All orders will be promptly filled.

LATE FOREIGN NEWS AND PROSPECTS.

The war news lately received is the most important that has yet arrived. The Turks have succeeded in raising the siege of Silistria, and probably, in driving the Russians back across the Danube, except from two or three fortified points. Fortunately for the honor of the Turks this triumph has been achieved before the arrival of the allies to take part in the conflict; and to the Moslems alone belongs the honor of the victory. If the reports are true, the loss of the Russians is very severe, not only in men, but in arms and munitions of war. Omar Pasha, commander-in chief of the Turkish armies, has established a high character for boldness and skill as a general, and has proved himself more than a match for the best generals of Russia; and the Turkish soldiers have again and again proved their capacity to cope with Russians in equal numbers. The gallant defence of Silistria by Mussa Pasha, commander of the garrison, was worthy of the best days of Moslem heroism. But the hero chief was slain before his triumph was complete.

According to the accounts received the Russians are worsted everywhere: and it is believed that their armies will retire beyond the Pruth. This would be an evacuation of the principalities as demanded by the allied powers: and the question now is whether the allies will be satisfied with a compliance with their demands at so late a day. After so great an expense has been incurred in sending out fleets and armies, the allies will probably increase their demands; and some of the members of the English cabinet have strongly intimated that the war must now be prosecuted until the power of Russia for mischief and aggression is broken. The conquest of Crimea, the capture of Sebastopol, and the destruction of the Russian Black Sea fleet, now safely ensconced under the guns of Sebastopol, is recommended by the London Times as the immediate work of the allies that should be accomplished during the present campaign. The occupation of the Crimea, a peninsula in the northern part of the Black Sea, on the southern extremity of which Sebastopol is situated, would enable the allies to attack the latter fortress by sea and land, with every chance of speedy success. The capture of this fortress and destruction of the fleet would destroy the long established supremacy of Russia in that sea. It would prevent the Russians from sending succor to their beleaguered fortresses in the Caucassus; and the large regions of Circassia, Daghestan and Georgia, that the Russians have spent a third of a century, and a vast amount of blood and treasure to subdue, would thus be lost. Those hard won conquests will probably be wrested from the grasp of Russia, and again erected into independent States under the protection of England and France. This would add much to the security of the British possessions in the Indies. It was through the Caucassian provinces that Russia was steadily advancing towards the Indies; and this war will not be terminated until that highway is closed against the great and grasping empire of the North.

But this attempt to dismember the Russian empire may raise new questions and complications. Austria has demanded no more than that Russia shall evacuate Moldavia and Wallachia: and this demand she has made unwillingly. If England and France now demand more, Austria is not committed to second those demands. Russia, by timely interference, prevented the dismemberment and overthrow of the Austrian empire in 1849: It can hardly be believed that the Austrian empire will so soon repay this debt of gratitude by joining in the effort to dismember the empire of the Czar in 1854.

If England and France demand more than the restoration of the status quo prior to the commencement of the present difficulties, Austria and Prussia will probably recede from the alliance, and may be found on the side of Russia. It has been the uniform fate of the Russian empire, in its numerous wars, to suffer severe disasters in the first campaigns. But that empire has seldom engaged in a war for several centuries in which it did not triumph in the end. Its vast internal resources its innumerable armies of brave and hardy soldiers, the military science and skill and discipline for which its armies are distinguished, and, above all, the steady persevering and patient pursuit of vast plans of aggrandisement for which its able and indefatigable rulers have long been celebrated, all give promise that the present war will not ultimately result in the dismemberment or humiliation of Russia. Her fleets and ports may be destroyed, and her armies suffer defeats at first; but the empire will remain intact, compact, swarming with soldiers; and capable of protracting the struggle until the financial resources of its enemies are exhausted; and new events lead to new combinations and alliances, none of which can be more unfavorable to Russia than the present.

To save his fleets and ports the Czar may consent to patch up a peace for the present on honorable terms, and postpone his designs of conquest to a more favorable opportunity. But if required to reduce his possessions, to surrender his provinces, or in any way compromise his honor, he will belie his whole past life if he yields.

His late reverses on the Danube, even supposing them as great as the English accounts represent them, which is very doubtful, do not materially affect the relative strength of the belligerents, or give promise of peace. Nicholas of Russia is not the man to treat for peace immediately after such a defeat.

The Czar has lately secured a loan of $37,000,000 through the house of Hope & Co., of Amsterdam, and is for the present supplied with the sinews of war. His government is in good pecuniary credit, and is not so enormously indebted as the governments of France, England and Austria.

If it is true, as reported, that the Czar is about to withdraw his armies from the principalities, Austria, under the late treaty at Constantinople, will occupy them with its armies, and negotiations will be resumed. By these movements, if they take place, the winter will be gained by the Czar for further preparations; and should England and France then demand any other terms of peace than those already demanded, Austria will be at liberty to withdraw from the Western Powers, and let Russia resume the occupation of the principalities again. Austria is a dangerous ally for the Western Powers, as they will doubtless discover in time. Meantime, we look for more reliable accounts than are yet received of the battles before Silistria. English and French accounts are as little to be relied on as Russian: and the late news is too untrue and exalted to gain full credit.

AT THEIR OLD TRICKS.

The Whigs, having got full possession of the government of the consolidated city of Philadelphia, true to their instincts, propose not only to raise the salary of the Mayor from $8,000 to $8,000, and several other municipal offices in proportion, but also to more than quadruple the police force. Such a vast increase is asserted by the neutral press to be entirely unnecessary; hence it is only done for the purpose of giving employment to patriotic Know-Nothings and others. Besides these, it is proposed to create a number of offices not before in existence.

One of the reasons for giving Conrad an insalary, was the necessity of making the office a dignified one! No one, we believe, charged Mayor Gilpin with lacking in dignity, although he did receive but $3,000. We must infer, then, that it takes $5,000 additional to make a dignified Mayor out of the late poetical President of the Hempfield Railroad.

We are not in the least surprised at these shallow expedients. Whiggery was ever fond of a strong and magnificent government, and when it once got its hand into the public purse, was never over particular in how it spent the people's money. It is a little unfortunate, we think, for the party to have shown its hand so soon. Common decency, as well as a regard for their own welfare, would have prevented their indiscriminate plundering for at least six months to come. But it is instinct; they can therefore hardly be blamed. If the first fortnight may be taken as a criterion, we congratulate the people of Philadelphia upon the brilliant prospect before them of being swindled!

NOT TAUS.—The editor of the Gazette endeavors to persuade its readers that the democracy are alarmed at the prospects of the present political campaign; and that the Post speaks in a desponding tone. If that editor can find consolation in anything we have said, he is easily comforted.

We have said that uneasy politicians and disappointed office seekers may damage us some, but not defeat us. We have a margin wide enough in Pennsylvania to endure that damage, and roll up a rousing majority besides.

What sense is there in the assertion that democrats are alarmed, when our majority last year was about 37,000 in the State, and the whigs have no new allies to help them reduce that majority, except a few angry men in a few localities. But are there not angry whigs too, who will scorn the corrupt alliances their leaders are seeking. It must be remembered too, that those allinances are not yet secured; and there is small chance that they will be. Even if all are obtained, the democrats can defeat the entire rabble. But no success has yet crowned the efforts of our enemies to consummate their "bargains and sales."

Wait till you can at least see out of the woods, before you crow, neighbor: and, above all, keep your fingers out of that fancied crack in the democratic party if you don't want them pinched.

Telegraphic.

A destructive fire occurred at Carrolton, Ky., on the night of 6th inst. The distilleries of Messrs. Root & Co., and Mr. Snyder, were burnt, with all their contents, and a large number of hogs. Loss estimated at $100,000.

An Independent Whig and Free Soil Convention met in Jackson, Mich., on Thursday and nominated Kingsley S. Bingham, Free Soiler, for Governor, and a coalition ticket. Abolition resolutions were adopted. Ten Detroit Advertiser and conservative Whigs bolt the ticket, and there will probably be a strait out Whig ticket nominated.

A series of destructive fires occurred in different parts of the country on Saturday. One at Cohoes, near Albany, N. Y., destroying a valuable mill. Several lives were lost by the falling of the walls. Another at Ansonia, Conn., destroying the Ansonia Clock Company's works. Loss over $100,000—insured for about $50,000. On Saturday evening, a fire broke out in Van Dyc's building, corner of Third and Chesnut street, Philadelphia. It was subdued before much damage was done.

Robert J. Ward, Sr., sent in a bill to the Louisville Councils for damage done to his house by the citizens of that place. The Councils have refused to pay it.

DEPLETING THE TREASURY.—In the House of Representatives, the Committee on Commerce have instructed their Chairman, Mr. Fuller, of Maine, to report a bill making appropriations for the construction of eight more Custom Houses, viz: at Ellsworth, Me.; Gloucester, Mass.; New Haven, Conn.; Detroit, Mich.; Toledo, Ohio; Buffalo, N. Y.; Milwaukie, Wis.; and Wheeling, Va. This bill, we learn, has been so drawn up as certainly to make the appropriations to be made under it pay the whole cost of the respective works, which will range from $10,000 to $80,000. It will also be proposed so as to construct those at Buffalo, Detroit, Milwaukie and Wheeling, as that they shal. furnish permanent accommodations for the United States District Courts and Post Offices in those cities.

☞ The cholera is nearly all round us in the cities and large towns; and those who will examine the condition of our streets and alleys will be satisfied that it will be here before long. If it is not, it will not be from anything our city authorities have done to cleanse the city.

Our city authorities devote themselves to the mighty task of preventing the children burning shooting crackers on the Fourth of July, while the care of the streets is left to the hogs.

LADIES, ATTEND!—White women are so scarce in Minnesota that some gentlemen of that territory, from sheer necessity have been compelled to marry aboriginal ladies—otherwise, Indian squaws. A Boston man emigrated there recently with his three daughters. In two weeks he was alone, but his family was increased by the addition of two sons-in-law.

☞ Rev. Edward Thompson, President of the Wesleyan University at Delaware, O., will sail for Europe in Wednesday's steamer. The object of his visit is to purchase a library for that institution. Besides being a learned man, the Reverend gentleman is one of the most eloquent preachers belonging to the Methodist Church.

ET TU BRUTE.—An Irishman in Decatur, N. Y., was recently worming himself home with a couple of bottles of "red eye" in his bosom, when he stumbled and fell, smashing the bottles and inflicting several gashes upon his unprotected person. To be wounded by a bosom friend is truly an unkind cut.

THAT SAME OLD COON.—In the proceedings of the Ohio State Teachers Association, held at Zanesville last week, we see "Mrs. Coone of Pennsylvania, offered some complimentary remarks on the superiority of the Common School System of Ohio over that of Pennsylvania."

☞ On our fourth page this morning, will be found an exquisite poem from the July number of Putnam, entitled "The Jewish Cemetery at Newport." It is by Henry Wordsworth Longfellow.

[From the Buffalo Express.]

A TESTIMONIAL IN THE RIGHT QUARTER.—Our readers will remember an incident that we published in May last, relative to Mr. and Mrs. Horton, of Oswego, who, finding that a tree had fallen across the track of the New York and Erie Railroad, took measures to warn the approaching train, and thereby saved many lives and much valuable property. Mr. Horton took off his red flannel drawers, tore them asunder, and with one half signalled the down train, while his wife, with the other half signalled the up train. We are gratified to see that the Company have not suffered this noble conduct to go unrewarded—and have sent to Mrs H. a beautiful silk dress, accompanied by a life pass for the family over the road.

FURTHER BY THE BALTIC.

The Baltic has made another extraordinary run. The present trip occupied only 9 days, 12 hours and 28 minutes apparent time, or 9 days, 16 hours and 53 minutes actual time, from Liverpool to New York. It is the shortest trip, by an hour and 52 minutes, ever made, and must settle the question of the relative speed of the steamers for a while at least. She made the entire voyage by steam alone.

War News.

[From the London Times, June 24.]

(BY SUBMARINE AND EUROPEAN TELEGRAPH.)

"PARIS, Friday Evening.—Advices from the Danubian principalities state that General Danesberg has succeeded to the chief command over the Russian forces, in consequence of the wounds received by the Generals lately in command. The complete defeat of the Russians on the 16th is confirmed, a portion of the besieging army having been driven back to Kusgan, and the other having been forced to recross the Danube in all haste. The Turks took several standards and a great quantity of baggage. Five Russian Generals were either killed or wounded in this affair alone. General Luders had his jaw carried away by a cannon ball, a fact which it was deemed necessary to conceal from the Russian troops.

[From the London Times, June 26.]

We have received from our correspondent in Vienna telegraphic advices dated "Varna, June 15." They state that the Duke of Cambridge, with the first division of the British army, had arrived there on the preceding day. Quarter-master-General Hess has been named Commander-in-chief of the northeastern and southeastern army corps. The Archduke Albert will command the southeastern and General Schlick the northeastern corps, as second in command to Baron Hess. We have since received from our correspondent at Vienna the following despatch, dated yesterday evening:

"The Russians are in full retreat to Moldavia. The Russians in the Dobrudsha are also retiring. A Turkish army, 20,000 strong, is advancing to relieve Rassova. Omer Pasha is advancing with his entire force to the Danube."

[From the London Times, June 27.]

VIENNA, Monday morning.—The night before last the Russian reply to the Austrian note reached Vienna. It is to the effect that, as a mark of high consideration for Austria, Russia consents to evacuate the Turkish territories.

THE BALTIC.

FINLAND, June 21.—Off the Island of Renskar, in Baro Sound, the United fleets of England and France, comprising 28 sail of the line, 5 first class frigates, and 18 steamers, in all 51 sail, the whole affording a spectacle of the grandeur of which, in a naval point of view, it is more easy to conceive than to describe.

On the 14th instant, the day after the junction of the two fleets, Sir C. Napier, accompanied by Rear Admirals Corry and Chads, paid an official visit to Vice Admiral Parseval Deschenes, on board the indefatigable, 90, the yards of all the French ships being manned, and their crews giving three hearty cheers.

The French Admiral having signified his intention to return the visit on the following day, the captains of the various English ships repaired on board the Duke of Wellington at an appointed hour, to be present on the interesting occasion, and as a mark of respect to the senior officer of the French fleet, who received compliments similar to those given the day previously to our gallant Commander in Chief.

During the forenoon of the 16th, the ships of the English division of the fleet went to general quarters, firing shot and shell at targets moored at distances of 800 and 1,000 yards. The Porcupine steam-sloop, Lieut. Commander Jackson, was despatched to Stockholm to procure fresh provisions.

The Vulture, steam-frigate, Capt. F. H. Glasse, arrived nearly in the morning of the 17th, with despatches from Rear-Admiral Plumridge, who in his flag ship the Leopard, 16, Capt. Giffard, accompanied by the Valorous, 18, Capt. Burdett, and Odin, 16, Capt. [illegible], after cruising the Aland islands, where they captured some of the enemy's vessels, one of which was a revenue cruiser, had proceeded to Tornea, the northern point of the Gulf of Bothnia. At Uleaborg and two other places on the eastern coast of the gulf, they sunk, burnt, or otherwise destroyed upwards of 40 Russian merchant ships, many of them first class vessels, together with a vast number of barrels containing tar, and other ships' stores, purposely abstaining from doing any injury to the houses, or in any way molesting the inhabitants who, duly appreciating such an act of forbearance on the part of the British, showed the officers and men every hospitality in their power.

THE ENGLISH WORSTED AT GAMLA-KARLEBY.—The St. Petersburg Journal, of the 15th of June, announces that at 11 P. M. on the 9th, an English expedition of nine boats attempted to force the passage to the town of Gamla-Karleby. They were opposed by two companies of the Finnish regiments of the line, No. 12, and by 100 volunteers of the town, with two light field pieces. In the conflict which ensued, and which lasted an hour, the English were worsted and forced to retire, having lost a great many in killed and wounded, and being obliged to tow two boats, disabled, from want of men to row them.

One boat, with twenty two men, remained in the hands of the Russians. Four of these prisoners were wounded, and in the boat were five corpses, among which was the body of an officer. The prisoners asserted that many dead had been thrown overboard. A gun of heavy calibre was also taken with the boat, besides muskets and other munitions of war. The loss of the Russians was inconsiderable, amounting only to four men slightly wounded.

[From the London Times, June 24.]

We regret to state that advices from the Baltic fleet to the 21st fully confirm the intelligence of the disastrous affair at Gamla-Karleby. In attempting to effect a landing, a detachment of the crews of the Odin and Vulture were repulsed, with a loss in killed, wounded, and missing, of 64 men.

RUSSIA.

A letter from St. Petersburg, of the 17th, in the Post Ampt Gazette, says: "The bad news from the theatre of war—several general wounded, Prince Paskiewitch having received a contusion which has obliged him to give up the command and retire to Jassy—has produced a profound impression on the Emperor and his suite. His Majesty, when he received it, was in the square in which military exercises take place, inspecting some fortified works which had just been terminated; but he immediately returned to the palace, and convoked the Minister of War, and such princes of the imperial family as are of full age. After a long conference with him, these personages withdrew, and Count Nesselrode was summoned.

The Emperor wrote an autograph letter to Prince Paskiewitch, to express his regret at what had happened, and to inquire after his health. It is still very doubtful that the chief command will be left to Prince Gortschakoff. The blockade of the coasts of the Baltic and the Black Sea may be said to have nearly destroyed the ordinary navigation; and the importance of the damage done may be judged from the fact that, in 1852, the number of vessels with cargoes which entered the Baltic ports was 8,800, and of those which left nearly the same; whilst in the Black Sea there entered 2,600 vessels. The united tonnage in both seas was about 1,500,000.

Another Fern Leaf.

"Fanny Fern" has got her dander up, and no mistake, in consequence of an ill-natured criticism on her "Leaves," by the editor of the London Athenæum. The Athenæum man says that "Fanny" has "not a contry bone in her body," and that her affinities are with "the up-stairs, down-stairs and back-stairs of town;" to which that spunky woman replies:

"Not a country bone in my body!" Ask the 175,000 buyers of Fern Leaves. (I go by my publishers' advertisements as to numbers, keeping a sharp eye, with a view to a settlement by and by!) Ask them if Fern Leaves show that I do not love my country? Johnny, dear, I was "raised" in the country; not far from a spot called Bunker Hill, where, if I remember aright, you once received a shot. How it came to hit you in the back is best known to yourself."

Not content with this shot, the incensed little woman rates Bull about his war policy after this fashion:

"And then there is Kossuth's Sheffield expose of your miserable, shuffling, pussy-cat war policy—despatching your armies just in time to be too late for action, and allowing your fleets to hover about points from which Russia cannot be vitally menaced, instead of shaking them all out of their boots, as you ought, and as we did you, Johnny, after that little tea party I before alluded to."

If Fanny's nails are as sharp as her pen, what a blessed time her next husband will have of it.

A deaf mute named Woodward, of Williamantic, Conn., while walking on the track was run over and killed by the locomotive on Wednesday. On Monday, a man who also killed near Syracuse, while walking on the railroad track.

At Guernsey, Ohio, wheat has fallen to dollar per bushel.

Thirty six deaths have occurred thus far from the railroad massacre near Baltimore.

Two serious accidents occurred on the Reading Railroad, on Friday, by which a number of persons were seriously injured, and two killed outright.

Every shell fired by an army during seige operation, costs, with the powder with which the mortar is charged, the sum of $8—enough to support a poor family a fortnight.

Clark Mills has received an order for an equestrian statue of Gen. Jackson, to be placed in Jackson square, New Orleans. Mr. Mills is to receive for the statue the munificent sum of $38,000.

Col. Samuel W. Downing is being tried before a Court-Martial at Philadelphia, for carrying Com. Coe, of the Buenos Ayrian squadron, to Rio Janeiro, after he (Coe) had betrayed his ships into the hands of the Dictator. It is proceeding in the usual slow-coach style.

The U. S. screw-steamer, San Jacinto, after receiving new machinery, &c., made a trial trip last week. Her working came up to expectation, and her maximum speed is now pronounced to be nine knots an hour—or more than that of any screw-steamer in the British Navy.

Mr. Stephenson's tubular bridge over the Nile, at Benha, will be fit to rank by the side of the imperishable monuments of ancient Egyptian industry. It is to have ten arches, and is to be 870 feet in length. Unlike the Brittania bridge, the railway will pass over the top.

Rev. John Maclean, D. D., who was inaugurated President of Princeton College, at its last commencement, in his address upon the occasion, in speaking of the institution, remarked that it has educated more than 600 Clergymen; more than 200 Judges, Statesmen and National Congressmen.

Mr. Thomas H. Barlow, of Lexington, Ky., the inventor of the Planetarium, has recently invented an improvement in the nail cutting machine, which is said to be of great value, and for which he has obtained a patent. His improvement cuts twice as many nails in the same time as the old machine, and saves the labor of several men.

The Boston Post says that five women will spread out their clothes so as to take up the entire side of an omnibus, thus occupying the room designed for eight, and then if another woman presents herself at the door, they will cry out: "You can't come in here! There ain't any room;" but if a man wants to get in, they can make room any number, right close between them. The fellow is a brute and should be banished to Robinson Crusoe's island for life.

A well dressed boy was, a few days ago, before the Police Court in New York, charged with firing a piece of fire works called a "serpent." The boy pleaded not guilty, and called a brother, who, although of different age, was precisely of the same size—about a year and a half ago, and have never enjoyed so good health for years as we have since that time. I had not taken a single bottle before that disease of the stomach which so distresses the dyspeptic was relieved, and I have felt nothing of it since that time. My wife was also relieved from a chronic disease of the liver, which had been of several years standing, by the use of your Patroleum.

200 BUILDING LOTS FOR SALE, lying between the boroughs of Stewartstown and Sharpsburgh.—The undersigned has recently had surveyed off into Building Lots that very eligible and beautiful lot of land, containing about 20 acres, lying on the bank of the Allegheny river, between the above towns, and will offer them for sale at public auction, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of July, at 3 o'clock, P. M. For beauty of scenery and salubrity of location, this property is not excelled in the county, and it offers inducements to purchasers not only to men of moderate means, but also to those wishing to purchase a site for a suburban residence, rarely to be met with. The bridge across the Allegheny at or near Sharpsburgh, (and which is now under contract,) will be located on this property, connecting with the Lawrenceville and Sharpsburgh Plank Road, and bringing it within 4 miles of the Court House when the Allegheny Valley Railroad is finished, and it is expected to have the cars on this fall; the station will be near the bridge, and will thus enable persons to leave home and be at their place of business in a few minutes. Two regular daily packets from Sharpsburgh to Pittsburgh pass through the property several times a day, and the Belcher Line of Omnibuses also pass it every hour. Plots of the grounds will be ready for delivery in a few days.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ Notice.—All persons interested in the improvement of the Ohio river, will please take notice that a public meeting will be held at the MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, on TUESDAY, July 11th, at 2 o'clock, P. M. Shippers, Steamboat Men, and others, are requested to attend, as business of great importance will be brought before the meeting.

☞ Scrofula.—It is due to KIER'S Petroleum to say that it has been known to completely eradicate every vestage of this dreadful disease in less time than any other remedy, and at less cost or inconvenience to the patient.

The thousands of certificates in the hands of the proprietor, many of which are from well known citizens of the city of Pittsburgh and its immediate vicinity, go to show clearly and beyond all doubt, that KIER'S PETROLEUM is a medicine of no common value, not only as a local remedy in Paralysis, Rheumatism, Deafness, loss of Sight, but as a valuable internal remedy, inviting the investigating physicians, as well as the suffering patient, to become acquainted with its merits.

Those having a dread of mixtures are assured that this medicine is purely natural, and is bottled as it flows from the bosom of the earth.

The following certificate is copied from a paper published at Syracuse, N. Y., and bears date August 5, 1852, to which is also appended the certificate of the celebrated D. Y. Foot, M. D., of Syracuse:

This may in truth certify, that I have been so badly afflicted with Scrofula for the last seven years that most of the time I have been unable to attend to any kind of business, and much of the time unable to walk and confined to my bed, and have been treated nearly all the time by the best Physicians our country affords; I occasionally got some relief, but no cure, and continued to grow worse until Dr. Foot recommended me to try the Petroleum, or Rock Oil, as everything else had failed. I did so without faith at first, but the effect was astonishing; it threw the poison to the surface at once, and I at once began to grow better, and by using seven bottles I have got a cure worth thousands of dollars.

MRS. NANCY M. BARKER.

This may certify that I have been acquainted with Kier's Petroleum, or Rock Oil, for more than a year, and have repeatedly witnessed its beneficial effects in the cure of Indolent ulcers and other diseases for which it is recommended, and can with confidence recommend it to be a medicine worthy of attention, and can safely say that success has attended its use where other medicine had failed.

☞ Indigestion and Liver Complaint CURED BY KIER'S PETROLEUM.—Read the following letter from Rev. O. DICKINSON, a Missionary in Oregon:

MR. J. M. KIER—Dear Sir: Myself and wife having been greatly benefitted by the use of your Petroleum, I wish to send you and have a box of ten or three dozen bottles. I am the Congregational Minister in this place, and several of my people are afflicted with indigestion and an inaction of the liver, the same of myself and wife, before taking your PETROLEUM, or ROCK OIL. We took several bottles—a little smile—about a year and a half ago, and have never enjoyed so good health for years as we have since that time. I had not taken a single bottle before that distress of the stomach which so distresses the dyspeptic was relieved, and I have felt nothing of it since that time. My wife was also relieved from a chronic disease of the liver, which had been of several years standing, by the use of your Petroleum.

200 BUILDING LOTS FOR SALE, lying between the boroughs of Stewartstown and Sharpsburgh.—The undersigned has recently had surveyed off into Building Lots that very eligible and beautiful lot of land, containing about 20 acres, lying on the bank of the Allegheny river, between the above towns, and will offer them for sale at public auction, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of July, at 3 o'clock, P. M. For beauty of scenery and salubrity of location, this property is not excelled in the county, and it offers inducements to purchasers not only to men of moderate means, but also to those wishing to purchase a site for a suburban residence, rarely to be met with. The bridge across the Allegheny at or near Sharpsburgh, (and which is now under contract,) will be located on this property, connecting with the Lawrenceville and Sharpsburgh Plank Road, and bringing it within 4 miles of the Court House when the Allegheny Valley Railroad is finished, and it is expected to have the cars on this fall; the station will be near the bridge, and will thus enable persons to leave home and be at their place of business in a few minutes. Two regular daily packets from Sharpsburgh to Pittsburgh pass through the property several times a day, and the Belcher Line of Omnibuses also pass it every hour. Plots of the grounds will be ready for delivery in a few days.
