Daily Morning Post.

PITTSBURGH:

FRIDAY MORNING:.....JULY 21.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR,

WILLIAM BIGLER.

FOR JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT,

JEREMIAH S. BLACK,

OF SOMERSET COUNTY.

FOR CANAL COMMISSIONER,

HENRY S. MOTT,

OF PIKE COUNTY.

MORNING POST JOB OFFICE.

We would call the attention of MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS MEN to the fact that we have just received from Philadelphia a number of fonts of new Job Type, and are now prepared to fill orders for Cards, Circulars, Bill Heads, Paper Books, Posters, and Programmes for exhibitions. All orders will be promptly filled.

News of the Day.

We call attention to the excellent letter of our Paris correspondent, which we publish in to-day's paper. The writer evidently thinks for himself, and expresses his views of European affairs with great boldness, and probably with truth. Read it through. It is well worth a perusal, and a re-perusal.

It confirms many of our own views heretofore expressed in regard to European affairs.

There were 13 deaths in Toledo, on Tuesday, from the prevailing epidemic.

Cholera is rapidly diminishing in Chicago. The Board of Health report, for Monday, shows but 9 deaths from the epidemic disease and 14 from all others—making 23 in all.

A fire occurred in Cleveland, on Canal street, early on Thursday morning. The Ragged School House, and some four or five adjoining buildings, were destroyed.

For the twenty-four hours ending at 11 o'clock on Wednesday, there were but seven new Cholera cases in Philadelphia. The disease is rapidly abating.

On our first page will be found an account of the Meagher and McMasters' fray. It resulted in the latter getting "punched" most essentially.

The Humboldt gashore on Long Island Coast, it is said, will prove a total loss. She is about four years old, of 2200 tons register, and very strongly built. With the Franklin, which was the lost last December near Halifax, she formed the New York and Havre line of steamers.

By the report of St. Louis city Register, it appears the deaths from cholera in that city last week were 138—from all other disease 144—making 282 in all. The cholera cases are considerable less than the previous week, although on Friday and Saturday the disease had again become more virulent.

RAILROAD MANAGEMENT.

The late disclosure of the astounding frauds and defalcations practised by Schuyler, Crane and others, in the management of eastern roads with which they were connected, has shaken public confidence in Rail road management and caused a severe,—and, it is feared, disasterous withholding of credit from some of our projected western roads, which were relying on advances from the east, to carry them through. But severe as is the shock to public confidence in Rail road management, if it produces the legitimate result, and cause a thorough and searching investigation, by the Stockholders into the accounts of their Presidents, directors and agents on all our Rail roads, it will not be without good and wholesome effects.

Under the present system of constructing roads here in the west, almost exclusively, on municipal corporation subscription, the management has doubtless become, in many cases, bad and corrupt. Directors serving without pay and with but a small amount of their individual means at stake, are either too inattentive to the duties of their station, or are tempted by the hope of gain, to become silent partners in contracts at high prices; to allow exhorbitant bills for extra work, or in some other way to endeavor to fill their own coffers out of those of the company; or it may be they content themselves with the honor of having their names connected with the directory and leave the whole management to a President, and other officers, at high salaries, without looking into or scrutinizing their acts at all, as in the case of Schuyler and the New York and New Haven road. In either case the interest of the Stockholders may be sacrificed by a want of efficiency on the part of directors; and a company united by exhorbitant expenditures for construction, or for interest, discounts, or commissions in which those who ought to look to the interests of the company, alone in making their negotiations—may have an interest paramount, because personal, in another direction.

If, therefore, the late disclosures should have the effect of making those who have the selection of the directory of our roads more careful in placing only competent and efficient men in them, and raising the standard of character for experience and integrity, of those charged with the active management of their affairs, great good will be accomplished. In making these remarks we disclaim pointing them at any particular company or individual. They are general in their character and application, and we trust that they will not fit the officers of any of our roads terminating in Pittsburgh.

A Mean and Dastardly Falsehood.

Nothing has fallen under our eye more mean and contemptible, during the present political campaign, than the deliberate and twice repeated assertion of the Pittsburgh Journal, that the Democratic State Central Committee refuse to meet the Nebraska question.

Here is what the editor of that paper says, while speaking of the whig address:

"There is no evading here of the great topic of the day, which the Democratic State Committee in testimony of both cowardice and dishonesty, dared not even name."

Now, as we happen to be a member of the Democratic State Committee, we consider the above base falsehold a little personal, and answer it accordingly.

The proof of its falsehood is this: The Democratic State Committee, which met in June, resolved to publish four addresses during the campaign; and immediately published in the papers of the party, a card to that effect, naming the subjects of the several addresses, and the order in which they would appear. Here is the card. It appeared in the papers, the Post among others, on the 18th day of June last:

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The Democratic State Central Committee, agreeably to previous arrangement, met at Boehler's Hotel, in Harrisburg, on Thursday, the 16th instant, and after a full and free interchange of sentiment, it was resolved that a more efficient organization of the Democratic party be effected, and that addresses be issued on the following subjects:

1st. The new position of the Whig party and their allies.

2nd. The principles of non-intervention and popular sovereignty, as settled by the compromise measures of 1850, and embodied in the Nebraska and Kansas bills.

3d. Review of the measures of the present and late State administrations.

4th. Federalism and Whiggery from the days of Hamilton down to the present day.

Resolved, That the foregoing proceedings be published in the Democratic papers of the State.

J. ELLIS BONHAM, Chairman.

GEO. C. WALKER, Secretary.

It will be seen then, that a month ago the Democratic Committee stated that the Nebraska question would be met. But they chose to consider another question in the first address, and make that the subject of a second address. The first has appeared, the second will be out in a few days. It is under such circumstances that the editor of the Journal makes the base charge above copied.

It is a falsehood so mean as to deserve no further notice, however often it may be repeated.

Our cause is just, and needs not the support of falsehoods.

THE ADDRESS OF THE WHIG STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

This long expected address has at length come to light. It appeared in the Journal and Gazette of yesterday. If we were not crowded with other matter—infinitely more interesting—we would certainly publish it, and let our readers judge for themselves whether it is not the most disgraceful medley of bungling rhetoric, shallow pretences, skulking equivocations, and shameless falsehoods that ever appeared in print.

To show that this language is justified, we will refer to a few of its assertions.

It says:

"The national government, with its overflowing treasury, is now busy robbing the people of Pennsylvania by wasting the public domain."

Seldom has an assertion been made so directly in opposition to facts and the truth.

A bill passed, during the present session of Congress, granting ten million acres of the public domain for the support of the Indigent Insane. Nearly all the Whig members voted for it, and their votes secured its passage. President Pierce vetoed that bill, because he considered it unconstitutional, and an unjustifiable "waste of the public domain." The Whig papers villified the President for that veto; and now their State Committee says that the national administration is busily employed in "wasting the public domain." Is it the truth, or a falsehood?

But again. The Homestead bill passed the House of Representatives a few weeks ago by a large majority. The Whig members from Pennsylvania voted for it. The Whig presses favored it. The Gazette, of yesterday, the very paper that contains the Whig address, has the following language on the subject:

"The Whig party of this county and of this State, has endorsed the principles of free Homesteads, and adhere to it almost to a man."

The opponents of the Homestead bill say it is an unjustifiable "waste of the public domain." The Whig papers say the President will veto the bill if it passes the Senate. Yet the Whig State Committee says that the national administration is "busy in robbing the people of Pennsylvania by wasting the public domain." No one is authorised to say the President will veto that bill. We hope it will pass, and become a law, unless good reasons can be shown to the contrary. Northern Democrats generally are in favor of it, except in the abolition States of New England. Mr. Dawson, a Democratic member from Western Pennsylvania, drew up, introduced, and ably and earnestly advocated the bill. But the Whig State Committee appears now to be committed against the measure. They talk mysteriously of a "waste of the public domain."

But we find another still more astonishing assertion in this Whig address. Here it is:

"The opponents of the National and State Administrations in Pennsylvania are united on the common ground of resistance to sectional strife."

The opponents of the National and State Administrations are the Whigs, Abolitionist, &c. Whigs and Abolitionists opposed to sectional strife, forsooth!! Yet they are bending all their efforts to form a sectional party—a Northern party—hostile to the South. That is a "sectional" party of the most dangerous kind; and if successful would engender sectional strife inevitably fatal to the Union. Their presses openly advocate the formation of such a sectional party. Greeley, of the Tribune, urges it. The Gazette and Journal, of Pittsburgh, urge it. They declare they will act no longer with the Whigs of the South; but will join the Abolitionists of the North, and form a Northern party. The Whig papers of Pittsburgh, and of other parts of the State, teem with articles advocating this scheme, and showing that the Union is of no value to the North. Nothing so purely sectional has ever before been proposed. Nothing so contrary to the earnest recommendation of Washington has ever been attempted in this country; and nothing so dangerous to the Union, and all the best interests of the republic, has ever been devised. Greeley endeavors to incite some incendiary to burn down the Capitol at Washington; and that traitorous appeal the editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette cackles forth a frantic response that he "goes further." And the editor of the Journal declares he is comforted when white men are murdered by negroes and Abolitionists. The Abolitionists and Whigs of this county have combined; and so far this sectional party is formed. Yet in the face of all these notorious facts, facts known and published to all the world—the Whig State Committee have the unparalelled audacity to announce that they are united on the "ground of resolute opposition to sectional strife."

An insult to the people of this commonwealth, more palpable, more gross, more wicked, was never uttered. Is it not a falsehood?

The Address further says that the Nebraska bill is "the only measure of the present session." We quote the exact words. Over thirty bills, of general interest, have been passed and become laws. Yet this Whig Committee says the Nebraska bill is "the only measure of the session." Comment is unnecessary. There is but one word that can truly characterize this assertion, and it is a word of three letters.

The Address next charges on Governor Bigler the defeat of the sale of the public works. Governor Bigler signed the bill, published notice for bidders, and received not a single bid. Yet he is charged in this Address with preventing a sale!! Oh, shame, where is thy blush! The word of three letters applies again most emphatically.

The Address next charges the Democracy with a design to divide the school fund. During the last session of the Legislature a new school law was passed, providing for the entire integrity of the school fund, and even repealing all sections of the old law that could give the slightest ground of apprehension that the school funds might be divided. This new law was drawn up by a Democratic Senator; was passed by a Democratic Senate and House, the Whigs voting for it; and was signed by Governor Bigler. In this I believe he will not. He may decline to fight Austria, England and France combined, in regular order, but he will keep them on his frontiers until starvation and winter's icicles drive them home; and in the meantime he will turn upon Austria and set up Hungary, build up poor Ireland, spread the seeds of discontent over Europe, and as he can, fire the Monarchial thrones built by oppression and royalty.

You may depend upon it, no more mercenary and unholy objects ever stimulated any people to a war, than that now moving England. It is to attain the command of those powerful resources which will enable her to control the world. that will enable her to say to the nations of America, "you shall," and "you shall not;" and crush out every spark of republicanism in Europe. As to France,—lovely France, as Nature would have her; but poor, God-forsaken France, as her monarchs have made her,—she is only to be used as the instrument to build up England's power. If the people of France could to-day command it, her armies would be brought home at once. They have no zeal, no interest in his war, and well they know it. Napoleon, who is a shrewd man; who is as pure an aristocrat as ever breathed, and whose heart never was guilty of one Democratic throb, feels it necessary to his success to add military fame to his character, and burns to revenge the misfortunes of his dead uncle for the reverses of 1812, and for this, three hundred thousand Frenchmen,—whose scanty earnings by honest toil are needed at home, to keep from penury their helpless fathers, mothers, sisters and children,—are to be dragged to the sick wast, hardship, and death, for one cent per day each; while their nation is suffering from increased taxation, debts, and calumny. Frenchmen feel, but they dare not express, the utter loathing they feel for this useless and criminal interference in this war. What boots it to the four out of every five men in France, who can, under the oppressive exactions of their Government, only earn enough,—by harder toil than is known on the cotton plantations of Georgia,—to keep body and soul together, whether if Turkey is sick, about to die and be buried, England or Russia is to possess the dead man's effects? They know well that when the hour arrives when England no longer desires or needs the maintenance of this unnatural, illegitimate, bastard alliance, she will kick the too credulous French from her embraces, as the same garbling, silly, facetious, and insignificant creatures they advertised them before. Mots, Mon Dieu, Mon Dieu, the French nation never committed so great an error in all her unfortunate history, as she has in this last act; and so the future will prove. But where there is no freedom; no liberty; where every third man is dressed in regimentals, and armed at the expense of the other two, to keep those two down to the condition of slaves, what can you expect? France is in the beginning of her worst years of trouble. But enough on this subject.

While on a visit to Bordeaux recently, I was invited to join a party for the purpose of visiting the famous chateau of Montesquiou, some twelve miles from that city. Among the party was the American Consul, Mr. Bowen, and his estimable lady, the Vice Consul, Mr. Bonnett, of your city, who looked the same "Old Bonnett" as when at home, an accomplished young lady from New Orleans, whose name I forget, to whom Mr. Bonnett, I fancied, was particularly attentive, and some others, and a most delightful day I spent. It was on an occasion unknown to our country. At the Catholic church nearithe chateau, by a vote of the parishioners, one young lady was chosen as the Queen of the day, who was crowned with great ceremony, and upon whom, for her religious zeal and virtues, a gift of five hundred francs was conferred. Following this was a grand country dance. This ceremony occurs annually.

The chateau is known as one of the oldest and most singular in Europe, and having never seen one of the old Baronial castles I had so often read of, I visited it with great curiosity. It is situated in the middle of a large park, which is beautiful in the extreme. The castle is entirely surrounded by water—or, as it is called, a moat—which is very deep, and accessible only by three iron bridges, which can be swung from their moorings in an instant; thus the house can be made secure against approach. The building is very high and includes several towers. There in his room is the identical desk, writing materials, bed, chairs, curtains, &c., used by the distinguished writer and philosopher, near two hundred years ago, precisely as he left them. The chateau is in a fine state of preservation, and looks as if time could not crumble it. It is inhabited by one of his descendants of the same name.

After enjoying a hearty dinner, with the luscious wines of France, we returned to the city. But, for the present, you have read enough, I suspect, and I will close.

Your friend, as ever,

* * *

No Whig Party in Ohio.—There is no Whig party in Ohio now, the members of that defunct organization who recently assembled at Columbus as an anti-Nebraska Convention, having determined to drop the fatal cognomen. A free soil democrat received one of the two nominations made, and Whig papers have put at the head of their columns not "our ticket," but "Republican nominations!" We have an indistinct recollection of a party some twenty years ago calling themselves National Republicans, which received its christening from James Watson Webb—then of United States Bank notoriety, and still later of the Guyandott Coal scheme. Ohio Whigs, then, are only coming back to first principles. The National Republicans of '32 had a brief existence, as will the "Republicans" of '54. Whiggery changes its name, but its principles never.

CHOLERA.—The Detroit Inquirer reports, that, for the thirteen days of this month, 252 deaths have occurred in that city—an average of over 19 per day. The victims are chiefly foreigners. Some few of the citizens have died. The interments in that city for the month of June, were 210. Accounts lately received, show that the disease has not decreased in fatality. The Toledo Board of Health reports ten deaths by cholera for the twenty-four hours ending Saturday noon. But five deaths occurred for the 24 hours ending Monday noon. The Buffalo Republic reports cholera to be prevailing to an alarming extent in the heretofore very healthy town of Hamilton, Canada West. From twenty to twenty-five deaths per day are the number.

BANKING HOUSE AT HUNTINGDON, PA.—A banking house has been established in this thriving borough, by Messrs. Bell, Garrettson, & Co., gentlemen of Hollidaysburg and Huntingdon. The members of the firm, with whom we are personally acquainted, are gentleman of integrity and extensive means, and, as there is no such an institution in that part of the State, it cannot fail to liberally reward its enterprising projectors. See advertisement in another column.

Health of Chicago.

It will be seen by the report of the Board of Health, that the Cholera is steadily diminishing Yesterday was intensely hot, but we did not hear that the weather had any material effect on the general health. We trust our citizens will continue to be prudent in their diet and exercise in the hot sun, cleanse their premises thoroughly, and above all things not get frightened—and there is no more danger here than anywhere else. There's our firm conviction. Cheerfulness is the best possible tonic.

In Sydney N. S. W., Yankee ice is sold about the streets, and the thoroughfares are watered by Americans, under contract.

Sir Charles Fitzroy, Governor-General of Australia, has a salary greater than the President of the United States. He lives in great splendor at his palace at Sidney.

Cholera morbus and congestion of the lungs, the Cincinnati papers say, are prevailing epidemics in that city. These are probably other names for cholera.

☞ This is the Remedy.—MORSE'S INVIGORATING ELIXIR OR CORDIAL.—If there be "a special providence in the fall of a sparrow," so is there also in the plucking of an herb. What now would is the condition of thousands, if Dr. Morse, in his oriental wanderings, had not discovered the plant which gives to his INVIGORATING ELIXIR OR CORDIAL its extraordinary potency to functional diseases? He found the production growing and in use among a race remarkable for longevity and for exemption from the harrassing diseases of civilized life. He made many inquiries as to the effect produced by this herb, and the replies convinced him that it possessed restorative and vitalizing properties heretofore unheard of, except in fable. Having concentrated the juices of the plant, and combined it with other vegetable extracts, he commenced experimenting with the compound upon himself and others. Finally he presented to the world the Invigorating Elixir; and what is all his fame as a philosopher and traveler, compared with that which he will derive from the introduction of this rejuvenating preparation? Age and decrepitude feel new life stirring within them, under the influence of this unrivalled exhilerant. The trembling, shaking, despairing, strengthless victim of nervous disease is enabled to throw off the incubus that was pressing him to the earth; the dyspeptic patient feels his appetite return, and the power of digestion with it: and woman, suffering under the tortures of hysteria, or any of the debilitating complaints or disabilities which belong to her sexually, experiences in every fibre of her shattered system the restorative effects of this peerless remedy.

The Cordial is put up, highly concentrated, in pint bottles. Price three dollars per bottle, two for five dollars, six for twelve dollars.
