usual supply of wheat, flour and other products by the rivers. A rise of water may soon be expected ; and large amounts of provisions will doubtless come in on the first good stage of water. The demand for Pittsburgh manufactures

this year cannot fall much belos any former years. They are generally articles of necessity ; such as farming utensils, iron, nails, glass and other articles, that must be purchased every year throughout the west ; and the west is abundantly able to purchase them. There can be no doubt that the large purchaser of provisions at high prices last year from the west, scattered large amounts of money over that whole region. Notwithstanding the talk of tight money markets in the cities, the country must be olerably well supplied. There is now more, money in the country than ever before: and it is more generally and equally distributed. There is, then, abundant means to purchase all needed supplies of manufactures, and there will probably be about as active a demand as usual. Our merchants and manufacturers then may prosper. The steambosts can hardly expect as active imployment as last year. Every means of conrevence was fully employed then, to carry for ward the produce to the seaboard for shipment to Europe. A large amount of the shipping in the Atlan | The Whole Democratic Ficket Elected, tio ports is idle, and freights are low. The same causes will affect somewhat the steamboat interests fon our lakes and rivers. But, still more will they affect the railroads. Last year the Penasylvania railroad was crowded to its utmost capacity with freights going eastward for several months. The amount of freights we are prepared to announce to-day our belief, from returns thus far, that, as far as Lucas will doubtless be greatly reduced this year compared with the last : and all the railroad com panies will have to be content with somewhat reduced profits. They may expect the profits of ordinary years. Last year was an extraordinary one for them. And now a word more about prices. We see no reason why beef and other meats in our markets should continue to bear such high prices. Beef cattle and sheep, we are told, can be bought unusually low. The time for paying 50 cents, or 40, or even 80 cents a pound for butter cannot last much longer." The fall feed must be now in a tolerable condition ; and the market is beginning to be better supplied with butter. Milk, we believe, is seven or eight cents a quart. Is there any occasion now for double the former price T

Whoever pays sixty-two cents per peck for potatoes, gets less of nutritious food than the same money would buy in wheat flour, or corn

Some of these prices will have to come down in spite of combinations and hucksters. We have laws against huckstering ; but, unfortunately, we have nobody to enforce them. We have been promised some facts in regard to the huckstering business of this city, which will be published when received; and will show that our citizens are compelled to pay exhorbitant
