CHANGRABLE AT PLEASURE:

The effect of the sixt firing of a gun in the presence of astoniabed mages is always an interesting point in the narrate of old voyages of discovery; but, setting aside the fire, and the smoke, and the loud report, if was, we an early period, found out that guns—at all events these guns in use when Captain Cook, sailed, round the world was referred. the world were after all, not very terrible engines.

not make bows and arrows; and it is no more than seventy-eight years since Benjamin Frank-lin—who had that kind of mind which is not very weapons that were carried by Istamach the son of Abraham. Bows and arrows, he said. son of Abraham. Bows and arrows, he said, were good weapons, and not wisely laid aside; first, because a man may shoot as truly with a bow as with a common musket; secondly, because he can discharge four arrows in the time of charging and discharging one bullet; thirdly, because his object is not obscured from his view by sho smoke of his own comrades; fourthly, because a flight of arrows seen coming upon them terrifies and disturbs the enemy's attention to his business: fifthly, because as arrow sticking in any part of a man disables him row sticking in any part of a man disables him ly pierced by the arrows and bolis of the Eng-lish and their Geneose auxiliaries; and old french chroniclers attest the terror and confu-sion which the English archers always pro-duced in the enemy's ranks. There was a time —before British sovereigus had an army or even a respectable body-guard at command even a respectable body-guard at command— when not only A was an archer, and shot a frog; but when C. D. and all the other letters of the alphabet, were archers, and shot at everybady and everything that could stand for a mark; from frogs to sovereigns. Consequently sover-eigns, when tempted to visit their subjects pockets without consuling their refractory commons, were induced to consider that propensity and to modify their determination accordingly.

But that is all gone by now. It is all dwin-But that is all gone by now. It is all dwindled down into a few Toxophilite Clubs, whose members wear Lincoln green and hiack cocks' feathers; being very harmless ladies and gentlemen, who only hurt each other by accident at preity arch fetes. Great prelates so longer exhort their hearers to the slitgent practice of archery. Princesses have coased to prile themselves on striking the bull's eye at two hundred and forty yards, or to command their sheriff's to visit all the live goose in their respective counties, and compel them to shed six good feathers each for the shafts of arrows. All the old Doubles are dead who would be givenped i' the clout at twelve score; and carried won a foreband shaft a fourteen or a fourteen and a half, that it would have done man's heart good half, that it would have done a man's heart good to see. Political economists of three days do not insist that every butt of Malmasy or Tyre, wine shall come accompanied by ten good bow staves. The age of archery is fied, and no force of reasoning of even fifty-Franklin power could bring it lack again. bring it back again, The struggle between hows and gurs was long, and at one time doubtful. Indeed when
