article in the Philadelphia Ledger, apon the feetivities of the German Turner Bund, has some hints that may be useful to those who are determined to abelish, by law, all things which, when indulged in, lead to vice. Says that paper : In Grance, Germany, and other European countries, means for a rational recrediton are provided at the public expense. But in England and the United States, ideislators have practically ignored this great want; and the consequence is, that the working mea, there and here, fly to taverns for relief, partly because of the special pleasure to be derived from conversation with persons of their own class there, and partly for the stimulating effect on their jaded hodies of what they drink.

But nearly all originate in, or are sympathetic with, this ignoring of the necessity for relexation. It will be in vain permanently to put down drunk-appears and water truth. with the in van permanenty to put down drunk, enness until our philanthropists and reformers go more to the root of affairs than they are now doing. They may tread the fire out, but it with break forth again and continue flaring up from its ashes as often as they attempt extinguishing it, until the combustible matter itself is de-

Rich men, or even men in middling circum-Rich men, or even men in middling circumstances, cannot always comprehead this need of recreation, for they get either a surfeit of it; or at least enough to still an inordinate craving. But if they would try their hand, for a year or two, at working ten hours a day, they would then know what it is really to thirst for recreation. Lyceums and reading rooms supply, in part, and to some natures, the needed relief. But to other persons there is no relaxation in the pursuits afforded by such institutions. To these, societies like the Turner Bund, or other associations for harmless amusement, would be a capital resource.

a capital resource. AN EXPRAGRIMARY STORY.—A gentleman living at Elk Run, in the lower end of this county, has the good fortune to possess the most remarkable grimalkin yet known of the cat kind. In body it is of unusual length, its legs like those of a bench legged fice. The fur is of a reddish color, the whole beautified with black spots and streaks of different figures; they are long is in the back, and round in the belly and laws. Black stripes run across the ears, which are very long and tipped at the end with a blue tuft of bair. Its physiognomy is fierce, and its nature savage. Ordinarily it is perfectly docile, and like Wormley's yery sensible cat, never says a word, though he answers readily (by the way of his tail) to the name of "Billy."

His master's house being infested with snakes, which had been bred in a neighboring stone fence, he took it into his head to eschew snot game as rate and mice, and make war upon the snakes, all which he soon destroyed. Having acquired a teste for this kind of sport, he extended the field of his operations, frequently making excursions more than a mile distant from the house, and returning each and every day with a snake ranging from two to seven feet in length. He has continued this practice of the state of the snake ranging from two to seven feet in length. He has continued this practice of the snake ranging from two to seven feet in the snake ranging from two to seven fee with a snake ranging from two to seven feet in length. He has continued this practice offir eight weeks. On one occasion he returned to the house much fatigued and perfectly wet and covered with saliva. It was supposed he had encountered one of those large, but rare ser-pents, known as the Goobat. This turned out to be true, for the day thereafter, Mr. Harrey B. Balls found the snake dead, and signs of a readful conflict on the sand. This class of eerponts is a native of Eastern Virginia, with very large heads and great jaws—the mouth is armed with cutting crooked teeth, among which are two longer than the rest, placed in the forepart of the upper jaw. All around the mouth is a scaly border; and the All around the mouth is a scaly border; and the eyes so large that they give it a terrible aspect. The forehead is covered with large scales. Each side of the belly is marbled with large square spots of chestnut color; in the middle of which is a spot perfectly round, and like burnished gold. They have been known to swallow small pigs, much rats, opossums, &c. They avoid the sight of man, and consequently are rarely seen. Indeed, the existence of the Goobat has been doubted by many.

The cat still continues his war upon the snakes. These facts may not gain credence at a distance, but they are so well known and ttested, that no one in the neighborhood doubts them for a moment.—Warnenton Flag.

EMIGRATION OF COLORED PROPLE.—A convention of the colored men of the United States and Canada, who are in favor of emigration to another country, and the founding of a State of their own, was held at Cleveland last week. About 140 delegates were present, and Bev. Wm. Munroe, of Michigan, presided. South
