DAILY MORNING POST. TUESDAY MORNING..... From Putnain's Magazine for Ju-THE JEWISH CEMETERY AT NEWPORT. If se strange it seems! These Habrews in their graves, Close by the street of this fair sea-port town; Silont backle the according up and down!

At resting all this moting up and down! The trees are white with dust, that o'er their sleep Wave their broad curtains in the south wind's breath, While underneath such leafy tents they keep Thelong, mysterious Exodus of Death. And these sepulchral atones, so old and brown, That nave with level flags their burish-place, Are like the tablets of the Law, brown dawn And broken by Moses at the mountain's base. The very names recorded here are strange.
Of föreign accent, and of different climes:
Alteres and flavors interchange
With Abraham and Jacob of old times. " Bleared be God! for he created Death!"
The mourners said! "and Death is rest and peace," hen added, in the containty of faith:
"And giveth Life, that never more shall cense." Closed are the portals of their Synagogue, No Pasims of David now the silence break. No Pasims of David now the shance orea No Rabbi reads the ancient Decalogue In the grand dialect the prophets spake. Gone are the living, but the dead remain, And not neglected, for a hand unseen. Souttering its bounty, like a summer rain. Still teeps their graves and their remambr How came they here! What burst of Christian hate. What per-ecution, merciless, and blind, prove o'er the sen—that desert, desolate— These Irhmsels and Hagars of mankind They lived in narrow streets and lanes obscure, Chetto or Judenstreet, in mirk and mire: Taught in the school of patience to endure The life of anguish and the death of fire. All their lives long, with unleavened broad And bitter heros of exite and its tears. The waxing famine of the heart they fed. And slaked its thirst with march of their tear Anotherms more units. was the cry

That rung from town to town, from street to street:
At very gate the scenarie Morder at
Was mpckof, and jecred, and spurned by Christian feet Pride and humilistion rand in hand Walked with them through the world where Trampied and braten were they as the sand, And yet usshaken as the continent. For in the background figures vague and vast, Of patriarchs and of or others rose sublime, And all the great traditions of the Past They saw reflected in the coming time. But ah! what ones has been shall be no more! The groaning earth in travail and in pain Brings forth its races, but does not restore, And the dead nations never rise again.
