbert & Frederick, Pittsburgh; James & Kyle, Sharpsburg; Wm. Frank & Co., Cleveland; Graham & M'Coy, Dr. G. Fries, Cincinnati. feb6

State Mutual Fire & Marine Insurance Company, OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Branch Office cor. Fourth and Smithfield sts., Pittsburgh.

Capital, $50,000 Dollars.

DIRECTORS:

John B. Rutherford, Dauphin co.; P. C. Sniffen, Harrisburg; Samuel Jones, Philadelphia; Wm. Wilson, Philadelphia; Wm. Bell, Carrier, Pittsburgh; John B. Rutherford, Dauphin co.; A. J. Gillett, Harrisburg; S. T. Jones, Harrisburg; Robert Hoth, Carrier, do.

JOHN F. RUTHERFORD, President.
A. J. GILLETT, Secretary.

A. A. CARRIER, Agent.

The above Company will insure against perils of sea and inland navigation and transportation; also, on buildings and merchandize in city or country, at as rates consistent with safety. Policies issued on dwelling houses either perpetually or for a term of years. mar18-jy13

Girard Fire and Marine Insurance Company OF PHILADELPHIA.

Office of Pittsburgh Agency cor. Fourth and Smithfield sts.

Capital, 300,000 Dollars.

DIRECTORS:

Wm. M. Swain,	J. P. Steiner,
Wm. S. Stockton,	Paul Thurston,
E. H. Davis,	J. B. Hanjon,
Thos. S. Mitchell,	Samuel Jones,
B. B. Comegys,	Thomas Craven,
Wm. H. Sowers,	D. D. Sherman,
A. Harlan,	Philip R. Snyder,
Wm. H. Hacker,	Alex. Heron, Jr.,
	Furman Shoppard.

JOEL JONES, President. A. G. GILLET, Secretary.

Will insure Cotton or Woolen Factories, Buildings, Stores, Merchandize and property generally, on favorable terms. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

A. A. CARRIER, Agent.
mar18

Insurance Company of the Valley of Virginia.

Capital $300,000.

HOME OFFICE, WINCHESTER, VA.

DIRECTORS:

Jos. S. Carson	John Kerr,
Lloyd Logan,	N. W. Richardson,
	H. H. McIlwee.

JOS. S. CARSON, President. D. S. PUSEY, Secretary.
O. F. BIEBER, Actuary.

The attention of the community is especially invited to this company, as an institution based upon ample capital, and conducted on the strictest principles of equity and economy. Policies issued on favorable terms, and losses promptly paid. A. A. CARRIER, Agent,
Office cor. Fourth and Smithfield sts.
ja13

ASSOCIATED FIREMEN'S INSURANCE Company of the City of Pittsburgh.

J. K. MOORHE